Marion County Gives Seven Fatalities to Total of 92 Within Year

PORTLAND, Jan. 29.—Fatalities from automobile accidents in Oregon in 1921 aggregated 92, according to reports from county coroners gathered by the Associated Press. Records of the state board of health show that the number of such fatal accidents in 1920 was 89, in 1919 the figure was 79, and in 1918, 66.

New Glareless Lens is Boon to Auto Drivers

A new glareless automobile headlight lens is out which seems to be a boon to auto drivers from the fact that it lights up the road ahead brilliantly from one side to the other and is free from the usual glare which brings grief to so many night drivers.

It is endorsed by the police of the large cities and may be seen at the Phillips Fire Shop, in the Y. M. C. A. building, Salem. It is known as Gibson's Glareless lens.

LODGE CONTEST IS FEBRUARY 9

Salem and Eugene Woodmen Teams Will Compete on Neutral Ground

Drill teams of the Salem lodge, Woodmen of the World, and of Eugene, both considered champion teams, will come together in contest on the evening of February 9 at Corvallis. This was decided at a recent meeting held in that city. The Corvallis Woodmen of the World will furnish the banquet and entertainment for the evening.

It has been decided that each team shall include 12 men in addition to the captain. It has also been decided that judges of the drill shall be from lodges outside of Salem and Eugene. Each lodge will appoint one man and the two judges select the third.

The contest scheduled for February 9 will in reality decide as to which is the championship Woodmen of the World team of the world. The Eugene team has claimed this championship and it is contested by Salem. Whichever team wins, it will be challenged by the Multnomah team of Portland, a camp with 5,500 members.

In deciding to meet at Corvallis the two teams will be obliged to travel about the same distance from home, as Corvallis is exactly 39.6 miles from Salem, and 39.4 miles from Eugene.

Eastern Oregon Protests Proposed Train Changes

Proposed changes in train schedules on the Wallowa branch of the Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation company lines and on the Vail branch of the Oregon Short Line have brought a flood of protests to the desk of H. H. Corey, eastern Oregon representative on the public service commission.

Mr. Corey has telegraphed F. H. Knickerbocker, general superintendent of the Oregon Short Line, and also officials of the O-W-R. & N. company, suggesting that the present schedules be maintained until an investigation can be made. The O-W-R. & N. company has agreed to this.

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

Business picking up. Salem had a good Saturday's business.

Do you remember when South Salem was called "Sleepy Hollow"? That was a long time ago. South Salem is just now taking the lead in new building operations, and there are many more prospects. That section is anything but sleepy. It is wide awake and full of ginger.

The biggest asbestos company in the United States announces that "the tide of business conditions has changed and is turning for the better," and it has restored the 10 per cent cut in salaries made last October. That listens good. Money talks.

The surprising growth in the poultry industry in both Oregon and Washington is being reflected in the greatest growth in business of its history of the Northwest Poultry Journal, published from the Statesman building. No little credit for the growth of the industry is due to this journal, which is always and everlastingly on the job.

The other day the fishermen down at Astoria bought 90,000 pounds of seine twine at $3 a pound. This means they paid the twine trust a "spread" of $247,500 on that amount of twine, that is necessary in their business. They have got to have it. There is no other way to get it. This spread is between the cost of the flax fiber woven into twine, for the twine trust has been paying only 25 cents a pound, at the most for the fiber. It is no wonder that there are underground reports that the twine trust magnates are the richest people in the world—richer than the Rothschilds or the Rockefellers or the Guggenheims, or Henry Ford, or Stinnes, the German colossus, if

Salem can get to going in the spinning of twine and the making of lines, this district can get part of the spread in the industry, and pay the producers of the raw materials decent prices, besides.

Unlike certain other distinguished foreign visitors, Prof. Frederick Dessauer of Germany recently found America far from "wide open," prohibitionally speaking. During a five weeks' visit and frequent patronage of a dozen hotels he saw liquor served only twice and then secretly in empty rooms. His competence as an observer will, of course, be challenged by those who don't welcome that kind of evidence.

but students at the national university recently held a contest to discover the ugliest Indian in Mexico. Jesus Memije won without a struggle. Despite his handicap he is said to have received countless dozens of proposals of marriage from "admirer readers" ever since his photograph was published in the Mexico City newspapers.
