interior and other royalist sympathizers. Rakovsky, Count Apponyi and Gustav Gratz have headed a legitimate cabinet at Raab and the royalists have taken possession of the public buildings at Steina-manger.

Territory Disputed The district of Burgenland, where Charles landed, is disputed territory lying along the frontier between Austria and Hungary. It was awarded to Austria, but was occupied some months ago by Hungarian irregular troops.

Charles once before attempted to regain power in Hungary, but there was a threat on the part of the little entente—consisting of Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia and Rumania—to take military action against Hungary if he was not forced to leave the country.

Today's outstanding developments were: News from Oedenburg that the ex-emperor, in an airplane with ex-Empress Zita, had soared from Hertenstein, Switzerland, Thursday, had landed in this Burgenland city.

His enthusiastic reception by military forces in that disturbed area under the leadership of Major Oostenberg who immediately proclaimed him king of Hungary.

Cabinet Formed Formation of a monarchistic cabinet, headed by Stephen Rakovsky, former president of the Hungarian lower chamber and including in its makeup Count Albert Apponyi, former Hungarian premier; Count Julius Andrássy, former Austro-Hungarian foreign minister and Gustav Gratz, former Hungarian foreign minister.

Declarations by the present Budapest government that this attempt to regain the throne would be met with the same measures as those which prevented his reaching his goal last March.

Railway Reported Wrecked Representations by the allied representatives at Budapest to the present Hungarian government against Charles' return to the throne.

Reports from Budapest that the railway between that city and Raab was torn up, with the result that the train on which the former monarch was reported to be traveling tonight would be unable to continue.

ALL OUT OF LUCK. The sad looking young man walked down the garden path somber and sorrowful.

"How did father take it?" she asked, tremulously. "He took it well," came the reply.

"Oh, I'm so glad, George!" she cried, excitedly. "Are you?" replied George. "Well, I can't say that I am, dearest. At first your father refused to listen to me."

"But didn't you tell him you had $500 in the bank?" she exclaimed. "I did," came the dejected answer.

"And what did he do then?" "Do?" echoed the young man, wearily. "Why, he borrowed it!"—Boston Post.

Grain and Hay Men Will Profit by Rate Reduction

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 22.—Decision of the interstate commerce commission in reducing freight rates on hay and grain products from western states was characterized by bankers here today as a certificate of deposit for $1,750,000 placed to the credit of Utah and Idaho hay and grain growers.

Rate reductions authorized by the commission will save approximately $1,500,000 in the movement of 30,000,000 bushels of Utah and Idaho wheat and at least $250,000 in the movement of hay, it was said.

The first steps in the rate reduction were taken by the Utah-Idaho Bankers' association as a means of liquidating form and the notes held by them. They announced today plans were being formulated for an attack on agricultural freight rates.

NATURAL CAUSES TO BE DEFENSE

Program of Defense is Outlined in Trial of Lyda Meyer Southard

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, Oct. 22.—Death from natural causes in each of the cases entering into the trial of Lyda Meyer Southard will be the basis of the defense, according to the opening statement of attorney W. P. Guthrie to the jury today.

That Edward F. Meyer, with whose murder she is specifically charged in the information died from illness superinduced by eating impure food, will be shown by the evidence to be added, the attorney declared.

Gordon McHaffie suffered from a fall from a horse just prior to his final illness; Harlan C. Lewis was the victim of influenza, and in no case did poison of any kind enter into the cause of death; these facts would be laid before the jury in the evidence to be presented, the attorney asserted.

The statement by the defense came in the late afternoon just after the overruling of a motion by the defense asking for a continuance of 10 days to permit of the securing of witnesses. The court then ruled out of evidence all the testimony of witnesses with respect to circumstances of the death of Robert C. Hooley, the defendant's first husband.

The opening statement, which had been looked forward to with interest by the spectators was unusually brief, and immediately thereafter recess was taken until Monday.

SUPREME COURT

A great many folks in the District of Columbia do not know the judges of the supreme court, hence these dignitaries sometimes are treated just like us other mortals. Recently Justice McReynolds started to board the front end of a street car, and the motorman, who had opened the front door merely to talk to a friend, shouted: "Hey, there, you, don't try to get on this front platform! Go back to the rear!"

The justice calmly obeyed the order of the higher court, the motorman muttered something under his breath, changed his belt viciously and the car passed on.
