ST. MAWE'S PRETTY LADY

New World's Champion Senior 2-year-old Jersey Cow, 820 Pounds Butterfat in One Year

Last night another Oregon Jersey cow, St. Mawes' Pretty Lady, belonging to Lester C. Daniels of Tillamook, broke all previous records for her class in butterfat production. It's a good deal of a habit with Oregon Jerseys, but this story is a good deal out of the ordinary run.

The record for the senior 2-year-olds has been held by Irene's Cherry, an Eastern cow, with 749.9 pounds of fat. Only one other of that age, a Washington cow, Walkik's Frances, has exceeded 700 pounds. She had 735.51 pounds to her credit for a year, just the barest fraction over two pounds a day for the full year. But here comes this new Oregon wonder cow, with a yield of better than 820 pounds for a year. The exact figures will have to be determined by later official checking. This record is 70 pounds better than the previous best.

These records are established by careful weighing and testing of its milk. They are not put out as "official" until the weights and percentage have been checked and re-checked beyond a chance for error. The figures given at this time are unofficial and are based on the known record up to the day before the test closed. The year was up at midnight.

The cow herself weighs 850 lbs. and has been given only good farm care during the whole period of lactation. The owner is a good farmer, who has never tested his cows before starting this test, except the dam of this new world champion that he began to test only 20 days before the champion daughter's test began. It is not in any sense a professional record. It reflects only the most ordinary good farm care. Mr. Daniels himself had a broken wrist that took him off the milking job for two months, and during that time and at other times during the test, the milking has been done by Mrs. Daniels and by fully a dozen other milkers. This would be the unpardonable sin on many of the testing farms. In the year that St. Mawes' Lady, the wonderful 11th 2-year-old near Independence, was making her record that closed the summer, the owner did the milking every time—he hasn't missed a milking for more than two years. This change in milkers is usually estimated to mean anywhere from one to 20 percent in a cow's production.

The champion cow has eaten

no alfalfa hay for a whole year, and no ensilage. For winter succulence she had best pulp and kale, with oat and vetch and native grass hay. The limit of grain was 12 pounds a day. Milking was done three times a day. During the summer she was out on pasture 15 hours a day, and when the weather got bad she was blanketed and allowed the pasture run. She is due to freshen in April, which will make her a gold medal cow; the only cow in the world of her age to win a gold medal.

The breeding is of especial interest to Oregon dairymen. She was sired by Poppy's Golden St. Mawes, one of the wonderful trio of sons of St. Mawes' Poppy. This wonderful cow, bred by Ed Cary, the famous breeder of Garlton, Ore., produced Poppy's St. Mawes, a gold medal bull; St. Mawes' Golden Poppy, sire of Poppy's Dorthea, champion with 100 pounds over her nearest competitor in the class of 3 years and under 3 1/2 years of age. This last of the three sons, sire of the new champion in her class, did not come into the hands of careful testing herdsman, and so his actual quality was little known until this sensational daughter was developed. But it is now being proved that this wonderful blood carries through every son.

It is a remarkable fact that of the 40 Jersey cows that stand the highest in their eight classes according to age, five cows to each class, exactly 20 of these are Oregon products. Most of them were bred for from one to three generations back here in Oregon. They were not imported for development or show purposes in this hospitable clime. By classifications the leaders here are given:

Class 7, cows 4 1/2 and under 5 years: Vive La France, 14,925.7 pounds milk, 6.91 per cent fat, 1031.64 pounds fat (Oregon); Olympia's Fern, 16,147.8 pounds milk, 5.81 per cent fat, 937.8 pounds fat; Goldie's Nehalem Beauty, 15,323.5 pounds milk, 5.91 per cent fat, 904.91 pounds fat (Oregon); Sophie's Tormentor Elinda, 15,853 pounds milk, 5.62 per cent fat, 891 pounds fat; Sophie's Bertha, 16,102.1 pounds milk, 5.44 per cent fat, 875.41 pounds fat.

Only four cows have been in this "first five" in two or more years in succession. Two have been three times on this honor roll. One of them was Vive La France, the great Pickard cow of Marion, Oregon. Oregon cows now hold first place in six of these eight-age classes, against the whole world, and at least one other world's record is now well on its way to being broken in Oregon, making it seven out of eight firsts.

EYRE SPEAKS TO GLUBMEN

President of Bank Says He Hopes to See Great Spinning Mill Here

POSSIBLE WEALTH SEEN

Carl Kugel Entertains Members With Story of Travels in Europe

George W. Eyre, president of the United States National bank and also president of the Willamette Valley Flax and Hemp Growers Cooperative association, speaking Monday to members of the Commercial club, said that he hoped yet to see the time when there would be a $2,000,000 spinning mill in Salem and the Willamette valley established before the world as a great flax growing country.

