

HARVEST HOME YIELDS BOUNTY

Good Start Toward Stocking Old People's Institution

Interested friends made it a genuine "Harvest Home" for the Old People's home, Tuesday afternoon, at the First Methodist church. It was a "fringe" of a day to be out; the rain and wind were down to the lowest standard of disagreeable weather anywhere. But how they came flocking in with their offerings. Fruit came in baskets and sacks and in jars; fruit in the cans, in jelly, in every kind and color that fruit comes in. Flour, baking powder, spuds, vegetables, and a little real money were brought in by friends who believe that Thanksgiving should be giving and not all getting. Jams and jellies, and dainties that would tempt the appetite of weary, tired-to-death invalids who, however patient, long for these undigestible home products that call back the days when they too, were young and strong and full of hope for the future; everything that friendship could suggest, was brought, to add to the winter's store for the home. It wasn't too much. The occupants of the home would soon face starvation if they had nothing other than what was brought in on this one occasion—but it was a splendid Thanksgiving start. A number of offerings were taken directly to the home, and many were deferred because of the inclement weather.

The home will have 18 guests in the near future. It has 15 at the present time, and its capacity is taxed to the utmost. The building of the new home next spring will give much more room and better facilities for rearing for the aged invalids who go there.

The harvest decorations of corn, pumpkins and other appropriate fall products, were put up in the First church ground floor, by Mrs. LaMoine Clark's class of young business women and were very attractive. The reception was in charge of the woman's missionary society, that has official charge of the home; though the home itself is entirely undenominational as seven different creeds are represented, and four sects are represented there at the present time. Many of the gifts have come from friends in other churches, or in no church at all.

BRIAND BRINGS GERMAN WRATH

Assertions That Teutons Are Preparing for War Branded Flat Falsehood

KING'S SPEECH CITED

Newspapers in Berlin Express Fear America Will Credit Frenchman

BERLIN, Nov. 22. — (By the Associated Press) — In a statement to the Associated Press today, the German government takes issue with the charges of Premier Briand of France in his address before the Washington conference that the German police forces and the Reichswehr constituted a nucleus for a future German army.

The statement says that the "protection police" were created at the bidding of the entente, and adds: "The Reichswehr is wholly unaffiliated with the Schutzpolizei which took the place of the protection police when the entente ordered the latter's dissolution."

The statement disputes M. Briand's assertion that Germany still possessed numerous arsenals equipped to turn out war materials and asserts these plants are limited to two or three required to keep the German army supplied and that their output is supervised by the entente control commission.

Speech Declared False
The government's statement refers to the French premier to the address from the throne in which King George of England declared satisfactory progress had been made by Germany in execution of her financial and disarmament obligations.

Newspaper comment generally characterizes M. Briand's speech as "flat falsehood," but most of the journals express fear that America may believe what he said. The opinion generally expressed was that his attitude would likely undermine and nullify the whole effort toward disarmament.

EDITORIALS OF THE PEOPLE

From a Common Laborer Editor Statesman:

I have read with much interest some of the discussions relative to the superintendent of the training school, and I consider it my duty as a friend of Mr. Gilbert to offer a word.

I have been a common laborer most of the time since have lived in Salem, and at one time I enjoyed the privilege of having Mr. Gilbert as my working partner in the lumber yard, and although he has acquired the position of superintendent of the training school and I am still a day laborer, we are just as good friends as ever.

I believe that Mr. Gilbert is the soul of honor and if I had a boy who had to be placed in a training school, I'll tell the world that Mr. Gilbert is my ideal of the man I would want to be in charge. Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert have been on the job four years, and now comes this complaint of incompetency—queer that it took the board of control four years to find it out.

Perhaps if Mr. Gilbert had been deflected to an eastern junket as Dr. Steiner when he took charge of the penitentiary and several other public officials, the training school would not be as efficiently handled as the penitentiary seems to be.

The Republicans promised us an economic administration, and yet we note several proposals for unnecessary raises in the salaries of officials, among them the governor.

Every time we elect a governor we always have plenty of competent candidates who are willing to serve at the former salary of $5000 per year, so why raise it? The governor's salary had not been raised had the question been submitted to a vote of the people. The governor knew this, and so did the legislature, and that's why the people did not get a vote on it.

