Miss Jeanette Meredith and Miss Ruth Schulz entertained Wednesday evening with a line party at the Oregon followed by supper in the Peacock room at the Gray Belle.

The affair was given in honor of Miss Maud McCoy whose marriage will take place on Saturday and the invitation list included only those who will be members of the bridal party. Those present were: Miss Maud McCoy, Misses Gretchen Brown, Amelia Babcock, Clara Breitenstein, Jeanette Meredith and Ruth Schulz.

A party composed of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Martin and daughters, Theima and Hazel, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. McElvain and Misses Cryst-tal and Deloris Mills returned Monday from a four day's fishing trip in the Tillamook. They explored the Trask and Wilson rivers, Netarts and Tillamook.

The Yew park circle of the Ladies' Aid of the First Methodist church held their summer lawn party and picnic Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles J. Lisle, president of the General Aid which is made up of all seven local divisions of the organization. Owing to threatening weather, the attendance was not large but those present enjoyed a delightful evening and a bounteous feast.

A rather unusual but intensely interesting feature was dinner in the "gun room" of the Lisle home. This room is decorated with almost 200 firearms and other military or civilian weapons.

Mrs. Kate Reap of Vincennes, Ind., and Mrs. Susie Morrison of Atlanta, Ga., left Thursday for California, after a prolonged visit with their cousin, Mrs. Haezel Matheson, 2206 Nebraska street.

Mr. and Mrs. Reap were school friends of Mrs. N. C. Summerville of Salem, and the visitors have spent much time at the Summerville home.

Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Shipley who left Saturday, August 6, for an auto trip to California, are expected to return the first of the week.

J. H. Fry spent Wednesday in Portland visiting friends.

Miss Dorothy Hubbs of Silverton was in Salem Wednesday visiting Salem friends.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Frazee and children and Mrs. Thomas W. Neville of Portland spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Jaskoski. Mrs. Neville remained for a visit of several days, the remainder of the party returning to Portland Sunday evening.

Miss Mollie Schwabauer will spend the coming week-end at the E. D. Adams home in Silverton.

Mrs. Pay Dickinson and Opal Hewlett of Independence spent Wednesday with Salem friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnett of New York City, who have been guests at the H. Hartman home, left Tuesday night for San Francisco.

Professor and Mrs. H. E. Hewitt and children were guests of honor at a lawn party given on Tuesday evening by fellow members of the Baptist church. The affair took place on the church lawn which was brilliantly lighted by Japanese lanterns and decorated with flowers and greenery for the occasion.

A musical program furnished the principal entertainment for the evening.

Professor and Mrs. Hewitt have been active in church work here for the past two years, during which time Professor Hewitt has filled the chair of Professor of Physics at Willamette university. The family left Thursday for McMinnville where Professor Hewitt takes up his new post as Professor of Chemistry in McMinnville college.

Miss Maybelle Propp of Salem enjoyed a week's visit with Miss Lorraine Garner of Jefferson. On her return she was accompanied by Miss Garner who will spend the week-end with her.

many times before, knew that Mother Graham, in reality, would no more discharge Katie than I myself would. I would have paid no attention to her threat except that it had been preceded by a statement which my mother-in-law evidently believed, and which it behooved me to disprove. "You are mistaken about one thing," I said firmly. "Katie did not say anything at all about your hurting her feelings."

Madge Temporizes.

"She'd better not if she knows what's good for her!" she retorted, suddenly abandoning that line of attack and opening another one. "But I didn't call you up here to waste time talking about an idiot like Katie. I want to get at the bottom of something else. What has made Richard fly off at the tangent he has?"

I waited a full half-minute before answering her. I wished to be sure that my nerves were under steady control, for the controversy I saw in front of me, a controversy made more difficult for me by the fact that I was completely in the dark as to what Dicky had done.

"I am not aware that Richard has flown off at any tangent," I said quietly. "I left so early this morning that we had no chance for any conversation."

