THE concert for the Associated Charities will be given tonight in the armory. Mrs. Goldie Peterson West of Portland is soloist for the occasion while Miss Elizabeth Levy, who has the concert in charge will give a number of violin numbers.

The program is to be a popular one and it has been promised that it will be entertaining for all. Popular comedy skits will be given by Biddy Bishop and E. Cooke

Patton will contribute some new feats of malle power.

The talent for the entertainment as well as all the overhead expenses has been donated and all money for tickets goes directly to the Associated Charities which have charge of all charity work within the city. It is hoped by the officers of the association that at least $600 may be realized from this concert which will carry the work over into spring and summer when the need is not so great.

CLUBS AND WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

APRIL 7 TO BE FASHION SHOW HERE

A Fashion Show will be given April 7 in the Commercial club rooms under the direction of the local center of Smith-Hughes part time classes. Mrs. F. E. Garker is the instructor in the Salem branch.

A speaker from the Oregon Agricultural college extension department will be present, according to Mrs. Barker and the show will be open both afternoon and evening.

Ms. Yvonne Honet of Paris is one of the entries in the merry "free-for-all" beauty contest now being waged at Monte Carlo. The ammunition used in the bloodless war consists of jewels, money and publicity, and each contestant has her retinue of admirers.

Dresses made by the different classes throughout the winter and hats made by the beginning and advanced sections will be on display. The affair will be open to the public and Mrs. Barker is offering this opportunity for Salem women to see what has been done in the classes, she says.

MILLINERY CLASSES ARE MOST POPULAR

More than 40,000 women were in attendance last year at part time classes in home economics where the instructors were paid in part by the federal funds, according to Miss Genevieve Fisher, supervisor of home economics for the federal board of vocational education from Washington, D. C., who visited three of Salem's part time classes yesterday while here.

The classes maintained through combined federal and state funds under the provisions of the Smith-Hughes act are taking sewing, dressmaking, millinery, house decoration, house furnishings, housewifery, nutrition and food values and preparation, Miss Fisher said.

"Millinery is popular among the women, sewing perhaps, comes next in interest. Foods and their preparation seem last to interest the women. Perhaps this is because women know that they do not know anything about hats and sometimes not much about clothing problems but they feel that they know how to prepare foods.

"Perhaps women do know these things yet it is a fact that every day we find that children coming from some of the best homes, where there is no doubt of their having plenty of food, are undernourished. We know that they are not getting the right food and it is this we are trying to bring to the women, just what to give the family to eat.

Miss Fisher says that in her work with the federal board of vocational education has taken her in the last three years into every state in the union except Florida and everywhere there is the growing interest among the women in the part time classes. It is two years since she visited Oregon, Miss Fisher says and at that time there was not one center of part time instruction while now there are six.

Miss Bertha Davis, state supervisor in home economics for Oregon was here yesterday and accompanied Miss Fisher to the various classes visited yesterday. Salem Heights was visited twice, since they have two classes on Tuesday.

"Tell your friends about the work you have had here if you like it," was the request made by Miss Davis last night when she spoke for a few minutes to the class in millinery at the Red Cross rooms.

Both Miss Davis and Miss Fisher spoke in particular of the good work done in the Salem center by Mrs. F. E. Barker, who has charge of both the sewing and millinery.

Miss Fisher left last night for Portland from where she will go on to Spokane to be in attendance at the state home economics convention.
