

BRIGHTER ERA LOOMS AHEAD

Adjutant General White Finds South Oregonians Happy at Prospect

PRICES ARE NOT BEST

Non-Partisan League Has Little Chance to Gain Foothold Here

"Southwestern and Southern Oregon people have their faces set toward a new era of development and prosperity and see no fitting shadow of financial distress and unemployment for this winter."

This is the estimate of conditions brought back by George A. White, adjutant general of the state, after two weeks of travel through Coos, Curry, Douglas and Josephine counties.

"There is dissatisfaction among the farmers with the small sums they get for what they sell and the high prices they pay for what they buy, but I found no evidence of their being bitter or discouraged.

Readjustment Coming
"Those with whom I talked seemed to feel that the near future will bring an adjustment of the economic irregularity which just now is pressing them. A number said that the middleman is now the sole remaining profiteer and that his price kiting and profiteering cannot last much longer. All expressed the belief that we are just now falling heir to the real period of readjustment and that normalcy lies just over the horizon of another hard year for the producer."

Colonel White was enthusiastic over the scenic wonders and natural riches of the west coast country and predicted that completion of new highways, making the country more accessible, will draw further heavy tourist travel.

"No one can have a true idea of the real riches and magnitude of Oregon without going down the west coast to the California line and then coming north along the highway from Ashland to Portland," he said. "I saw corn seven feet high in the southwestern corner of the state and also grapes in heavy clusters that would be a credit to the French or German grape districts. Anything will grow there in abundance and yet the soil is barely scratched and very little toll has been taken thus far from the immense stretches of heavy forests. Oregon has a wonderful region in reserve for future development."

Pass to Salem heavy fruit crops were being gathered and many farmers were selling their produce on the highway at 25 cents apiece, tomatoes at 25 cents a bushel and peaches at 25 cents a box are prices that give some idea of the bargains that are accessible to auto shoppers. Completion of the magnificent new highway which runs south to the California line and is now nearly completed will facilitate the marketing of this produce."

League Without Progress
Although he made inquiry in several farming sections Colonel White said he found no evidence of any progress by the Non-Partisan league.

"Oregon farmers with whom I talked, while dissatisfied with marketing conditions, are thoroughly informed as to the disruptive influences of that pernicious diabolical parasite and un-American institution," he added, "and I do not believe the organization will be anything more than a fizzle in Oregon."

SKINNER STABLES COMING TO SHOW

Famous New York Horses Will Be Seen in State Fair Feature Event

The famous Skinner stables of New York will be represented at the forthcoming horse show, held in connection with the state fair. Five horses will comprise the entry, including a pair of three and five-gaited saddlers and a high-stepper. Foremost of the group will be a great Harvester standard bred roadster, Comet, that stands 16.2 hands in height.

The Skinner stables are known the horse show world over, and have taken innumerable blue ribbons. The same horses to be shown in Salem have been shipped to England for horse shows three times. Flash, the jumper, was beaten by but one horse in the world's championship high jumping contest in London. His record is six feet seven inches.

The McCleave stable of Victoria, B. C., will be one of the principal show stables shown. Miss Doria McCleave will show one of the best educated high school horses in the country, putting him through all the required paces, including dancing to music. The McCleave horses will also put on some brilliant jumping stunts.

A special feature will be the Cornishian on Thursday night. This calls for six jumps, three of them being hurdles of timber and brush, four feet high, one post and rail jump of four feet and a "pig-pen" 16 feet square, the latter the stumbling block to most horses.

The water jump calls for the same hurdles except that the last one is made to imitate a hedge and ditch jump of about 10 feet from the takeoff to the landing place. The water must be entirely cleared to make a perfect score.

One of the most thrilling of all the jumps will be the table jump in the handy hunter jumping class.

Miss McCleave, who is one of the youngest equestresses of the northwest, proved the feature of last year's horse show and later of the Pacific International Livestock exposition in Portland. She is a very remarkable horsewoman in every way, in spite of her years, or rather lack of them. She stands and enjoys an amazing amount of work in the ring, riding a number of horses in each jumping event, besides appearing in almost every other on the program each evening. At Vancouver, B. C., this year she had a fall in the high jump, sustaining no serious injury, but took a bad shaking up, which prevented her from doing further jumping during the week. The falling off in winnings by her father's stables was notable after her accident.

Miss McCleave has a remarkably good "pair of hands," and her mounts show the utmost confidence in her guidance. Many of her blue ribbons are won on "performance," due largely to her ability as a rider.

The night horse show begins Tuesday night and extends through to Friday night.

Few Women on Juries in Oregon for This Year
Few women will be on jury lists in Oregon this year, according to an opinion of Attorney General Van Winkle, written in reply to an inquiry by John B. Carson, district attorney for Marion county.

At the legislature of 1921 the Oregon laws were so amended that in certain criminal cases at least half of the jurors shall be women, but to comply with this law is not incumbent upon the county court to make a new jury list for 1921 if the list was already made up when the amendment became effective. The statute provides that the jury lists shall be made up at the first term of the county court each year. This provision was not amended or modified, and accordingly jury lists including women can't be made by the county court to be available prior to its first term in 1922.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK
When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back its Beautiful Lustre at Once

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young. Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound", which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two its natural color is restored, and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—Adv.
