

SIR SAM HUGHES DIES IN CANADA

Canadian Minister of Militia Called by Death, Was War Leader

WORK RECEIVED PRAISE

Friction in Office Led to Accusation, Had Resigned His Post

LINDSAY, Ont., Aug. 23.—Sir Sam Hughes, former Canadian minister of militia, died at his home here early this morning.

As minister of munitions for Canada during part of the world war, General Sir Sam Hughes became one of the leading figures who helped to make the Dominion a potent and effective unit of the military forces of the British Empire in the great conflict.

He was appointed minister with the rank of major general soon after the beginning of the war and thereafter devoted his energies to turning over Canada's resources in men and supplies to the winning of the ultimate victory. In 1915 Sir Sam went to Europe where he made a tour of the sectors occupied by Canadian troops and was created a Knight Commander of the Order of Bath by King George.

Charges Dismissed

His resignation from the office of minister of munitions at the request of Sir Robert Borden prime minister, followed long continued friction with his colleagues. An investigation, conducted at Sir Sam's request, into charges that he had made profit from army contracts, completely exonerated him.

To lessen Canadian losses in the war and to promote greater efficiency, Sir Sam at one time proposed a Canadian war council, organized in England with a deputy minister of militia at its head. The Canadian government, however, held that there should be an overseas minister of militia. Disagreement over this scheme which would have abolished much of Sir Sam's power, eventually led to his retirement.

Born in Ontario

General Sir Sam Hughes was born in Darlington, Ont., January 8, 1853, and received his education in the public schools and Toronto university. Afterward he lectured on English literature and history in Toronto Collegiate institute until 1885 when he purchased the Lindsay Warder and became its editor.

As a liberal-conservative he was a member of the Canadian house of commons from 1882 to the time of his death. He was always deeply interested in military affairs and in bringing about the closest possible affiliation between Canada and the British Empire and, in many years before the world war, visited New Zealand and Australia to induce them to

Dr. Smith, several years ago, was secretary and treasurer of the Riverside Land company; secretary and treasurer of the Western Land company; at present secretary and treasurer of the Prune Orchard company. In his early years, after his high school days in Salem, he was bookkeeper for the Salem Iron works and later for the New York Life Insurance company. He has been in his present office in the United States National bank building for the past eight years.

Hewlett Has Experience. L. Hewlett, captain of Company F, Oregon national guard, is also an active candidate and will take the civil service examination. He came from Frankfort, Ky., to California in 1897, and to Salem in 1911. Before coming to Salem he was in the railway mail service, transferring to California.

Captain Hewlett served in the Salem postoffice first as mail dispatcher and remained in the postoffice service until 1920 when he resigned, to take up his business as architect and contractor. He was the Spanish American war, serving as corporal in Cuba. He has been with the Oregon national guard for the past three years, having been elected captain of Company F on September 25, 1918.

A. E. Gibbard, superintendent of mails in the postoffice, will take the examination. He has been in the service here for the past 11 years, making a total of 24 years in postoffice work. He has been superintendent of mails for nine years and has served in various positions.

Ronald Glover, former secretary for Congressman Hawley, says he is not even a receptive candidate and that he will not take the examination.

Three Highest Have Chance.

Anyone, even Democrats, may take the civil service examination for the postmastership. According to information from Washington the three candidates making the highest record will have their names presented to the proper authorities in Washington, D. C., and from these three the appointment will be made.

President Wilson, by executive order, placed postmasters on the civil service list to serve without re-appointment. President Harding revoked this order, but placed all such offices of the first class open to competition in civil service examinations.

Date to be Known Soon.

Portland will soon have its examination and word is expected any day naming a date when candidates for the Salem postoffice should be examined under regular civil service rules.

The term of August Hucklestein, postmaster, expired July 21, 1921.

The singles championship was open to state champions and in their absence, to state runners up. Arie, by his victory, wins a diamond medal, emblematic of the title of the American trapshooting association.

Both Arie and Killman broke 50 straight targets in two shoot offs. In the third test Arie defaulted the match when he refused to shoot at a target after he had ordered it thrown.

BIG PRUNE DEAL IS ANNOUNCED

W. F. Drager Reports Sale of 1,000,000 Pounds in Roseburg District

The largest deal in the purchase of prunes so far reported this season is one reported by W. F. Drager in which 1,000,000 pounds of 1921 prunes, the pool of the independent growers in the Roseburg district, was bought on a basis of 9 1/2 cents for 30-35's.

On the basis of 9 1/2 cents for 30-35's, there was paid 9 cents for 35-40's; 8 1/2 cents for 45-45's; 8 1/2 cents for 40-45's; 7 1/2 cents for 50-55 sizes.

The sale is regarded as a specially favorable one for independent growers in the Roseburg district. In the Dallas district, independent growers are arranging to pool their interests, as there is a general feeling that the prune market in general will strengthen.

For green prunes, so far about the best offer is at the rate of $1.05 a bushel, although it is understood this price is not satisfactory to a number of growers.

PUZZLING ISSUE IS BEFORE BOARD

E. E. Elliott of State Department of Education Attends Session

Failure of the state executive board of administration to grant subsidies under the Smith-Hughes act for part salaries of teachers in the industrial arts department of the high school was the chief consideration of the school board in its regular session last night.

E. E. Elliott of the Oregon board of administration for the state and federal money grants, in an address before the board, explained the position of that body.

Mr. Elliott claimed that the board had been unable to make grants to the Salem school because it had not come up to either the state or federal requirements. They demand that the department have definitely outlined courses of study; that teachers meet stated requirements and that they be elected with the approval of the board.

Last year the school board made contracts with its teachers without the consent or approval of the state board. Mr. Elliott pointed out that they should have

SCHOOL TEACHERS ASKED TO COMPLY WITH THE LAW

School teachers in Marion county are playing for trouble and may experience some delay in getting their first month's pay this fall, if school directors don't follow the suggestion and advice of Mrs. M. L. Fulkerson, county superintendent of schools.

District clerks will be notified if the teacher has filed proper registration papers, and if they cooperate with the superintendent the teacher's first month's pay will be held up until the teacher complies with the law.
