STATEMENT MADE TO STAGE MEN

Delinquency in Complying With New Law Called to Their Attention

Fred A. Williams, chairman of the public service commission, has prepared a statement for the benefit of stage and truck operators who have not yet made application to the commission under the act of the last special session which places them under the jurisdiction of the commission. The statement calls attention to the fact that the commission filed notice upon the operators in January and that many have not yet complied. The penalty for violation is set forth which holds that the violator "shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine not exceeding $1000 or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

Relative to exemptions, the statement says: "The law further provides that certain rural operators, or owners not on a commercial basis, may, under definite conditions, be exempted from the requirements of such law, but such exemption must be obtained through the medium of the commission. There is no minimum or maximum limit as to the number of trips a vehicle shall or shall not make over the highway, but each and every such conveyance operating over the public highways of this state for the purpose of carrying passengers or freight for compensation, regardless of the number of trips made, comes within the restrictions of this act. This includes for hire cars and trucks, as well as stages and truck lines. The commission does not, however, regulate motor vehicles carrying freight or passengers for hire exclusively within a city."

It Went to the Spot—Lingering colds and coughs that hang on and wear one out are difficult to get rid of, but Henry E. Campbell, R. F. D. No. 3, Adrian, Mich., writes: "I had a bad cough for three years. Tried several cough medicines. Got little relief. I tried Foley's Honey and Tar. It went to the spot. There is no better remedy on the market." Good for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, clears the passages; soothes irritated membranes; stops tickling in the throat. Contains no opiates. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

One Stayton Man Fined For Attack on Another

According to statements made in Salem justice court yesterday, an episode in a fractional disturbance at Stayton occurred when Will Schaefer, of that city, was fined $22.50, inclusive of costs, for administering a drubbing to Gene Ware. There was ample evidence upon Ware, according to witnesses. Schaefer, who is an ex-serviceman is said to have resented certain remarks which Ware is said to have made concerning war heroes and the late World war.

Work is Begun Remodeling Marion County Court House

The sound of the hammer and saw is now heard in the land about the court house. Carpenters began yesterday morning to tear out the partitions in the room of the county clerk which will have a new ceiling when the work is completed. U. G. Boyer, county clerk, and his force is nicely camped in the room in which Judge Percy Kelly holds court, and will remain there until the new ceiling is put in and the floor for the rooms overhead. Heretofore, the ceiling of the room of the office in which the county clerk and the force is located, has extended up into the mansard roof. One of the new rooms, the one to be occupied by women jurors, will be directly over the county clerk's office. The Portland firm whose bid was so much lower than the other four submitted is pushing the work forward, as all must be completed by March 19.

Lute Bartlett to Serve 25 Days in Salem Jail

Lute Bartlett, who might well classify as Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk and disorderly and was fined $50 by City Recorder Earl Race. Bartlett, according to police officers, is a chronic offender who only appears at the police station when he has embled quantities of liquor. Whether it be the finest bonded or the cheapest moonshine liquor, Bartlett is transformed from a courteous, efficient waiter to another being whose oaths and actions are revolting to all.

VETS GATHER AT ARMORY REUNION

Methods of Bolstering up Patriotism of Nation Are Discussed

Celebrating the anniversary of the sinking of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor, the last spark that set off the Spanish-American war, the Salem Veterans of Foreign Wars last night entertained the Spanish-American veterans at the armory hall. About 50 soldiers who had served overseas in one or both of the two big American wars, were in attendance to dine heartily on sandwiches, salad and coffee of the kind that the army cooks never made when they were in the service.

A number of speakers were called upon almost every one of the members and guests. Many patriotic sentiments were expressed, and bits of experience, suggestions for organizing the patriotism of the nation on the military orders as a nucleus, maintaining closer touch with the foreign-born who have not yet become thoroughly assimilated by America, and personal memoirs of much interest from the various national struggles were heard.

Col. George A. White, adjutant general of Oregon, a veteran of three wars, was the principal speaker. He gave a particularly strong, scholarly address touching especially on the fact that every war that America has waged was for a moral principle, with no thought of territorial or business aggression.

"Mawkish pacifism, has sprung up after every great war," he said in substance. "It infests America after these wars with its 'old ladies' of both sexes trying to stop the teaching of a militant manliness everywhere in schools and colleges, hoping to wipe the names of Washington, Grant, Sheridan, Dewey, out of the school books because they were soldiers. Some even object to the Stars and Stripes because they are the symbol of militarism. It's up to those who have helped to pay the price for unpreparedness to put a stop to these perversions of argument."

"Those who would do away with all military preparation, all power of the nation to defend itself and its ideals are accessories to the death of the thousands of Americans and the millions of suffering ones abroad who died while we were frantically getting ready for the World war that we simply had to wage. The teachers of an ignoble pacifism will be responsible accessories to the death of those who may die of unpreparedness in the next struggle that may be forced upon us.

"I have served in three wars that came to us without our wish or ability to avoid—and every one of these was following an epidemic of non-preparedness by those whose tender hearts led them into a murderous neglect of facts as they are. We may limit armament, and hope to God that there will be no more war; but the teachings of the past still point the ways of humanity, and the nation cannot afford to forget its lessons."

Frank Johnson of Chemawa read "A Message to Garcia," the Elbert Hubbard message that has thrilled the world. It happened that Hubbard himself was a victim on the Lusitania the sinking of which ship fairly forced the United States into the World war.

In advice to scenario writers, Constance Talmadge says, "Write as you feel." That is another reason why there is a demand for censorship.
