Time to Register—The next primary election will be held May 19. To save trouble of being sworn in, voters should register at the county clerk's office. If a person has not voted for two years, or has moved since the last election into another voting precinct, it is necessary to register. All he has to do is to swear that he is over the age of 21 years and an American citizen. No questions are asked regarding age, except as to whether the person registering has passed the 21st birthday.

Here From Jefferson—H. D. Mars, editor of the Jefferson Review, was in the city yesterday and a guest at the Monday noon luncheon of the Commercial club. Mr. Mars says that as yet his part of the county has no candidate for Marion county representative or senator. He also said that it is generally understood that D. H. Looney will not be a candidate again for representative. Mr. Looney has served in several sessions.

Announcement—In answer to the many enquiries of the general public, the May Festival of the Willamette valley is to be a two day musical fête, given by musicians and music lovers of Salem and the whole Willamette valley, and that this festival should not be confused with the April 15 to 23 Music Teachers' association week of music. The May Festival chorus meets for practice in the Congregational church every Tuesday evening at 7:30. Registration will be received by Mrs. W. Carlton Smith. Signed, Mrs. A. N. Bush, May Festival chairman.—Adv.

Mostly Salem Workmen—Work at the court house is going on in fine shape. Of the 14 workmen on the job, 12 are from Salem, the other two being from Portland, representatives of the Portland firm that was awarded the contract. The work must be completed in four weeks.

Here From Tacoma—L. T. Bishop of Tacoma was in the city yesterday attending to some business matters. He is a representative of the Weyerhoefer Timber company, with western headquarters at Tacoma.

Fred Lockley Coming—Fred Lockley, the writer for the Oregon Journal, will be the speaker today noon for the luncheon of the Kiwanis club. The luncheon will be held in the new banquet room of the Marion Hotel. The committee appointed to look into the matter of supporting the Salem Indian school, will make in a written report that the Kiwanis club get behind the work now being done at Chemawa and urge Oregon congressmen to help in securing an appropriation for the erection of a building that will enable the school to increase its attendance 300.

People Use Swift's Fertilizer—Because it makes them money. See C. S. Bowne or phone 353.—Adv.

Mules Going Strong—There are just as many mules in Oregon now as there were three years ago, notwithstanding the fact that many people believe that the auto is putting mules and horses out of business. This is in accordance with the figures of the United States department of agriculture. There are 14,000 mules in Oregon and there was the same number three years ago. The total for the United States is 5,436,000.

II Southern California—On account of an attack of the flu, Clifford Sarff, a student at Willamette university is now attending the University of Southern California. Mr. Sarff was a member of the glee club and made part of the tour before he came ill. He plans to return to Willamette next semester after recuperating his health in the Southern climate.

O. A. C. Pin is Plan—Miss Mary E. Payne of Salem is one of a committee at Oregon Agricultural college to conduct a contest for a design for an alumna recognition pin. The contest will be carried on through the Barometer, the college semi-weekly paper and is a result of plans worked out by the Alumni association by the secretary, Miss Zeita Feike. Others on the committee are members of the Greater O. A. C. committee and the student body president and the editor of the Barometer.

Pittcock Cases Finished—The final mandate from the supreme court in cases relating to the Pittcock estate in Portland was sent down by the supreme court yesterday, finally disposing of the Pittcock cases. Do'ng to Roseburg—Several Salem Rotarians may go down to Roseburg Saturday to attend the opening of the Roseburg Rotary club, when they receive their charter and become "one of them." One or two carloads is already partly promised, for the trip. Breithaupt Here—B. F. Breithaupt, of Sedro-Woolley, Wash., is in Salem this week, on business. Mr. Breithaupt, who formerly conducted a nursery at Cleland, Wash., later went to Sedro-Woolley, where he has been in the wholesale greenhouse and flower business. Recently he bought in with C. S.

Clancey of Salem and he expects to have his up-state business closed out within a short time, so that he can come to Salem and take charge of the Clancey greenhouses north of town. They will make it a big wholesale center, apart from the city store which still remains as Mr. Clancey's personal property and enterprise. Star Returns Home—Willard Lawson, Willamette glee club member, football star of last season, is unable to finish his studies of this semester and will return to his home at Blanchard, Wash. Plans are being set and whipped into shape for the coming freshman glee at Willamette. An announcement from the chapel roster stated that all songs for the glee must be submitted by the end of this week. That means the classes will be practicing hard and faithfully during the next few weeks. Much interest is shown in this song-fest meet, an original Willamette custom. From these glees many new and striking songs have been created and each year finds new authors and composers. Bicycle Found—Harvey McClair of 1133 Court street yesterday claimed a bicycle which had been found and brought into the police station by Patrolman Walter Thompson.

Oliver J. Myers, local manager of the Spaulding Logging company has a cat that went through the same experience of the three prophets mentioned in the Bible who were cast into a fiery furnace and who passed through the ordeal. The story as told by Mr. Myers is as follows, and he vouches for the truth thereof: Several weeks ago he had a cat that spent most of the time in fighting, and as a result, didn't present a very nice household appearance. Oliver held a court-martial and the decision was that the cat should die. He bought 20 cents worth of chloroform and, going home proceeded to coax the cat into an air tight box and then passed in the chloroform. After allowing the cat time to inhale enough to kill any respectable feline, Oliver decided that he would just place the dead cat in a sack and take it down to the Spaulding Logging company mill for final disposal. He took his burden to the engine house of the mill and asked the fireman to toss it into the furnace. There is a way of throwing things into the furnace from the top, and this was done with the sack containing the cat. Shortly afterwards the fireman opened the furnace door to throw

United States National Bank SALEM OREGON Good Business—Good Judgment RECENTLY a prominent banker said that good business in the immediate future means good judgment now, combined with individual initiative and hard work. But often a person's judgment about his own business is not good, and needs to be supplemented by the impartial judgment of an intelligent outsider. The United States National has proved itself invaluable to many of its customers in this direction. May we supplement your intimate experience with our wider knowledge?
