THE SALEM HOG AND PROSPERITY

Time was when the "Salem hog" was a term of reproach— But that was in the long ago when short sighted people in Oregon entertained and worked up sectional prejudices, which have no rightful place in this state any more than in the nation.

And there was no such thing; it was a mere taunt. The Salem hog of the present time is a real hog; an honest-to-goodness animal that is adding steadily to the business of the city and to the prosperity of the Salem district.

The Valley Packing Company commenced business in Salem year before last. That year they packed 9000 hogs. Last year they packed 14,000. This year they will pack at least 20,000. They are going at the latter pace now.

That shows growth— It shows a fine spirit of cooperation on the part of the farmers of this district. The Salem hog of the present time is a real hog; an honest-to-goodness animal that is adding steadily to the business of the city and to the prosperity of the Salem district.

There are several articles in the Pep and Progress pages of The Statesman of this morning giving the advantages of the swine breeding industry in the Willamette valley, and especially of the raising of purebred hogs.

breeding means more fertility; better crops all down the line, and improved conditions in many directions. Swine breeding will not be over done here. It will take years and years for the country west of the Rocky mountains to catch up with the demands of the packers in this region.

FARMING AND FINANCE BOUND TOGETHER

The National City Bank of New York in a current bulletin says: "The business situation has been brightened decidedly by the rise of farm products which has taken place in the last month."

The change carries greater significance, in the opinion of this authority, than any other development that has occurred since farm prices touched bottom in 1920— And the statement is true, of course—

WHAT THE FARM BLOC IS TRYING TO DO Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, head of the farm bloc in the upper house of congress, is out with a statement on what the farm bloc is trying to do.

ter understanding between all worthy elements of our population. It is working for honest industry, honest finance, honest commerce, honest agriculture, honest labor, and it wishes to cooperate with all of these.

All in the Sound

Teacher: "Moses was an austere man, and he made atonement for the sins of the people." Pupil (repeating the teacher's words as directed): "Moses was an oyster man, and he made ointment for the sins of the people."

Still Missing

Freddy: "Say, dad, I can't get these arithmetic problems. Teacher said something about finding the greatest common divisor." Dad (in disgust): "Great Scott. Haven't they found that thing yet? Why, they were hunting for it when I was a boy."

Doc: "Did you follow the prescription I gave you?"

Pat: "Begorra now, if I had I would have broke me neck." Doc: "How is that?" Pat: "I threw it out of my window."

Teacher: "What is a fishing net?"

Freshie: "A lot of holes tied together with bits of string."

An Economical Postmaster

The inhabitants of a small village were proud of their grocer as the first postmaster. But later complaints were heard that letters were not being sent off. The post-office department sent an inspector.

TODAY'S PUZZLE

Change "hate" to "love" in four moves. Answer to yesterday's: Build-doll-lean-need-doctor-rob.

What becomes of the letters posted here?

The inspector asked. "The people say they aren't being sent off." "Of course they ain't," was the
