

KIWANIANS HEAR PROF. MAGRUDER

Travel in Europe Compared With Transportation in United States

Having traveled in Europe recently, Professor Magruder of Oregon Agricultural college had a number of interesting things to tell the Kiwanians yesterday noon at the Marion hotel.

Gasoline costs from 60 to 80 cents a gallon in Europe, he said, and notwithstanding this fact, the big Cunarder steamers are all having their engines changed to oil burners.

Twenty-five miles an hour for railroads in Europe is the regulation, the professor said. Railroad transportation is normal.

"You get more accommodations traveling second class in France than you do first class," he said. "There is more room in second class apartments. In Switzerland second class apartments are better than first class. In the third class coaches there are just wooden benches on passenger coaches."

"All kinds of travel is bad in Italy, as it was so hot during the summer months. The best hours for travel in that country were from 6 o'clock in the morning until noon.

"In Germany, sleeping accommodations on trains were better than elsewhere on the continent. The best trains run from Amsterdam to Paris. They have the cleanliness of Holland and the swiftness of Paris.

"Airplane service was everywhere. It costs 10 cents a mile and you buy tickets just as you do ordinary railway travel. From Paris to London it is 204 miles. Your ticket costs you $24, and you make the airplane trip in two and a half hours."

In New York he ate Oregon prunes, boiled with cinnamon and liked them. On the big boat going across, the Oregon prunes were served with figs. In Germany the prunes were conserved, and cost 50 cents a pound.

"Oregon salmon cost the same in Switzerland as it does here," said the speaker. "In Switzerland all our advertised brands of cereals cost about 50 per cent more than at home."

For the 1925 Portland exposition, Professor Magruder recommended travel by airplane. It would be quicker and just as safe, and save valuable time.

Salem should adopt the plans of cities in Europe where maps are printed showing all big institutions and roads, making it easy to get about, the professor suggested. A Pacific highway map should be issued similar to one issued in Germany about the river Rhine, he declared. The map showed all points of interest on the historic river, and this encouraged traveling. Switzerland he found to be a clean country, with no straggly woods or weeds along the great highways. He thought Oregon might profit from tourist trade by doing likewise.

PARLIAMENT BEGINS IRISH PACT DEBATES

JAPAN INSISTS ON KEEPING BIG SHIP

(Continued from page 1) cated that both the American and British group were opposed in a general way to changing the list of retained ships of each power as would be necessitated if Japan retained the Mutsu. This opposition, however, is expected in conference circles to give way if the Japanese are insistent. In that case it was learned that the United States probably would retain the battleship Colorado and Washington. In place of the Delaware and North Dakota, and the 10-year naval holiday would be modified to permit Great Britain to construct two additional ships. The Japanese proposal is in line with the contention of the Japanese naval experts that exports of all nations were agreed that ships armed with 12-inch guns could not lie in the battle line against modern craft armed with 14-inch, 15-inch or 16-inch rifles. Both the setsu and two Delaware and North Dakota, and 12-inch gun ships, while the Mutsu and the Colorado and Washington each carry eight 16-inch rifles.

British Ships Smaller

Great Britain has no battleships as far advanced as the Mutsu and the Colorado and Washington. The heaviest British naval guns are 15-inch. Presumably, if revision is made for additional British battleships, to take the place of the two oldest ships of the King George V class on the retained list, vessels of the Mutsu type and armament would be added. The four super-Hoods planned by the British, that may be abandoned are more than 40,000 tons displacement and beyond the 35,000 ton maximum limit proposed in the American plan. It has been indicated that Great Britain did not desire to carry out any building program at this time.

There are some reason to believe tonight that British opinion in the sessions of the "big three" was being exerted against any modification of the original American plan that would rearrange the list of retained ships so as to make it expedient for Great Britain to proceed with capital ship construction.

Bird culture is going on. The latest development is a swallow that kicks like a government mule.

CANCELLATION OF WAR DEBTS PROPOSED

(Continued from page 1.) Mr. Lloyd George is understood to have been allowing the matter to rest until the present, but the approaching crisis in the finance of several countries, particularly Germany, has led to the preparation of a plan by Worthington Evans and others which it is expected by the foreign diplomats. Lloyd George would present to an economic conference, if one should be called on his own initiative.

DEVILISH LITTLE FRESHMEN LICKED

(Continued from page 1.) With their defeat of the juniors last night the sophomores have a clean slate up to today, the last of the series. Each of the others has lost and won one game, but the sophs are crowing without a single leather puffed. They made it a "hog-killing time" with the juniors, trouncing them 15 to 5.

The sophs are in all kinds of luck in having Logan, who was their sun, moon and stars and the little dog under the wagon of their team. He made six field goals, though it was done only with the valiant and capable support of his team. The field running of Patton, dribbling the ball, was one of the features of the game, as it was in Monday's game. Several husky football men belong to the soph team, and they simply couldn't forget some of the gridiron training. Several fouls were called on them for being too earnest, though it wasn't really the footballers who drew the penalty. Two of the football stars were in the junior team, also—Lawson and Zeller—but the referee didn't penalize them for their football reputations.

Sophs and freshmen met today, and juniors and seniors, for the last of the series. Then comes the Douglas league, a hodge-podge volunteer series like a bottle royal where everybody fights everybody else, not caring who he is, that will serve to keep the booster spirit alive. Frats, literary societies, left-handers, classes, red-heads, fats, beans, lone wolves, tied-for-fifers, and any kind of classification that anyone wants to make, will be eligible for this series.

Hop Market Dead, Says Prominent Local Dealer

The hop market is dead, a prominent hop dealer said yesterday. It has just been sagging and sagging until there is practically no trading. It is understood that 1,500 bales have been purchased recently by a prominent local dealer and the price was from 14 to 18 cents a pound. There has been some nibbling by English buyers, but it is understood that no new buying has been done. The British hop control board has permitted one-half of the American hops bought prior to July 1, to be imported into England. Until permission is given for the remaining contracts to be moved, it is thought the English buyers will not operate here. But there is a general feeling among hop buyers that there will be a keen demand next spring.

O'Connor's Trail Lost In Vast Maze of Tips

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—By The Associated Press.—The trail of "Lucky Tommy" O'Connor tonight was apparently lost in the maze of "tips" that have poured into the detective bureau since the escape Sunday from the county jail of the "Terrible Tommy" who was to have been hanged Thursday for the murder of a detective.

While hundreds of police and detectives today continued to run down dozens of rumors from half a dozen states, it was admitted tonight that "Terrible Tommy's" whereabouts was as much a mystery as it was an hour after he left the jail with two companions.

Deep Well Fails and Pipe Line is Proposed

BEND, Ore., Dec. 13.—Failure of a deep well sunk in the Fox butte section of the Deschutes national forest will cause Supervisor H. L. Plum to recommend to the department of agriculture construction of a pipe line costing $25,000 to tap Paulina Lake furnishing water to open dry range sufficient for 12,500 head of cattle, Plum indicated today.

Insist on the Butter-Nut Label

There are all kinds of imitations of Butter-Nut Bread on the market. But the taste or the shape of the loaf is all they can imitate. They can't approach the delicate, appetizing Butter-Nut flavor.

BUTTER-NUT BREAD

So, for your own protection, look for the Butter-Nut label like that shown in the left-hand lower corner of this advertisement.

For that label marks perfect bread from ordinary bread. Butter-Nut is the best cents' worth of bread you ever bought. Larger size loaf, 5 cents. A single loaf, ordered from your grocer today, will prove it.
