HIGHWAY REPORT HAS REVISIONS

Recent Stormy Weather
Makes Changes Necessary in Weekly Bulletin

Several revisions are necessary this week in the state highway department's report on the condition of Oregon roads, due to the high water and heavy rain and snow precipitation of the last several days. No serious damage is reported aside from that south of Jefferson, where two bridges were washed out completely.

A report much briefer than usual is prepared by the department this week. It follows:

Pacific Highway
Portland-Oregon City: Regular route of Pacific highway, via west side, paved to Bolton; Bolton to Oregon City bridge, graveled and in fair condition. Oregon City bridge closed to vehicle traffic at certain hours and loads greatly restricted. Traffic will find the routes out of Portland on the east side via Milwaukie street or 82nd street paved entire distance to Oregon City. During period of high water in Willamette travel advised to use west side Portland to Oregon City as river bottom north of Oregon City may be flooded.

Oregon City - Canby - Salem: Paved and open; high water at Molalla river has subsided.

Salem - Albany - Corvallis: Pacific highway blocked south of Jefferson on account of washout of two small bridges. Thus travel should cross Willamette river at Salem, pavement to Brunk's corner, then south through Independence to Corvallis or Albany.

High water at Luckiamute river has subsided and there are no delays to traffic on this route. Corvallis - Eugene: Pavement. Open to travel; water high, but does not hinder traffic.

Albany - Harrisburg: Open, although some water over road in Calapooyia bottoms.

Junction City - Harrisburg: River bottom flooded and ferry has stopped running on account of high water; take west side Albany to Junction City.

Eugene-Roseburg - Grants Pass - Medford - Ashland - California line: Road open and no delays to traffic; no snow in Siskiyou.

Columbia River Highway
Astoria - Portland: Paved except through city of Rainier; open for travel.

Portland - Hood River - The Dalles: Blocked by ice and snow, opening date uncertain.

The Dalles - Arlington-Board-

dan: Paved and open.
Sheridan-Grand Ronde-Dolph: Macadam and open. Embankment washed out at Dolph and another washout north of Hebo. Expected that traffic will be blocked until Sunday, November 27. The stages are making regular trips by transferring passengers around washouts.

Tualatin Valley Highway
Portland - Beaverton - Hillsboro - Forest Grove - Gaston-McMinnville: Paved and open.

Old Oregon Trail
Pendleton-La Grande: Blocked by snow in Blue mountains.

La Grande - Baker - Huntington - Ontario: Road open.

The Dalles - California Highway
Blocked by snow between Bend and the Columbia river.

Bend to Klamath Falls: Muddy but open.

Grants Pass - Crescent City Highway
No snow and open for travel.

Ashland - Klamath Falls Highway
No snow and open for travel; muddy.

Klamath Falls - Lakeview Highway
Muddy but open.

Central Oregon Highway
Bend to Burns: Excellent condition.

Burns - Lakeview: Excellent condition.

Bend - Lakeview Highway
Muddy in places but open.

Reports from Klamath and Lake counties indicate very little snow, and rains have not damaged the roads.

Reports from Central Oregon indicate light snow fall which is disappearing under the influence of Chinook winds.

Jury Not Yet Selected in Trial of Arthur Burch

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—The jury box in the trial of Arthur C. Burch for the alleged murder of J. Belton Kennedy, was filled six times today with temporarily passed jurors but on each occasion on peremptory challenges removed one of the number and another was called for examination.

Three of the peremptory challenges were by the prosecution and three by the defense.

There were nine women and two men in the box temporarily passed when court adjourned until Friday morning.

District Attorney Woolwine in his questions to jurors today referred frequently to Mrs. Madeline Obenchain, indicted jointly with Burch and asked several questions if their judgment would be affected by any "false sense of sympathy or chivalry by reason of a woman being implicated."