I didn't think it necessary to add that Dicky had passed me on the stairs without speaking, that earlier in the morning before he had said that he would not speak to me again until I explained my emotion over the newspaper, but my mother-in-law evidently took no stock in what I did say.

"Tommyrot!" she exclaimed. "You can't pull any wool over my eyes like that. You've had some sort of row, and it's over that red-headed teacher who came here last night. Good heavens! Margaret, I know you have some mighty silly ideas in your head, but I never thought you'd be idiot enough to get jealous of that old maid and raise such a row as to drive your husband out of his own house."

I think my jaw must have dropped in sheer amazement at her words, for before I could frame an indignant protest against her ridiculous theory she had advanced to the attack again. "Don't stand there with your mouth open like a ninny, as if you didn't know what I was talking about!" she commanded acidly.

Dicky's Message.

I clicked my teeth together with a little snap, resolved to keep silent until I could untwine this amazing tangle in which my mother-in-law's thoughts seemed to be meshed. Was this only her own theory, or had Dicky given her reason for her absurdity in a childish attempt to mask the real reason for our disagreement? "Richard just the same as ad-

I had no intention at all of talking more hats to you, when I stumbled on the one in the sketch and could not resist it. Anyway, though, I shall wear it right away. It will be perfectly fitting to wear it well into the autumn, for it is made of panne velvet and trimmed with a patchwork quilt design in applique leather and chenille in the gayest of colors.

Yellow kid gears are supported by peacock green foliage and cerise cherries, with an occasional turquoise oval thrown in to lend the ensemble a bit of color.

I think I should not have fallen so hard for this fascinating little hat if it had not been for the bag that kept it company in the window.

The bag is panne velvet, too, and decorated with the same luscious and colorful kid fruit outlines with chenille.

The background of both the bag and hat is broken with irregular stitches of fine gold thread that lends the richness and lustre of a brocade to the whole.

The bag is further fringed all around its irregular shape with heavy black silk fringe. The top is round, like the neck of a bottle, and there is a soft velvet handle.

I've seen a number of velvet hats lately, chiefly among the sports models.

One of my friends has just bought the most fascinating affair, and completely of velvet ribbon no more than a quarter inch in width.

CHAPTER 146

THE NOTE DICKY LEFT FOR MADGE.

Katie was watching for me at the window. She ran down the steps as the taxi drew up before me, whispered tempestuously to me before I was fairly out of the machine.

"Oh, Missis Graham, dot old yomans she mad like some spitting little cat!" She raise vun little hell all day. She say she vant see you jost so queeck as you coom in. So you plees go oop by her. I vatch me two-three hours so I tell you first."

"Thank you, Katie," I said gratefully, for I was indeed thankful to my faithful little maid for warning me of my mother-in-law's displeasure. My nerves were too raw from the strain of the day's events to enable me to withstand any unexpected irritation with equanimity.

"Oh, dot's all right!" Katie returned grandly. "You look out she no eat you oop," she murmured with a little chuckle as I passed her on my way to my mother-in-law's room, and the voluble humorous warning cheered my spirits out of all proportion to its value as I mounted the stairs.

"Is that you, Margaret?" my mother-in-law demanded superfluously as I neared her door, which was partly ajar.

"Yes, mother," I answered dutifully, pushing the door farther open, but remaining strategically in the doorway. "Did you want me?"

"You know very well I want you," she returned tartly. Haven't I seen that ape of a girl hanging around the windows all the afternoon when she ought to have been at her work, waiting her chance to tell you that I had ruffled her delicate feelings? I can tell you I'm not going to put up with that chimpanzee's impertinence another day."

I had heard this declaration mitted it when I taxed him with it this morning at the time he sprang his staying in town for a month idea on me," she went on.

"Of course, he pretended there was nothing the matter, and left a note for you as if you were friendly. But you can't fool me. Here's the note. Oh, of course, you can rush off with it if you want to, but I should think you'd have better breeding."

With an icy "Pardon me!" I stopped my involuntary movement away from the door, tore open the envelope, looked at its inclosure.

There was nothing but a blank sheet of paper in my hands!

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied, with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through the hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color, and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.
