BASKETBALL IS

Squad of Thirty Appears on First Night at Call of Coach Bohler

Dating from the last disaster for Willamette at Tacoma, on Thanksgiving day, the late lamented Bearcat football season is dead and buried, chucked into an abandoned well, without benefit of clergy, without hope of comeback; buried face down in the hope that not even its ghost can ever claw its way out again. The farther that awful football ghost digs down into oblivion, the better the boys will all like it. If they could write that story in fadable ink, and then tear the book to shreds and burn it to boot, they'd be delighted.

But basketball promises better. The season officiall opened Monday, when 30 Willamette Bearcats and near-Bearcats lined up in the armory for the big fight for power to attorney generals such games; then the Doughnut league, himself. where everybody is free to join everybody else.

Thanksgiving holiday, and not all Thanksgiving holiday, and not all who are here, turned out for the first practice. There may be some more excellent material hidden around in the brush.

The armory will be open Wednesday afternoon for the squad practice. Coach Bohler has specialized in basketball for years, and it's his game from cover to committal last night as to the prospects for the year, but was delighted with the enthusiasm shown, and friends of the Cardinal and the Gold are looking for a good year hoop circuit.
