

FLARES AND FLICKERS

"Bumps, Bounces, Thrills and Falls," tells the story about Peck's Bad Boy, trampoline bar and casting performers. Considerable comedy results from the up in the air fun which they introduce. On the vaudeville at the Bligh today.

Many interesting ways of the Chinese in this country who attempt to Americanize their native dress, are shown in "A Tale of Two Worlds," a story by Gouverneur Morris, produced by Goldwyn, which comes to the Liberty theater for four days, commencing today.

menting today. In addition to wearing American furs with their native costume, the Chinese girls frequently wear a sort of Oxford shoe, cut from heavily embroidered Chinese brocade.

The long heralded production "Peck's Bad Boy," with lovable little Jackie Coogan in the stellar role, will be the feature offering at the Liberty theater next week, commencing its engagement on Sunday.

As the mischievous lad who makes a lot of trouble for his "Pa" and sets a whole town "by the ears," Jackie Coogan is said to give an even more delightful and amusing impersonation than that which brought him fame and fortune in Chaplin's "The Kid."

In "Wet Gold," which comes to the Liberty theater for three days beginning Thursday, a submarine is used that was built especially for this production by Mr. J. Ernest Williamson. The submarine is 150 feet long and operates exactly like a war-submarine. The picture, "Wet Gold," is being distributed by Goldwyn.

"Be as grotesque as you please, meet with experience as unkind or absurd as possible, but be natural."

That is Duster Keaton's recipe for comedies, and if those who follow his productions will take the trouble to analyze them, it will be found, he asserts, that he never gets outside the realm of possibility, nor does he or those in his cast ever act in a manner that is unnatural.

The latest of the sombre-faced comedian's two-reel chucklers, "Hard Luck," will be shown at the Liberty theater beginning today.

"The Midnight Riders," Richard Kipling's new production, is an elaborate screen version of the story of that name by Alvin J. Neitz, which is laid in Wyoming and deals with the sheep raisers of Paradise Valley.

"The Midnight Riders" will open an engagement at the Bligh theater on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and is said to be an unusual combination of rapidly moving melodrama and beautiful moving in settings that abound in magnificent views of Wyoming's valleys with sheep covering hill and dale as far as the eye can reach.

terizations of the year are to be seen in the work of George Berrell and Gertrude Clair as the small town parents in "Society Secrets," the attraction which is coming to the Bligh theater on next Sunday. The character players appear in support of Eva Novak, the star, and add to the drama and humor of this appealing story.

A cattle stampede, so realistic that even the most blasé of Broadway's motion picture fans were moved to applause, is a feature of "The Sky Pilot," a Catharine Curtis production, released as an Associated First National attraction which will be shown beginning soon at the Liberty theater.

Bob Robinson and Renee Pierce are seen in an amusing comedy novelty, "Gimme the Money," a fun scrap with songs and talk based on domestic quarrels. An excellent pair of jovial entertainers, can the Lowe's Hippodrome vaudeville bill at the Bligh today.

A hilarious hurricane of fun and frolic! That's Mabel Normand in her latest Goldwyn gloom-chase—"Victor Schertzinger, Fun? Speed? Thrills? Say, just watch this rip-snorting Backroom in skirts throw a bombshell of pep into high society. Just watch this lively lass lasso love! Oh, Boy! She'll coral every laugh in your system. Hope yourself a ticket to the Blank this week and get in on the one big joy stampede. At the Bligh today.

Some perilous diving and difficult swimming is done by D Dalton in "Behind Masks," adapted from E. Phillips Oppenheim's novel.

Jeanne of the Marshes, which will be presented at the Oregon Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, Miss Dalton, who has become known as one of the most athletic of women stars, does the most spectacular "stunt" work of her career in this film.

Bebe Daniels starts the action in her latest picture, "The March Hare," by catching the overland limited out of Los Angeles several minutes after it has left. She overtakes the train at Pasadena and from then on there is not an instant during which this vivid little heroine is not doing something equally daring and impossible, and coming through her adventures triumphantly.

He followed her to the tropics to arrest her for murder, only to fall in love with the woman himself. This is one of many strong situations in "The Woman God Changed," a new Paramount-Cosmopolitan picture which comes to the Oregon theatre next Sunday.

E. K. Lincoln is the detective and Seena Owen the woman in the case. The support is eminently satisfactory.

Conway Tearle, idol of the screen, has come into his inheritance in stardom, and his first photoplay, "Marooned Hearts," produced as a National Picture, is to be shown at the Grand Theatre for 2 days beginning next Saturday.

Tearle, for many seasons, has been seen in support of practically every feminine star of the silver-sheet. Now he is a star in his own right, and his first starring vehicle is said to be the sort of virile picture in which he appears at his best.

The story is of a man, a woman and a human brute who are thrown together on a tropical island by the fortunes of the sea. And the woman is the one mem-

Wedgwood Nowell, starring in "813," the Robertson-Cole super-special which will be shown for the last time tonight at the Grand Theatre, gives the best performance of his career as the fascinating Arsene Lupin, master crook and detective. "813" is a screen adaptation of Maurice Leblanc's famous story.

