

RECESS RULING IS GIVEN DOWN

Attorney General Holds President's Appointing Power Continues

PRECEDENT IS TURNED

Cabinet Officer Points to Inconsistency in Ruling of Mr. Knox

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—President Harding's power to make recess appointments during the present adjournment of Congress has been affirmed by Attorney General Daugherty in a formal opinion made public tonight by the department of justice. Mr. Daugherty dissents from a ruling of former Attorney General Knox handed down in 1901 and holds that where the senate has adjourned for a specified date the president must determine in his discretion "whether in a practical sense" that body is in session so that its consent can be given to appointments requiring confirmation.

Chaotic Condition Averted
"If the president's power of appointment is to be defeated because the senate takes an adjournment to a specified date," Mr. Daugherty says. "The painful and inevitable result will be measurably prevented by the exercise of governmental functions. I cannot bring myself to believe the framers of the constitution ever intended such a catastrophe to happen."

Mr. Daugherty adds, however, that he does not think the power would exist in the case of an adjournment of five or even 10 days instead of 28 as such a period would not constitute the recess intended by the constitution investing the president with the power to make recess appointments, although a line of demarcation could not be accurately drawn.

Discretion Is Large
"In this connection," he continues, "I think the president is necessarily vested with a large, although not unlimited discretion to determine when there is a real and genuine recess, making it impossible for him to receive the advice and consent of the senate. Every presumption is to be indulged in favor of the validity of whatever action he may take. But there is a point, necessarily hard of definition, where palpable abuse of discretion might subject his appointment to review."

A tall, strong man walked into a store.
"I want a set of lady's furs," he said.
"What kind?" asked the male assistant.
"That brown set in the window will do if it's not too dear," replied the tall, strong man.
"Oh, you mean skunk!" said the assistant. "The poor assistant is still in the hospital."

ANGORA, Sept. 16.—The seclusion of the harem is best adapted to woman's nature and it is best for the social order that she should be there," declared Muftide Ferid Hanem, the Nationalist novelist and beautiful wife of Ahmed Ferid Bey, ex-minister of finances, to the correspondent in an interview. The harem grew out of the intelligent understanding of the marriage relation. It represents the wisdom of the east.

Mind Changed.
"I am a reformed woman's rights advocate," she continued. "I used to yearn for the independence of the American and European woman, but now I believe the mistress of the harem is a superior product to the spend-

The fall pageant at Atlantic City, N. J., was the greatest ever held. Folk from all over the country attended the beautiful carnival. The picture shows: Left to Right—Misses Washington, D. thrift Russian woman, the sentimental Austrian, the nagging English woman and the calculating, self-centered American woman.

"To these women, woman's rights means the right to spend money on foolish finery, to marry late, and be childless. They live for the store and the theater. They are responsible for a good deal of factory labor expended in useless directions. They won't work with their hands to make their clothes, their minds are filled with fashions, novels and candies.

Men Are Slaves.
"Men have become their slaves, and you call this western civilization. We Turkish women have had our heads turned by the effort to become like these civilized women, and in doing so some of us have lost our sterling, old-fashioned qualities and become a costly, vain, destructive creature like our sisters of the west.

"We Nationalists are in favor of abolishing the theory of polygamy, though in fact it has long since ceased as an institution. But we are sure woman's place is the home, and the best way to keep her there is the harem, which gives her much liberty but not license. We are good housewives, we wear wore or less a uniform gown and veil, in the streets, which prevents us being victims to fashion, and at home, if we do not wish to see our husbands we are not obliged to do so. Surely that is liberty enough."

"School Days, School Days"
Do you remember the old song about school days being golden rule days? It is wrong to send a coughing, sneezing, spitting child to school to spread disease germs among other little ones. Common colds are infectious. Protect your own and other little ones with Foley's Honey and Tar. This safe family remedy checks coughs and colds, loosens phlegm and mucous and coats raw, irritating membranes with a healing, soothing medicine. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

POLK TEACHERS FILE CONTRACTS

Many Schools To Open Monday—Scarcity of Instructors Is Not Felt

DALLAS, Or., Sept. 14.—(Special to The Statesman)—So far but one school district has opened for the new school year in Polk county. Dallas opened its schools the first of the week notwithstanding there was some talk among hop and prune growers that the schools should have been kept closed for at least another week in order to allow the pupils an opportunity to help with the harvest.

The schools of Falls City, Independence and Monmouth will probably start the first of the coming week although some of the school boards are undecided as to whether it would be a good policy to open them then or to wait until the harvest season is completely over.

Notwithstanding the scarcity of teachers in some parts of the state the schools of Polk county have been exceptionally fortunate this year and with the opening date of all the schools the teaching forces have all been hired. Following is a list of the teachers who have been elected and who have filed their contracts with County School Superintendent Willis:

- District No. 2—Dallas—R. R. Turner, superintendent; C. J. Eviatt, principal; J. A. Griffith, Pearl Fegley, Imogene Holroyd, Jeanette Kietzing, Audrey Tuor, Addie Martin, Mrs. F. H. # Crossing Orders Are Handed Down by Board

In an order yesterday the public service commission denied the Multnomah county commissioners authority to construct a grade crossing in Alder Springs over the tracks of the Oregon Electric railway company by an extension of Henrietta street to connect with a county road laid out on Spring Garden street. The commission held that the contentions of the county commissioners are not supported by facts. The order is pursuant to a policy of the commission to keep the number of grade crossings in the state at a minimum.

Another order of the commission yesterday grants to the Portland, Astoria & Pacific railroad company authority to construct a series of 14 grade crossings over county roads in Columbia and Washington counties. Sixteen were petitioned for by the company, but it is held that those designated as Nos. 10 and 11 are not necessary and the commission finds that at the points where those two proposed crossings are located the tracks of the company should be relocated. Adequate protection for vehicular traffic is required by the order.
