

WHEN FURLONG STUCK BIG SHARKEY TWELVE SECONDS EASTERNER WAS INITIATED

When Charles Wellington Furlong, soldier, university professor, world hunter and artist, and a lot of other interesting things, stayed for 12 seconds on the back of Sharkey, the bucking bull, he earned the right to write what he will about the west. Sharkey was the worst bucking brute that mankind ever bred in the history of the west; no man ever really rode him to a finish, of all the dazzling riders who have made the western range famous as the hope of the best riders in the world. One of these long-bodied, ton-weight bulls, with a separate demon in every unching muscle and a grinning, wry-necked fiend in every nerve and brain cell, can put more splendid devilment into a buck-jump than all the lions and boa constrictors and all the other untamed things that came out of the ark.

Well, Furlong earned the right to write it up in his own way; and he has done it. He broke his wrist in that Sharkey contest; maybe that's why he writes curiously; maybe the wound didn't heal quite normally—anyhow, it's altogether a "different" book, his book, "Let 'Er Buck," an epic of the buck-jumping western range. It is an Oregon book, starting and ending with the Pendleton Round-Up, though incidentally rife with a thousand other rough-riding facts and fancies. It is the Rodeo and the shoutin' range done in grand opera. One listens to and enjoys the splendid arias, choruses and the soul-stirring orchestras of many an opera, mercifully written and sung in foreign tongues so that one doesn't have to ponder on the banalities of the story itself. The music-loving public a few years ago heard "The Girl of the Golden West," a rather punk story—no, not quite that; a common though thrilling every-day story, but set to music as foreign as a blast furnace is to a pond of butter, or as the devil is to holy water. It takes one a long while to reconcile such a workaday story to such wonderful singing, such crashing orchestral chords, such miraculous costumes.

"Let 'Er Buck" is indeed another such a work, in prose. It seems overdone, a glauorous, ro-

INDEPENDENCE AND MONMOUTH BRIEFS

INDEPENDENCE, Ore., Aug. 20.—(Special to The Statesman)—C. W. Henkle was in Salem yesterday.

Mrs. A. A. Henry of Salem, is visiting with relatives and friends here today. They live at Liberty and Gaines streets and expect to leave Salem about the middle of September for Dexter, Ia., and the southern part of Iowa, where they will spend the winter with relatives. In the spring they will go to Lacombe, Alberta, Canada, which place was their home prior to moving to Salem.

J. B. Ewing returned home this week after spending a fortnight in California.

Little Zane Becker celebrated his first natal day the first of the week which proved a very pleasant affair. The relatives contributed many gifts to the happy youngster.

Dr. Hanson and wife visited yesterday at Hopville with the Oscar Moore family.

S. S. Jametz, of St. Joseph, Mo., visited with his sister, Mrs. J. F. McClellan and family of Monmouth.

Otto Bristow, wife and son of Klamath Falls, were visitors several days this week with the former's cousin, Mrs. H. W. Sickafoose of Monmouth. They are thinking seriously of locating on a dairy farm somewhere in this vicinity.

C. E. Hicks of Portland, has accepted a position as manager of the tractor and implement department of the Stewart Motor Car company. He was formerly with the Ford Motor Car company of that city and is an experienced salesman.

Mrs. Helen Kirkland, a former resident of this city, but now living in Portland, is making relatives and friends a visit.

G. G. Reeves, after a visit of several days with his parents on Monmouth street, left yesterday for his home in Portland. He was accompanied by Willard Rees and Evelyn and Hulda Kurze who will visit their aunt, Mrs. G. Newton.

State Highway Engineer Herbert Nunn, has ordered the state resident engineer of this city to place signs at all points where needed along the Independence Albany-Corvallis road. This has been sadly neglected and tourists have made many complaints to the Oregon tourist and information bureau in the hope that something would be done to remedy the condition.

G. W. Thornington of Newberg, is a recent arrival in this city, who will make his home here. He is an expert in upholstering and repairing of furniture.

Mrs. J. D. Stevens was shopping in Salem Friday.

