PROFESSORS IN LEAD AT COURT

International Justice Court of Nations' League Represents Professions

JUDGES ARE SKETCHED

Brief History of 11 Members of Peace Tribunal Given in Outline

GENEVA, Oct. 12.—Professors of international law constitute a majority of the members of the new court of international justice as just elected by the league of nations. Its composition is as follows:

Five professors of law in universities.
Two who are both professors of law and lawyers.
Two lawyers.
One jurist.
One statesman.

At least five are professors of international law; while one is a professor of the history of political and civil institutions.

Nations Represented
The professors are Moore, of the United States; Altamira, of Spain; Arzilotti, of Italy; Huber, of Switzerland; Oda, of Japan; Weiss of France, and Bustamante of Cuba.

The lawyers include Finlay of Great Britain and Loder of Holland. Altamira and Arzilotti are both professors of law and lawyers.

Nyholm of Denmark is called a jurist and Barbosa of Brazil a statesman and constitution-maker.

Many of the 11 judges are or have been diplomats or members of commissions or international tribunals which entitle them to be classes as jurists and statesmen of international repute.

Here are brief thumb-nail sketches of the 11:

John Bassett Moore of the United States—Professor of international law and diplomacy at Columbia university for 30 years; has been third assistant secretary of state and counsellor of the state department; member of numerous international tribunals or commissions and once member of the permanent court at The Hague.

Vicomte Robert Bannatyne Finlay of Great Britain, studied medicine; became a lawyer, member of parliament, solicitor general, attorney general, lord rector of Edinburgh university, chancellor of England and member of the permanent court of arbitration.

Max Huber of Switzerland is professor of international law in the University of Zurich, jurist, consul in the political department of the Swiss government and was a delegate to The Hague conference in 1907.

Dedrik Galtrup Gjedde Nyholm of Denmark, has been a member of the Mixed International Tribunal at Cairo since 1906 and a member of the court of arbitration.

Senator Ruy Barbosa, of Brazil, has been vice-president of that country, minister of finance, member of the second Hague conference and was one of the authors of the Brazilian constitution.

B. C. J. Loder of Holland, is a specialist in maritime law, has been a member of the Holland supreme court and was a member of the commission which drew up the plan for the international court of which he is a judge.

Dr. Yorozu Oda, of Japan, is professor of the law college of the Kyoto imperial university, is a samurai of the former Saga clan, studied law in England, France and Germany and is the author of works on the science of law and Japanese administration law. He is 53 years old.

Charles Andre Weiss of France, is an Alsatian, born in Mulhouse. He is professor of law in the University of Paris; a member of the Institute of France, jurist, member of the French foreign ministry, member of the academy of moral and political sciences and member of the permanent court of arbitration.

Senator Rafael Altamira y Crevea of Spain, is professor of the history of political and civil institutions in the University of Madrid. He was a member of the commission of the league of nations which elaborated the project for the international court of justice and was president of the Ibero American institute of comparative law. He was a member of the arbitration commission established in 1914 in the dispute between France, Spain and Germany over mining rights in Morocco.

Dionisio Anzilotti of Italy, is a lawyer, under-secretary general of the league of nations, professor of international laws in the University of Rome and a member of the permanent court of arbitration.

Professor Antonio Sanchez de Bustamante of Cuba, occupies the chair of international law in the University of Havana, and is dean of the law faculty, is a member of the European institute of international law, president of the Cuban society of international law. He was a Cuban delegate to the Hague conference in 1907, a delegate to the peace conference at Versailles, a member of the court

PORTO RICAN SCHOOL HEAD

Juan B. Huyke is First Native to Direct Island Work of Education

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Oct. 20.—Juan B. Huyke, appointed by President Harding to be Commissioner of Education, is the first Porto Rican to be chosen for this government post. He succeeds Dr. Paul G. Miller, of Wisconsin, who was commissioner for about eight years. Since 1898, all heads of the school system have been from the mainland.

Mr. Huyke was formerly a general superintendent of schools and himself is a product of the schools of the island. Since leaving the department of education he has maintained an interest in all school matters and through his efforts many Porto Rican students are maintained on scholarships in the states with funds contributed here. He is also president of the Porto Rico chapter of the American Red Cross.

This year's school budget of more than $4,000,000 is the largest in the history of the island, an increase of more than $1,000,000 over last year. Part of the increase was provided for employing more teachers of English from the mainland but few were obtained, owing to short time between the passing of the budget and the opening of the school year. Native teachers of English are employed of arbitration at the Hague. He has been a senator and president of the foreign affairs committee of the Cuban senate and is the author of books on international law.

in greater number than ever before, however, and in addition to teachers supplied by the government many town have employed extra teachers with private funds in order to insure adequate instruction in English.

Mr. Huyke has announced that he will endeavor to continue the policy of giving the teaching of English and Spanish equal importance in the public schools.

The class in English had reached the point where they were writing short stanzas. Several pupils had recited with varying comment by the teacher, and at last Harvey, the village bad boy, was called on and read:

"I saw a pretty lady
Strolling beneath the tree,
She slipped into a mud-puddle
That came up to her shoe-tops."

"But, Harvey," objected the teacher, "your lines do not rhyme."

"Don't I know it!" replied Harvey in a disgusted tone; "the puddle wasn't deep enough."

One-Fifth Were
MACK TRUCKS
An Enviable Record

One-fifth, or 20 percent, of all the trucks sold in the United States during the second quarter of 1921, in the same capacities as MACKS are built, WERE MACK TRUCKS.

There are listed 119 makes of 1 1/2-ton trucks, 82 of 2-ton, 103 of 2 1/2-ton, 89 of 3 1/2-ton, 70 of 5-ton, 12 of 6-7 1/2-ton. These are MACK sizes and 1 out of every 5 of the total number of trucks sold by all these producers were MACK trucks.

The following figures are even more startling: 28.14 percent of all the 2 1/2-ton trucks; 35.45 percent of all the 3 1/2-ton trucks; 29.44 percent of all the 5-ton trucks and 81.04 percent of all the 7 1/2-ton trucks sold in the entire country within the designated period were MACK trucks.

This is a significant triumph for the high-grade, completely manufactured truck, the truck with 21 years of successful production behind it, the MACK truck.