Several instances of the same kind have already been mentioned by other correspondents, among them the salary of the superintendent of the training school. Recently I heard a prominent Oregonian state in a public address, that the people of Oregon are sending $500,000,000 out of the state annually for manufactured goods. Not all of this importation is necessary, and, as loyal Oregonians, we should fill our official positions with "our" best and most competent citizens and buy Oregon manufactured goods as far as possible and so keep our money at home.

Yours truly,
—R. W. Palmer,

CLEMENCY MAY BE EXTENDED

President Harding to Make Study of Case of Every War-Time Offender

DEBS MAY BE PARDONED

Woman Member of Congress Insists That Disloyal Remain in Jail

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Extension of executive clemency to offenders against war-time laws now in prison will be given early consideration by President Harding, it was said today at the White House.

The subject was discussed at the cabinet meeting and it was understood a policy of leniency toward these offenders where possible, was generally approved.

Each Case Studied
The president asked the attorney general for a digest of each case and Mr. Daugherty expects to have it completed in two weeks. Under the administration's policy there would be no sweeping proclamation of amnesty, it was said officially, but each case would be considered on its merits. The president is understood to view with disfavor release of persons who advocated property destruction or industrial offenses, although attention would be given service men guilty of infractions of disciplinary regulations of more or less seriousness. There are, according to Mr. Daugherty, about 75 civilian war-time law offenders serving sentences in federal prisons and 14 soldiers who would come within the clemency program.

Debs Case Separate
Mr. Daugherty indicated that the justice department would favor freedom for this class of prisoners by pardon, commutation of sentence or parole, where the facts and good conduct records would warrant.

The question of freedom for Eugene V. Debs, Socialist leader, will be treated separately he said, and that recommendations to the president have been completed although it was understood there would be no possibility of action by Thanksgiving. Any affirmative action in the case, he said, would be either a pardon of a commutation, as Debs was not eligible for parole.

Woman Member Stern
Mr. Daugherty indicated that the Debs case would go forward after the program with regard to the other prisoners had been stated. Alice Robertson, Republican, Oklahoma, only woman member of the house, contended persons unpatriotic during the war should remain in jail.

Bearcats Leave Today For Game at Tacoma

The Bearcats will leave this afternoon at 4 o'clock for Tacoma, where they meet the college of Puget Sound for their annual Thanksgiving game. The two equal weight and skill or stamina, or both, will tell the story of the score. The team will return Friday.

Eighteen men, besides Coach Bohler, will make the trip. This allows seven substitutes. The initial lineup will be: center, Cramer; guards, Ramsey, White; tackles, Roney, Lawson; ends, Hill and Richards; quarter, Isham; right half, Zeller; left half, Patton; full, Socolofsky. The others of the squad will be: Coughlan, quarter; Dunnette, half; Mickelson, full; Carey, end; Moody, Oliver, guard or tackle; Baggett, tackle; Carey, end. The team went through light signal practice at the armory last night, the last until they reach the Tacoma field. There are no serious injuries to any of the squad.

Some of the team plan to stop at Portland and other points on the way home, instead of coming with the squad Friday. The football season is over Thursday afternoon.

ARGUMENT HEARD IN 'BONUS CASE'

Supreme Court Expected to Expedite Opinion on Validity of Law

The supreme court yesterday heard arguments in the case of Thomas Henry Boyd, appellant, against the state bonus and loan commission, a suit instituted by Boyd to test out the validity of the state bonus and loan act for veterans of the World war.

Mr. Boyd is commander of the Portland post of the American legion and was one of the ardent workers for the bonus and loan act. One of his attorneys, who appeared in the argument yesterday was Franklin F. Korell, one of the sponsors of the bill in the legislature, a member of the Multnomah county delegation. Boyd's other attorney was Jerry E. Bronaugh. I. H. Van Winkle, attorney general, and his assistant, Willis S. Moore, represented the state, while Stanley Myers and Maurice Crumpacker appeared amici curiae as representatives of the American legion.

The court is expected to hand down an opinion in the case on an early date so that the sale of the initial issue of $10,000,000 bonds under the act may be expedited, if the act is upheld. The date for sale was fixed as November 30, but because of the test case brought in the courts which has delayed the advertising for bids, it will be necessary to set a later date. The bonus and loan commission has examined a large number of applications for bonuses and loans, and if the act is upheld, will be ready to pass immediately on about 4000 applications, so there will be no delay in delivering the money as soon as the bonds are sold.
