The work is the gift and memorial of the class of 1922. The class met Friday, and voted to contract for the memorial, after having had plans and cost estimates submitted by architect and builders. The class pays $350 of the cost, and the rest of the total sum has been provided for by unannounced friends, so that the work will be dedicated free of

It is expected that the work will be completed in time for the annual May festival, which will be held May 5 and 6. The university fairly turns itself inside out for this festive season, with the May day dances, the junior plays, the class games, general local field athletics, the burning of the frosh caps, and many other exercises. This fine new addition to the campus beauty and safety will be the occasion for a gratifying ceremony. The old steps have been in bad order since the fire that ravished the historic old Waller hall two years ago, and have been partly boarded up as unsafe. The new work will be of solid concrete, and weather and fire proof. The old hall has had three disastrous fires that destroyed the top works, and usually damaged the steps; the new logging camp where the company steps are expected to stand as long as the walls.

SUNDAY HEALTH TALK NO. 33-BY O. L. SCOTT, D.C.

At fourteen J. P. Brown got his first taste of sciatica and muscular rheumatism, and it was bitter, as every sufferer from either of these troubles can testify.

He tried many things, including a trip to Hot Springs, but nothing quite touched the cause. He was unable to work and viewed his trouble rather hopelessly, until he heard of chiropractic spinal adjustments, and learned for himself that they do remove the cause and give Nature a chance to express herself normally, and that means healthfully. Mr. Brown says:
