

FOUR-L LEADERS IN CONVENTION

Readjustment of Wages Expected to Come Before Session in Portland

PORTLAND, Nov. 21.—Trustees of the Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen, representing equally employers and employees, were in session here today. Among topics for consideration was a probable readjustment of wage scales, based on declining cost of living and the over-supply of labor. Several infractions of legion rules will come up for discipline.

Resolutions from district organizations for consideration included proposals providing additional safeguards for the eight-hour work day, favoring a plan whereby plant conference committees shall take up first for adjustment any differences concerning plant management, providing a wage base compatible with American standards of living and a bonus for long service, and providing for study of methods of promoting highest standards of production and wages.

PULP AND PAPER PLANT STOPPED AT MIDNIGHT

rail and auto transportation, flooding of seeded crop areas, and direct damage to bridges, roads and structures in the inundated districts.

A serious condition is reported from Jefferson where the Santiam river has attained its greatest height in years. The Millersburg bridge, three miles south of Jefferson has been washed out, telephone lines are down and in several places the swift water has washed out treacherous holes in the Jefferson highway.

Mail Service Suspended
Mail service to Stayton has been suspended due to the destruction of Pudding river bridge. There is absolutely no open highway between Stayton and Mehama due to the impairment of larger bridges. The water released at Stayton added greatly to the flood waters that found their way to the east Salem district.

Houses west of the railroad track at Turner were caught in the high water to a depth of six to eight inches above the floods. The power plant was thrown out of commission and sidewalks were washed away.

Dallas District Suffers

In Polk county Dallas and vicinity were caught by the overflow from LaCreole creek and other streams. Many city and farm dwellings were reported to be isolated and the Willamette Valley Lumber company camps and mills in the Black Rock sections were forced to close down, when a Southern Pacific bridge was washed out at Black Rock.

The Hammond Lumber company's mill at Mill City is closed down.

Santiam Country Flooded

The regular Monday wash is well on its way down to the Columbia river, if it was left in the basement ready to be gathered up and worked over; for so many basements were flooded and turned inside out by the flood that came Sunday night that it partakes of the nature of a community calamity.

The heavy rain of Saturday night and Sunday, that up in the mountains amounted almost to a continual cloudburst, brought a flood from the Santiam and from all over the flat country draining down to the Willamette. The peak of the flood in tributary streams came near midnight Saturday night when the water in the various streams running through Salem reached the maximum height.

Most of Yew Park, in the southeast part of Salem, was flooded, a regular torrent coming down from the south and east, to be diverted by the railroad grade to the Oak street bridge just south of the depot. This flood carried out part of the Winter street bridge, where the Twelfth street cars cross. The car service was abandoned at 8 o'clock Sunday night because of the threatening rise of the waters.

Power Dam Destroyed

The flood reached near to a record height at this point, running a full foot deep over the bridge.

The Salem paper mill, prior to its closing down last night, was one of the heavy sufferers from the flood. The company had built a dam to divert the waters of Mill creek, in the north part of the city, through its canal to the mill, and planned to install a power plant there this week. The installation was to have been a turbine water wheel and a 250 kilowatt electric generator. The permanent plant would not have been built at once, but the company counted on having that much power from a temporary set-up of the machinery, until the big plant could be built next year.

May Not be Replaced

The flood took out the dam, and it is considered doubtful whether it can be replaced this winter. The actual loss on the dam itself, which was of timber and not an especially pretentious structure, is not nearly so heavy as the loss of power for the whole winter. The rise in the stream below the paper mill cut off the fall of the other power plant at the mill, so that the plant was short 180 horsepower from that source also.

Train No. 54 of the Southern Pacific, due at 5 o'clock Monday morning, came in after 8, by way of the west route from Albany. Two culverts were washed out on the main line, near Jefferson, and the trains had to be routed by Gerlinger and Corvallis to Albany.

Sunshine Short-lived

A sheaf of sunbeams broke through the clouds, shortly before noon, Monday, and some sky as blue as a sweetheart's eyes appeared. But the storm grabbed the innocent intruder with an ex-cruciating toe-hold, soaked it in the eye with a borean blast, kicked it in the shins and butted it in the midriff with a floodgate full of near-snow and silverfrost, and it gave up its little ghost almost before it fairly got down to earth.

The rainfall has been 5.3 inches from Saturday morning until Monday night, 60 hours.

It is believed to have been far more than that up in the foothills that build up the Santiam floods, that have spread out over Salem and the miles of country between here and the hills.

O. E. Bridge Damaged

A log that came whirling down the flood, struck and displaced a bent of the Oregon Electric bridge between High and Commercial streets, rendering the bridge unsafe for train passage.

Traffic has been handled over the front street line, the trains backing down to High and State depot, then going back around from the switch half a mile north.

Judge Warris Brown to Have Attorney Wednesday

"Be sure and get an attorney by Wednesday, because this case must be tried."

Such was the injunction of Judge G. E. Unruh yesterday when he again postponed the trial of Forrest Brown who is being held in the county jail on two charges.

Trial of Brown has been delayed for 12 days on his plea that he had no attorney. When he came into court Wednesday morning, Brown will face a charge of having intoxicating liquor in his possession. With the disposal of this case he will face a charge of depositing glass upon a public highway.

Brown was arrested several days ago by Officer W. W. Birchett following an exciting chase in which Brown discovered that the patrolman was too fast for him. Brown's attempted escape occurred when he hurled a bottle to the pavement when Officer Birchett attempted to halt him in the downtown district.

Following his arrest Brown was fined $150 in city recorder's court on a charge of resisting an officer and so of throwing glass on the pavement.

SALEM HIGH TO MEET LINCOLN

Sport Lovers Show Deep Interest in Thanksgiving Game Stated Here

Viewers-with-alarm can see one football game Thursday that has in it practically no element of danger, when the Salem high meets Lincoln high of Portland on Sweetland field. It isn't to be exactly a beribboned, dervitized after-you-may-dear-Gastank encounter—that isn't the way they make it safe; but it's the condition of the field in which they are to play. The present rain has insured a field as slippery as goose grease, as soft as feathers, as slow as molasses at the North Pole; there will be no tremendous collisions, no log-breaking, skull-cracking tackles, no mile-a-minute runs brought up short like a pea butting into Mount Hood. It will be a safe game, and parents and patrons who have shivered at the very thought of football are urged to attend this "safe" game.

But it isn't likely to be "beautiful" from an aesthetic point of view. The boys expect to get "wallered" in such mud as the super-dainty person never knew could be concocted. Identification tags are likely to be necessary before the melee is over, for the opportunities for a muddy disguise are instant and everlasting.

The Salem high team has been going like a quarter horse of late. A splendid morale and some exceptional material have contributed to make the team a formidable contender. The team has lost only one high school game this year, that to McMinnville, early in the season—but it has buried this one blot by an avalanche of good scores in succeeding games. The boys went out of the high school class to lose two other games with Chemawa and with Columbia university; but Jack Dempsey would be outclassed by a Jersey bull or a locomotive. They have perfected a smooth-working football machine that is a pleasure to watch, and its friends needn't be afraid to root for it against all comers.

Lincoln high of Portland, Coach Wapato's 1921 team, has had varied success this year; not winning all the time, but a formidable contender in any high school class. The Lincolns have one tackle, Rosenberg, who is rated as the best in all the Portland high school leagues, and they have a long string of finished players who follow closely in the championship class.

The game is to be called early at 1:30 so as to accommodate the usual Thanksgiving dinner schedule of two meals a day.

Salem will probably play the Thanksgiving game with about the same line-up as that used in the Cottage Grove and Silverton games, as follows:

Grange Unanimously Votes Against Exclusion Measure

PORTLAND, Nov. 21.—A proposal that membership in the Grange be limited to Americans was unanimously defeated in the national Grange convention today on the ground that the Grange as now constituted has proved a great instrument for Americanization. The proposal to limit membership had been made by Sherman J. Lowell, national master, in his opening address. Presentation of state reports was completed today.