A joint birthday dinner was a pleasant event of last Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and birthday Sunday with a few invited guests for a birthday dinner nicely prepared by Mrs. Putnam. Those present were D. M. Hampton and wife, M. D. Cooper and wife and daughter of Monmouth and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Stevenson of Corvallis.

Water Applications Received by Cupper
Charles E. Drew of Klamath Falls, has filed with the state engineer application to appropriate 11 feet of water from Whiskey creek, a tributary to Klamath river for the irrigation of 800 acres of land in Klamath county. The cost of the proposed development was estimated at $2000.

Other applications received at the engineer's office follow:
By S. D. Brown of Meritt, covering the appropriation of water from an unnamed spring tributary to Rogue river for irrigation of a 10-acre tract and for domestic use in Josephine county.
By D. H. Horton, of Meritt, covering the appropriation of 20 second-feet from Howard creek, a tributary to Rogue river, for mining purposes in Josephine county.
By Frank Richey, of Seaside, Or., covering the appropriation of water from Kelly creek for irrigation purposes.
By Charles H. Moffitt, of Malheur, covering the appropriation of water from Shasta creek for irrigation of a five-acre tract in Malheur county.

J. J. Williams, wife and daughter, Irene, of Monmouth, were in town today calling on friends. Miss Irene has just returned after spending nearly a year at various points in the east. She spent some time at her old home in Plattsville, Wis., but a greater part of her trip was spent with a sister, Mrs. Sangster, in New York City. She was glad to get back to old Oregon again.

Mary Ellen Chapman, the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Chapman, who live on Seventh street, underwent a successful operation at the Deaconess hospital the first of the week in Salem for appendicitis, rallied from the operation and is said to be getting along nicely. She had been afflicted with the trouble for over a year until an operation became imperative.

Carl Bingman and wife have moved from Boulder, Colo., to San Diego, Cal., where he is doing Y.M.C.A. work, according to a letter received by his parents this week. He was for a long time with the "Y" in the Hawaiian islands.

Only 31 cows were found afflicted with tuberculosis in the recent county test examination of dairy herds in Polk county.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Wolverton of Monmouth, left Thursday for a brief vacation at Newport.

Mrs. Clyde Hill has moved to this city from Buena Vista.

W. N. Putnam, living on the paved road between this city and Monmouth, celebrated his 62nd

DATE EXTENDED FOR SERVICE MEN

New Ruling Made by Treasury Department, Says Letter to Olcott

Under a recent ruling of the treasury department of the United States the time in which ex-service men may reinstate government insurance has been extended to January 1, 1922. This was the information received by Governor Olcott yesterday from Beasley T. Fowkes, in charge of this branch of the government service.

The government is determined that no former service man shall lose his right to government insurance through lack of knowledge of conditions," said the letter to Governor Olcott. "To this end it is initiating any medium available in an educational campaign designed to reach the former service man.

"You will be interested to know that the 13th district which is composed of the states of Idaho, Washington and Oregon leads all other districts by a wide margin in the matter of percentage of ex-service men carrying government insurance. Also that the average policy carried by the ex-service men in the 13th district is approximately $302.72 as against an average policy of $395.72 in all districts of the United States."

Engineer Returns from Inspection in South
Herbert Nunn, state highway engineer, returned to Salem yesterday after a tour of inspection in southern Oregon. He went as far south as Medford and Ashland, and subsequently visited at Klamath Falls. He reports that road operations were being rushed with all possible speed, and that practically all the contracts in southern and southwestern Oregon would be completed this fall.

"Way Down East" Shown at State Penitentiary
"Way Down East," a Griffith screen production now playing at a local theater, was presented at the Oregon state penitentiary yesterday. Practically every convict in the prison was allowed to witness the production. The prisoners, following the production, extended a vote of thanks to the Grand theater management for making the event possible.

Postoffice Driveway Soon to Be Repaired

Although the driveway on the east side of the federal grounds on which the postoffice happens to be located, is federal property and intended only for the United States mail service, it has been used to such an extent by citizens in general, that it is badly in need of repair.

And although it was and is not intended for general public service the public is not only using it but entering a complaint that the paving is not what it used to be. Hence Postmaster Hucklestein will within a short time call in contractors and have them submit bids.