This dream, he said, is a possibility. Even as far back as the Centennial Exposition in 1876, Oregon flax was awarded first prize, competing against the world. Since that date, Oregon flax had time and time again ranked in competing contests against the best in the world, he said.

Withycombe Praised Governor Withycombe had tried hard to put Oregon flax on the map, Mr. Eyre said, but since then, but little had been done.

Just recently, through the efforts of the Marion County Realtors association, the flax industry was saved almost from extinction, Mr. Eyre said. The association now has 600 acres signed up for five years, with about 200 more acres signed for a lesser period and this, Mr. Eyre said, will firmly establish the industry again in the valley.

"This action of the realtors association in rescuing the flax industry was one of the greatest things for the valley that ever happened," declared Mr. Eyre. "I hope in my time to see 10,000 acres planted in flax in the Willamette valley, and this would mean the $2,000,000 spinning mill that I hope to see some day."

Flax Will Pay To show what flax would pay farmers, Mr. Eyre said that at 30 cents a pound for tow, it would sell on an average for $104 a ton and that from one acre, the farmer could grow from one and one-half to two tons.

Referring to the immense amount of twine needed by fishermen for the valley that ever happened, Mr. Eyre said that this past year these fishermen purchased 90,000 tons of twine and paid $3 a pound for it. Flax when manufactured into twine should sell at the rate of $600 for what could be grown on one acre.

Kugel Talks to Club Carl Kugel, in telling of his travels in Europe last summer, told members of the Commercial club that in England, all store windows were barred at night and there was no street wire electric signs as we see them. That the people in Belgium rather like the Germans, especially in Brussels.

The French people are still sullen, Mr. Kugel said and dislike Americans, as they think Americans have too much money. Neither does the Frenchman like the English or Italians. Paris seemed too sad to stay long, and then it wasn't safe to travel at night, except in crowds.

Old Road Stands The old Roman road built by Julius Caesar over the Alps between Switzerland and Italy, is still in good condition, he said. In Italy, he found the roof of the famous Milan cathedral made out of fine marble slabs. There are no cows or domestic animals in Venice and gondoliers carry folks about instead of jitneys. In Vienna, the street car conductor got 80,000 kronas a month, while the college professor was paid 18,000 and a first class lawyer only 16,000 a month. Taxes on property in Vienna is more than rents, Mr. Kugel said.

TRADE SCHOOL IS COMING HERE

State and Federal Institution is to Cover Wide Range of Useful Work

Salem is to have one of the new state and federal industrial schools, as soon as the shop can be made ready; which will probably be the latter part of this week.

The schools cover a wide range of industrial work. In Salem there is already a domestic science and sewing class. The federal government pays one-half the expense of tuition and maintenance. The state provides the other one-half. This may be done by direct appropriation, or through charge for tuition.

This new industrial unit, which is to make a specialty of automobile in the garage at 801 North Liberty street, just north of the bridge on Mill creek. It is now being fitted out, with press drill and enough equipment to make it a comprehensive instruction shop at state expense. It will be maintained by a small tuition charge, which is now estimated to be not more than 25 cents or at the most 35 cents for each two-hour period of instruction. This is a vast reduction from the charges of some of the auto trade schools, where from $100 to $150 is paid for service that these federal schools expect to give at a cost of not more than $20 per pupil for a like course.

GOOD RICH RED BLOOD

And plenty of it, is essential to health, willing effort, good appetite. Lack of it, or thin, watery blood, means illness, rheumatism, catarrh, humors, headache, wandering pains, cold hands and feet, decline of health-tone.

We recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla for all these and other symptoms because it is made from the best ingredients physicians prescribe, combined by pharmacists who have made a life-long study of medicines, and best of all, because it has helped thousands to have good, rich, red blood and all the blessings that come from it.

The worth and great economy of Hood's Sarsaparilla appeal to everyone. A bottle will last a month. War tax removed and price reduced. Get a bottle. For a mild cathartic, get Hood's Pills.

Mr. Milson, who is working under Supervisor E. E. Elliott, in the office of State Superintendent Churchill, says that the demand for such instruction is already so great that he expects the school to grow into a full-fledged trade school by fall. It starts with rudimentary work, but will progress as fast as the students are able to go.

Eight Indian Lads Start South; Police Stops 'em

Eight Indian lads, a whole tribe of 'em, were discovered at the Southern Pacific passenger depot Monday night by Patrolman Marion Putnam. The octette was waiting in wait for a southbound train for the purpose of migrating to the land of frozen lemons and oranges. Soon the eight were piled into the police station patrol and were placed in the already overcrowded city jail where all available blankets and beds had been commandeered by the earlier arrivals.

In the human body if you will use Trunk's Prescription for Rheumatism and gout, it is ridiculous, absurd and preposterous.