Liberty Bonds, Savings Stamps Taken by Robbers

SPOKANE, Nov. 21.—Three thousand dollars worth of unregistered Liberty bonds and $1,400 worth of war savings stamps were stolen from the State Bank of Spokane at Spangle, 20 miles south of here, at an early hour this morning. Dakota Supreme Court May Enjoin State Recall BISMARCK, N. D., Nov. 21.—The supreme court of North Dakota late today took under consideration the petition of five taxpayers for an order temporarily restraining the state canvassing board from canvassing the recall election ballots on Wednesday.

Attorneys for the taxpayers seeking to nullify the election asked the court to hear them tomorrow but the court decided upon an immediate hearing and after presentation of the case by S. E. Ellsworth, permitted Ellsworth to file a citation of additional authorities tomorrow.

The petitioners asked that the recall which resulted in the election of R. A. Nestos as governor, Svenbjorn Johnson, attorney general and Joseph A. Kitchin, commissioner of agriculture and labor, be nullified on the ground that there was not a sufficient number of valid signatures to the petitions to obtain such an election.

The election of October 28, sought to be nullified, resulted in the recall of Governor Lynn J. Frazier, Attorney General William Lemke, and John N. Hagan, commissioner of agriculture and labor, supported by the election of their independent opponents.

BOYS' SESSION PROMISES WELL

Quota for Marion County Delegation is Fifty Out-side of Salem

Indications are that Salem and Marion county will be well represented at the Willamette valley older boys' conference to be held at Corvallis, November 25, 26, 27. As there are no schools in session this week, there will be no college or school duties to interfere with those who wish to attend.

The quota for the county outside of Salem is 50 and it is reported that 40 of these had reported last night and the chances were good for 60 or more attending the conference. Full quotas have already been reported from Woodburn, Hubbard, Gervais, Monitor, Chemawa and Willamette university.

From Silverton comes reports of 20 who have already agreed to attend the conference. Stayton and Jefferson have not reported as yet.

Reports from Corvallis are that all attending will be well cared for during the three days in the homes of Corvallis people. The different bodies in Salem and the county to be represented at the conference this year include the Boy Scouts, Y. M. C. A. High Y. Sunday school classes, employed groups and the university.

Annual Jolly-up Party At Willamette Thursday

The annual jolly-up party of Willamette university will be held in the society rooms of Waller hall Thursday night at 8 o'clock. A great time is planned for the students who are unable to spend Thanksgiving day at their homes. Bob Notson, chairman of the committee, says he feels sorry for the students who are leaving for their homes on that date.

A reward of 1000 kopecks is offered to any student who attends and does not have a good time. Something different is planned, the nature of which cannot be explained because it would take away from the surprise of the evening.

About 250 students have signified their intentions of attending.

BEARCATS WILL GO TO TACOMA

Game With College of Puget Sound is Scheduled for Thanksgiving

The Willamette football team is practicing indoors at the armory this week, preparatory for the Tacoma game Thursday. The squad is in good physical condition, with very few damages that could interfere with the Puget sound melee. The team will leave on Wednesday for the north.

Heretofore Willamette has found the Puget sound warriors fairly easy picking. This year it isn't so certain, for the enemy has plucked up spirit, while Willamette has not progressed normally toward a close-of-the-season peak. The team will be short of Bain, the shifty center, and also Barnes, the defiable end. It seems almost like pork and beans with both the meat and the vegetables left out, and only the toothpick left to start a game without these two reliables. But still they expect to pull the Tacoma team to pieces.

Basketball is to be begun in dead earnest immediately after Thanksgiving. The basket shooters are now visiting the armory every day, perfecting their aim at the special foul baskets along the side of the gym, apart from the regular game floor. The series of interclass and organization games will be run off before Christmas, and these games will practically determine the varsity squad material. There is as yet almost no line on the new material for basketball. The class games will bring it to the front. Three members of last year's champion team are here for 1921-22, and it will take both skill and rabbit's foot luck to displace any of them.

The conference committee, to fix the schedule for all the winter's activities—basketball and other things—will meet in Portland about December 8.

Members of the tentative varsity squad are likely to have to eat Christmas dinner away from home this year. It is the plan now to keep them together and not let them scatter to the brush for turkey and mince feeds that ruin championships. They may make a few little excursions out into the country for practice games, but they will be kept in trim and given team practice all through the holiday season. There will be no bar to receiving Christmas presents, but they mustn't eat 'em!
