SOME REASONS WHY SALEM GROWS

Likely more than half the readers of The Statesman will be surprised at both the size and the scope of operations of the Salem Tile & Mercantile Company, an illustrated description of which appears on the Pep and Progress pages— And there will be other surprises of the same kind from Thursday to Thursday, for the next year, as this campaign progresses—

A campaign designed to get the Salem district better acquainted with itself; better informed concerning its institutions and its men of pep and progress; prouder of itself, and more confident concerning the great things that can and ought to be done in this district and in this city.

The Salem Tile & Mercantile company is doing a great work in furnishing the products to drain the more than two million acres of land in the Willamette valley that need draining in order to increase their crops 25 to 50 per cent. This will add many millions annually to the value of the crops from these lands; and it will add enormously to the money value of the lands.

Then this concern is making about fifty different kinds of materials that can be fashioned from clay, and that are useful in the building operations of the towns and cities and the farms.

Salem has many such industrial concerns now, that have been developed from nothing or from small beginnings in the past few years. These are some of the reasons why Salem grows—

Why there was an increase of school population of over 10 per cent the past year; and, by the same sign, an increase of over 10 per cent in the total population of the city— And why this increase will no doubt continue.

Do you know what this will mean? It will mean a city of twice the present size here in 1930. And that will mean opportunities for increased business in most lines here that are scarcely realized by most of our people.

Salem should stand by her institutions and her men of push and vision. There should be full cooperation and appreciation. That is the spirit that builds cities and communities. It is a spirit that has been developing here of late; but it needs much further development and a more general spirit of cooperation.

The Salem dehydration plant, with the cannery in connection, is rendering great assistance in taking care of the apple crop, to say nothing of various other fruit and vegetable crops. This is one of the most useful of our industrial enterprises.

The Statesman has lately had several communications and personal calls asking for information on the mint industry. There are many farmers of this section proposing to put out mint. Next Thursday, or some Thursday very soon, The Statesman will devote a lot of space again to this industry, as it did twice in the Salem Slogan campaigns.

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

The rain was refreshing—

But there are many crops out, and more fair weather is needed, and will no doubt come.

Didn't know Salem had the largest tile and brick factory in Oregon, did you? There is no more useful industrial concern in the state.

Better clip out and save the articles in this issue on the proper fruit crops and varieties to grow. You may need to refer to it.

You can safely pin your faith on its suggestions.

The job printing department of The Statesman has recently printed the tenth edition of a book entitled, "All About Alredales." The author and publisher is A. M. Palmer, A. B. (Amherst '87), of Seattle. This is the greatest dog book printed in the whole country, and the late editions have been twice to three times as large as the first ones, in the number printed, with constant revisions and improvements—and each edition is exhausted sooner than the last. The mailing and expressing of copies is attended to by this office, and they go to all sections of the United States.

FINANCIAL TANGLES

UNRAVELING financial tangles is part of the regular service of a bank to its customers. If your business is in a somewhat muddled state; if you haven't a clear conception of the relation of your overhead to your receipts, come into the United States National.

If you ever should want credit, we would have to know exactly the condition of your business. Then why not ascertain now just where you stand. A frank consultation may save you later embarrassment.

and to several foreign countries. Many of them are sold in the east. The last edition, recently off the press, is dedicated to "Laddie Roy," of the White House, Washington, D. C. "The most admired and popular dog in the United States of America, the property of our honored president, Warren G. Harding."

Salem is to have much improved police protection next year. That will be appreciated.

"HIGH HAT" MAY BE IN PRISON

Youth Arrested at Albany Believed to Be Hold-up Who Operated Here

His sombrero diminished to a plain slouch hat, the "High Hat" bandit is languishing in the Salem city jail. It is believed. After a 10-hour session with Chief of Police Moffitt, Alfred Mack Fox, who claims Chicago as his home, made statements which apparently incriminated him in the three hold-ups staged in North Salem during the past two weeks.

A flashlight, a bandana handkerchief with eye holes and a .32-caliber Iver Johnson revolver were found in Fox's possession by the officers. Fox was arrested by Constable Catlin, of Albany Monday morning, upon the request of Chief of Police Verden Moffitt of Salem. When accosted by the Albany officer, Fox claimed that the Linn county city was his home before finally admitting that he had "just come to town."

During his interview with Moffitt the Chicago youth claimed that he had left Salem last Thursday. In a statement made to District Attorney John Carson and to a Statesman representative Fox admitted yesterday that he had not left this city until late Saturday night, boarding a freight train to Albany.

More than a dozen conflicting stories were told by Fox to the police, according to Chief Moffitt. That the "high hat" bandit's accomplice, the man who appeared on the scene Saturday night will be arrested within 24 hours, was announced last night by Moffitt, who asserted that he had definite word that the man had been located in a Washington city.

TAX REPEAL IS ACCEPTED

Republican Compromise for Transportation Levy Approved

NO DISSENT IS VOICED

Senator Reed Would Extend Provision to Messages, But Voted Down

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Adoption by the senate of the Republican compromise plan for repeal of all the transportation taxes on next January 1 was completed today with the acceptance without a dissenting vote of an amendment removing the tax on parcels post packages. Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri sought to extend the repeal to levies on messages by telegraph, telephone and radio, but his motion was voted down, 32 to 26.

