Stamps in Coils—

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

Broccoli meeting Wednesday. It will be held at the Salem Commercial club rooms.

All broccoli growers are invited, whether they belong to any organization or not, and all interested in the new industry.

The Irish Free State is now on its way. The national agricultural conference to meet in Washington on the 23rd ought to do some good. A lot of things should be done for the farmers of this country.

P. M. Gregory, of the Buttercup Ice Cream company, opposite the Statesman office, is putting in a lot of new machinery and appliances. He will increase the capacity of the plant 500 gallons a day, and in many ways improve the conveniences of doing business in this important field, serving Salem and all the towns and country hereabouts. Mr. Gregory will have one of the most complete plants in this whole country, or any other old country, when he gets through. All of which adds to the business and importance of Salem and is therefore of general interest and worthy of the pride of each one of us.

The total receipts of the Salem postoffice for the year 1921 were $144,560.33, an increase over the year before of $367.96. Some business, and it will be larger this year. Perhaps some readers will be interested to know that the receipts of The Statesman Publishing company for the same time were about $190,000, and that they are now climbing close to $200,000 a month, and will be before long pass that figure. A good deal more than half of this money comes in from outside points, and more than three-fourths of it is expended here.

ALL NATIONS ASKED TO BAR POISONS
findings were summed up in the following paragraphs: "It is the opinion of this committee that the limitation of military air power (as regards heavier than air craft) is not practicable at present. "Their reasons are as follows: "The difficulty of finding a basis for the proposition of distribution to be allotted to the various nations. "The difficulty of devising technical methods to impose such limitations. "The difficulty of enforcing such methods. "The inter-dependence between air power and a commercial aircraft industry which it is not practicable to limit."

Industry Protected
As to lighter-than-air craft the report said many of these remarks also applied, but that limitation of dirigibles was possible and practicable because their war powers, being dependent on size, infractions of a rule of size as to commercial dirigibles could be learned quickly and also any limitation of number to be maintained was enforceable. But again, the committee held, restrictions would be imposed on commercial development of industry which it deemed unwise to enact.

The committee also took up rules of aerial warfare and urged that this should be made the subject of an international agreement. It was pointed out, however, that while the American and Japanese delegations were prepared and authorized to take up such a discussion, the British, French and Italian groups were not, and that in some cases a national policy in various countries had not been matured as yet. For that reason the committee recommended postponement of consideration of the rules of air warfare to a later conference.

As an annex, the Italian group stated its belief that one way in which it would be possible to limit the air power of a nation would be by placing a limit on the number of pilots in the per-
