EASTER ASSURANCE.

THE maple gestured it With brown, curved buds;
Red robin hopped it With light, running thuds;

The streamlet hummed it With clear, liquid flow;
Wood-lilies breathed it,
And with these I know

There's life eternal
In the transient spring,
When Earth gives renewal
To each living thing.

—Audred Bunch.

EASTER morning ushers in with gladness welcome a season of much anticipated social gaiety. Music will resound throughout the homes and club rooms in Salem this week during the first annual music week.
The churches of Salem will feature special musical programs today as a fitting celebration of the Resurrection, which will also make an unusually good beginning for the seven days devoted to good music.

The military ball, sponsored by local and state military organizations for the benefit of the American War Mothers, will be a social event of Thursday evening.
Prominent local military men from Silverton, Woodburn, Albany, Corvallis and Portland will be present and it is anticipated that the affair will be an unusually brilliant affair.

The Salem Women's club benefit will be a feature Monday evening in the Elite hall. The affair is in charge of Mrs. John Wallace Harbison's committee of 25 women. The party is a benefit for the proposed women's community building.

Tuesday night the Catholic Daughters of America, formerly the Daughters of Isabella, will give their annual card party and dance in the Elite hall.

The Ilahee Sewing club, a local auxiliary of the Ilahee Country club, will sponsor the dance recital, "Butterflies Ball," Friday evening with a matinee Saturday afternoon in the Grand theater. Mrs. Ralph A. White's dancing classes will take the parts.

The military ball Thursday evening will be preceded by an hour's concert which is under the direction of Dr. John R. Sites.
Flute and cornet solos will be features of the program which will be followed by the ball.

Governor and Mrs. Ben W. Olcott will lead the grand march which begins at 9 o'clock. Army officers and former army men are being especially requested to wear their uniforms, and the affair will be rather formal, although those in charge have issued the statement that the affair is a public benefit dance and therefore cannot be considered strictly formal in character.

Members of the American legion auxiliary have taken over the sale of tickets and will have charge of those serving punch during the evening.

Patrons and patronesses are Governor and Mrs. Ben W. Olcott, Col. and Mrs. George A.
White, Maj. and Mrs. James Dusenbury, Col. and Mrs. Carl A.
Tyrer, Capt. and Mrs. B. F.
Pounds, Mr. and Mrs. George P.
Griffith, Dr. and Mrs. W. Carlton Smith, Col. and Mrs. E. Hofer, and Mr. and Mrs. George Halvorsen.

The Catholic Daughters of America, formerly the Daughters of Isabella, will give their annual dance and card party at the Elite hall Tuesday evening. Five hundred will be played and the Elite orchestra will furnish music for the dancing.

Patronesses for the affair are Mrs. Albert O'Rrion, Mrs. Frank Davey, Mrs. Joseph Lebo'd, Mrs.
James Heenan, Mrs. Eugene Eck-erline, Mrs. R. W. Hartman and Mrs. Josephine Suing.

The Tillamook Dancing club will give its last dancing party in the Shrine Mosque Tuesday evening.

"The Butterflies Ball," a dance recital by Mrs. Ralph White's dancing classes, will be given in the Grand theater Friday evening and Saturday afternoon a matinee will be given for the children.

The Ilahee Sewing club is sponsoring the affair this year as it did last year. The proceeds are to be used to equip and endow a children's ward in the Salem hospital.

Members of the club who will act as patronesses for the affair are Mrs. T. C. Smith Jr., Mrs. T.
A. Livesley, Mrs. Frederick D.
Thielson, Mrs. William Walton, Mrs. W. Melvin Plimpton, Mrs.
Asahel Bush, Mrs. Dan Fry, Jr.,
Mrs. William H. Burghardt, Jr.,
Mrs. John J. Roberts, Mrs. Clifford Brown, Mrs. W. H. Lytle, Mrs. Chester Cox, Mrs. Robert
McKinney Hofer and Mrs. Ben W.
Olcott.

Mrs. Frederick D. Thielson and
Mrs. William H. Burghardt Jr., were hostesses at a smart tea at the Burghardt home Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Edna Hackney Van Doren, Mrs. Thielson's house guest, was the inspiration for the affair.

Jade green, silver and yellow were charmingly used as springtime suggestions on the dainty tea table and about the rooms. A jade green bowl of mauve tulips and sprays of forsythia centered the table while broad bands of orchid satin formed a colorful base for the bowl. Silver sticks held jade green candles which added a charming effect to the affair.

Mrs. Amos Strong and Mrs. E.
Hofer poured during the afternoon. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Clifford Brown and Miss Catherine Carson.

Those bidden were Mrs. T. A.

EASTER MORNING

MAGDALEN spoke to the Gardener
Early on Easter day,
"Tell me where you have laid my Lord,
And I will take him away!
For I with the other Marys Followed past scourge and sword, Drop for drop of the blood He shed.
My eyes have wept, my heart has bled
Tell me where you have laid my Lord—"
"Mary!" the Gardener said.

O' may we speak to the Gardener,
When after dusk and gloom
We reach the place where they laid Him And find but an empty tomb!
May He a-smile in the garden Call us with gentle word When like Magdalen we say
"Lo, we have followed all the way Tell us where you have laid our Lord And we will take Him away!"

Modart Corsets Bring Back Lost Figure Lines

Many of the young women who followed last season's custom of "parking one's corsets" are now discovering to their dismay that they "parked" their figures along with the corset.
The change in figure that is sure to come when one lays aside a corset that has been worn to years is subtly slow.
The bad effects are rarely apparent before the harm is done.

Modart Corsets Front Laced

Ask the smartest women of Paris who plunged madly into this foolish fad how they feel about it now. They wring their hands and say "Ne jamais"—just plain French for "never again."

The process of bringing back the youthful figure lines lost in going without a corset is a slow one, but is none the less sure if a properly designed corset is fitted and worn.
Our expert fitters have made a special study of these cases and they find that the Modart Corset is exceptionally well adapted to bring back the lost figure lines.
The Modart, too, because it is so light, soft and comfortable, does not impose a hardship on those who have been accustomed to going without a corset.