Committee amendments to the bill accepted included those imposing license taxes on brokers and others and manufacturers' taxes of 2 cents a gallon on cereal beverages, still drinks and unfermented fruit juices; 7 1/2 cents a gallon on finished fountain syrups and 5 cents a pound on carbonic acid gas.

Cards Are Gunned Until the chewing gum tax was reached the senate made fairly rapid progress on the bill. But there it stuck for nearly two hours with a discussion of chewing gum. A Republican proposal to repeal the 2 per cent tax on this gum was opposed by Senator Reed who said the senate had voted to retain $28,000,000 in taxes upon senders and receivers of messages by wire and radio while it was proposed to "refund one-twenty-eighth of that amount to Wrigley."

Bargain Charged "Who made this bargain?" asked Senator Reed with reference to the compromise plan to knock out the chewing gum tax. "Who overruled the action of the committee? When was it agreed to? It demands an explanation when a gentleman can escape $1,000,000 in taxes on something that is useless and worthless. What was the influence that reached behind the doors and took the tax off Mr. Wrigley?"

Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, said the information before the finance committee was that factories of the American Chicle company were closed down and that the removal of the tax had been suggested to get those plants started up again. He declared that so far as the committee knew, Mr. Wrigley did not care about the tax, that he never had asked that it be removed.

Fun Poked at "Bloc" During Senator Reed's address there was reference to the agricultural "bloc" and Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, wanted to know how many agriculturalists were in that "bloc." This led later to an address by Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, who declared the time had come to quit referring derisively to the agricultural "bloc." He warned that it was composed of Democratic and Republican senators who were determined to get legislation through the senate for the benefit of the farmers and who were equally as determined that the "minions of Wall street" should not control the tax and tariff legislation.

Pershing to Participate In Ceremonies at London

LONDON, Oct. 12.—With the announcement today that General Pershing had accepted the British government's invitation to place the American congressional medal on the tomb of the unknown soldier in Westminster Abbey, the misunderstanding resulting from the deferred invitation ended. It has been planned that the ceremony will take place next Monday.

It is expected detachments of troops from the Rhineland will parade while representatives of the army, navy and air forces will be present when the medal is laid on the grave. A reciprocal honor by Great Britain to the American unknown soldier is under consideration. The honor will be the Victoria Cross or a special medal voted by parliament.

PEACE TREATY SOON RATIFIED

Final Action by Senate Expected Friday or Saturday of This Week

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The German peace treaty will be ratified by the senate next Friday or Saturday, according to estimates today of both Republican and Democratic leaders after a canvass of the situation.

A safe margin above the necessary two-thirds majority for ratification was claimed by the league's advocates. Thirteen Democratic votes, it was said, would be cast for ratification with a loss to the Republican side of only three or four against ratification.

Senator Lodge, Republican leader, discussed the handling of the treaty with Senator Underwood, Democratic floor leader, and later announced the treaty would be given exclusive right of way beginning not later than Friday, when the unanimous consent agreement, made some time ago, limiting each senator's time to one hour, will become effective.

TRUCE BEFORE IRISH PARLEY

Alleged Breaches in Erin Are Said to Involve Both Factions

GALAWAY CASES NOTED

Significance is Seen in Appointment of Lionel Curtis as Secretary

LONDON, Oct. 12.—When the Irish conference resumes its sessions tomorrow morning it probably will first deal with the question of alleged breaches of the truce, which have been the subject of conversations today between members of the British and Irish delegations.

It is agreed among the delegates, it was announced tonight, that breaches have arisen on both sides, Dublin Castle having produced a list of such occurrences, which was compared with a list published by the Irish Bulletin of breaches by auxiliaries, the police and the military.

Both Sides Break Over In the recent killings at Gala-way and shootings resultant from an Irish Republican dance, it was conceded that both Sinn Feiners and crown officers violated the truce by carrying arms.

Today's conversations, in which Eamon J. Duggan, Sir Hamar Greenwood, Michael Collins, Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, General MacReady and Robert C. Barton participated, were quite friendly and harmonious as were yesterday's discussions in conference.

Smuts Plan Indicated

The appointment today of Lionel Curtis as one of the chief secretaries on the government side, was taken to indicate that the government approach toward a settlement will follow the lines indicated by General Jan Christian Smuts, the South African premier. Mr. Curtis, who is considered a great authority on the imperial federation, took a prominent part in the framing of the South African constitution. He has spent much time in Ireland, his wife being an Irish woman.

His joint secretary, Thomas Jones, has had experience in Ireland as professor of economics in Queens university at Belfast. These two, with Erskine Childers and Mr. Chartres, both of whom served the British with distinction during the war, will be present at all sessions of the conference.

TROOPS TO GO

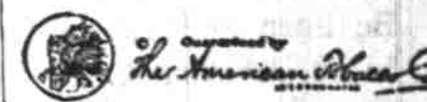

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Federal troops in the coal districts of West Virginia will be withdrawn as soon as the national guard regiment of infantry being raised by that state is completely organized and equipped, Secretary Weeks said today.