TACOMA COUPLE TO RETURN HOME
Smith and Wife, After Being Held Here, Are Asked To Turn Back

After being held for several hours yesterday, G. C. Smith and his wife were released from the custody of local police yesterday and were instructed to return to their home in Tacoma where, seemingly through some misunderstanding, Smith faces a charge of larceny.

Local police arrested the couple on instructions given them by the Tacoma authorities. After they had been held for some time the Tacoma authorities called and notified them that they did not have a charge sufficient to warrant their return to that city. They asked, however, that the couple be released with the understanding that they return and clear up the matter. They readily agreed to do that and started on the trip immediately upon their release.

Smith said that they were on their vacation and after a trip south were on their way back home at the time they were arrested here. They were arrested while passing the police station.

More information concerning the airplane involved in the suit of R. M. Lloyd against John Green and J. L. Van Doren was filed yesterday in a reply entered by R. M. Lloyd.

As plaintiff in the action, Mr. Lloyd asserts that he had entered into a contract to pilot the plane during state-fair week at Salem, September, 1920, and that he was to receive $75 a week for his work, he to assume all personal risk and his employers to be responsible for chance damages to the machine.

The reply asserts that the defendants failed to live up to an agreement to keep the building clear of other planes and that as a result the airplane was wrecked during an attempt to effect a landing. The action involves Lloyd's efforts to collect several hundred dollars alleged due for services as pilot and mechanic.

ANTI-ALIEN LAW ATTACKED

Constitutionality of Washington Japanese Legislation Questioned

CASE GETS INTO COURT

Action is Brought by Frank Terrace, White River Valley Farmer

TACOMA, Wash., July 14.—Constitutionality of Washington state's anti-alien land law was attacked in the federal court here in June by Frank Terrace, a white land-owner of the White River valley, near here. The case was heard by Circuit Judge W. B. Gilbert of Portland and District Judges E. E. Cushman of Tacoma and Jeremiah J. Neterer of Seattle.

Attorneys for Mr. Terrace attacked in particular a section of the law making it a gross misdemeanor to sell or lease land to an alien, and asked for a federal injunction against Attorney General L. L. Thompson to prevent him from enforcing the statute. They argued that the state law is in contravention of the treaty between the United States and Japan and that it violates the 14th amendment to the constitution in that it discriminates against Orientals on account of their color.

Japanese Sole Aim, Claim. Stress was laid on the fact that the law is aimed solely at Japanese because the statute contains a provision that an alien can buy or lease land providing "he has in good faith declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States." Counsel for Mr. Terrace pointed out that Orientals alone are not permitted to declare their intentions and therefore the statute is intended solely to curb them.

Attorney General Thompson, conducting the case for the state at the time of the arguments, denied that the state law violates the treaty with Japan. He said the treaty is solely concerned with commerce and navigation, declared that a foreigner is not allowed to own farm lands in Japan and denied that the law violates the federal constitution.

Law Passed This Year. The anti-alien land bill was passed by the last Washington legislature to give effect to a provision in the state constitution that prohibits alien ownership of land. Under the law, aliens, except those who have declared their intentions to become naturalized are prohibited from owning or leasing any lands in the state, ex-mineral lands and lands for manufacturing plants. In addition, holding companies possessing lands for aliens are made illegal and aliens inheriting lands are ordered to dispose of them within seven years. Lands illegally held under title or lease are forfeited to the state, under the terms of the law.

In addition to the provisions applying to aliens, any person who sells or leases land to an alien, who holds in trust lands for a alien or who abets a violation of the law, shall upon conviction be guilty of a gross misdemeanor. It is expected the case will go to the United States supreme court for a final decision.

J. F. HUTCHASON STAYS IN SALEM

Will Have Western Company And District as far South As Junction City

Editor of Statesman: I have severed connections with the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York and will contract with a western company. I will continue to make my home in Salem and will be in charge of all territory as far south as Junction City. I will have a good company and a desirable policy to offer.

I will have only good to say about the company I have been associated with, and urge every person for whom I wrote a policy in the Mutual Life to keep the policy in force, as it would never be to anyone's advantage to drop any company for another.

In my new connection I will have financial support which will enable me to meet my obligations as I go and wipe out any now standing against me.

A number of depositors will be arranged for among the banks and substantial deposits made in about 15 cities in my district.

All premiums collected will be deposited in the nearest bank and the money left on deposit with the banks to be loaned to their patrons.

Thanking everyone who has done business with me in the past and assuring you that I will endeavor to serve the needs of the people, I hope better in the future than in the past. Thanking you, I am, sincerely,

Henry Keene and family with their camping outfit, passed through Stayton at an early hour Saturday morning on their way to Cascade mineral springs. Mr. Keene is one of the prosperous farmers of the Shaw neighborhood.

"Henrietta," asked Mr. Meekton, "do you think votes-for-women is a complete success?"

"How can you doubt it, Leonard?"

"Perhaps I am over-anxious. But it looks as if the women voters have just put a lot of me into office, the same as before."

Washington Star. "I am no good unless I strike," said the match.

"And you lose your head every time you do strike," said the match box.—Science and Invention.
