

THOUSANDS OF HOMES CERTAIN

Ex-Service Men Will Build Up State Under Loan, Says White

ABUSES FORESTALLED

Experienced Men for Appraisers Is Policy Generally Advocated

Thousands of new homes and new farms in Oregon are going to be the outstanding result of the state bonus and loan law voted by the people in last June, according to Colonel George A. White, adjutant general of Oregon and member of the Oregon bonus and loan commission, who returned here yesterday from a tour of eastern and central Oregon with Captain Lyman G. Rice of Pendleton, also a member of the commission. That the loan measure is going to result in a new era in the development of Oregon was the opinion expressed by Colonel White, after having talked with ex-service men and business men throughout the central Oregon country.

State Benefit Realized
"The attitude of the ex-service men toward the bonus and loan law was inspiring everywhere we went," said Colonel White. "They realize that the law is for the development of the state as well as for helping the Oregon men who went to war and we found a high percentage planning to make the best possible use of the loan measure. Mr. Rice agrees with me that more than 90 per cent of the ex-service men are going to take the loan for home and farm development in the points which we visited. We visited the leading cities in Hood River, Wasco, Sherman, Jefferson and Deschutes counties."

Abuses Prevented
"At every point visited we got positive assurances of co-operation in preventing any abuses of the law. I believe the ex-service men themselves will be the strongest factor in seeing to it that there is no boosting of property values in land appraisals. They realize that should communities set out to get loan funds for their own development and without too strict a regard for property values the state later would suffer heavy losses and in such an event the loan plan would be a palpable failure. "Should it prove a failure, its repeal by the people in later years would be a certainty."

Boards Methods Applauded
"Announcement of the commission's determination to conduct the loan in accordance with the strictest business methods was everywhere received with satisfaction and nowhere did we find any evidence of a pork-barrel attitude towards the state loan. At the meetings of ex-service men which we attended the sentiment expressed was one of satisfaction at the strict regulations and safeguards which the commission intends placing about the $30,000,000 building and loan association which, in effect, is exactly what the state is establishing."

"The necessity of having the highest grade and most experienced men as appraisers in the various counties was also generally accepted. In short we found that there is nothing of a pork-barrel attitude toward the state big loan fund. Any misgivings we may have had concerning the loan was dispelled by our observations in the counties visited."

Some Men Will Wait
"One particularly hopeful fact that we found was that hundreds of men who cannot take the loan this year, or possibly next, have decided to wait until they are able to meet the terms of a state loan rather than take the pittance of the cash bonus. There are men, of course, who have had such a hard time of it since their return from service that they will feel compelled to take the cash bonus."

"The ex-service men and others seemed entirely satisfied with the progress made by the commission. It was explained to them that the law became effective June 7, that the law then had to be amplified by rules and regulations, that administrative machinery had to be created and arrangements then made for a bond sale. No time has been wasted by the commission in this work and bids on the first $5,000,000 in bonds are to be opened October 10. This will make the money available early in November. In the meantime, it was explained, the commission is putting the forms of application in the hands of eligibles so that thousands of claims can be gotten in readiness for immediate payment when the cash is received from the bond sale.

Good Time Made
Colonel White and Captain Rice made the trip in the former's car, returning from Bend over the McKenzie pass. They report good roads throughout Central Oregon. "There are few ruts and no speed cops in Central Oregon so that we were able to make wonderful running time," said the adjutant general.

POWER DAM IS BEING BUILT

Mill Creek And Race To Be Improved for Distance Covering 60 Miles

Construction work is now under headway on the dam being erected by the Oregon Paper & Pulp company across Mill creek near the rear of the home of Walter Winslow, 775 North Church street. The dam will be mostly of wood-frame structure, about 100 feet wide and five or six feet high, just enough to divert the water from Mill creek into the Mill race.

Since the old flour mill burned near the mouth of Mill creek about 20 years ago, the mill race has not been used. But with the building of the dam the water will be turned into the old channel. The paper company is also preparing to do considerable dredging on Mill creek and the old mill race, as in many portions both are overgrown with willows and other shrubbery.

In all, the mill race and creek will be cleaned up in parts for a distance of about 27 miles. It is estimated that fully $100,000 will be spent by the paper company in dredging the mill race and creek and in building the dam in order that 1000 horsepower may be developed for use at the paper mill.

FUNDING BILL IS PAST HOUSE

Lower Body Approves Measure, Webster's Amendments Omitted

ANNULS FUTURE CLAIMS

Rayburn, of Texas, Declares Railroads Are Encouraged To Seek Aid

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The administration's railroad funding bill was passed tonight by the house. The measure now goes to the senate. The vote was 214 to 123. It is not the present intention of the senate to take up the bill before the recess.

An unsuccessful effort was made to eliminate a section which provides that no payments shall be made by the government to any carriers "on account of the so-called inefficiency of labor" during federal control. An amendment to strike out this provision, offered by Representative Webster, Washington, a Republican member of the commerce committee which had favorably reported the bill, was rejected 145 to 117.

Webster Attacks Clause
Another provision of the section which Mr. Webster failed to have stricken out stipulates that no funds shall be used in making settlements with the carriers which do not "forever bar such carriers from getting up any further claim, right or demands of any kind, or character against the United States growing out of, or connected with the possession, use, or operation of such carriers' property by the United States during the period of federal control."

Amendments Killed
Proponents of the measure succeeded in voting down all motions to amend the bill in important particulars and as passed, the measure, except for a few minor changes is in the form in which it was reported to the house. Contending the government was bound by previous legislation to recognize claims growing out of "labor inefficiency," Mr. Webster said passage of the bill without elimination of the clause to which he objected would be "a monstrous repudiation of a solemn contract."

Texas Man Opposes
Attacking the bill Representative

Rayburn, Texas, declared the railroads were the "pampered pets of the government." "As long as congress continues to make advances to them they will ask for more money," he said, adding: "Why don't they do something for themselves?" Representative Mondell, Republican leader, asserted enactment of the bill would do more than anything else "to hasten the day when transportation rates can be reduced."

The benefit that will accrue to the general public, he held will be infinitely greater than that of the benefit to the railroads.
