Visitor Knew Mayor Halvorsen During Strenuous Days of War

"A few weeks ago, at a luncheon in Wasnington City-a luncheon with only about 40 men-the same as that at the Y.M.C.A. today, Herbert Hoover brought out statistics to show that within the last 60 days more building contracts had been made all over the nation than in any other 60-day period since America was discovered. 'That means that we are on the faint dawn of a sure prosperity,' he said in effect; 'the building contracts are recognized as infallible indications of coming prosperity. Keep up courage and stick to your job, and it's all coming right'."

This was the cheering word brought by "Dad" Pearshall, state secretary of the New York Y. M. A., who spoke Thursday noon at the Salem "Y" luncheon. He didn't actually say it in his address, but he brought it up later as one of the things he wished he
