WILLAMETTE AND CHEMAWA IN TWO-DAY SPORT MEET

Willamette and Chemawa are to fight it out today and tomorrow, in an epic series of contests embracing almost everything but Greek and astronomy.

They play baseball today, as one of the events of the May day series. Willamette has played three college games this season, winning two of them handily, and showing that the third was hers by right of everything but foolishness and luck. The Indians have always had a live, active team, and are expected to keep up their reputation this year as always before.

Field Events Saturday

The Saturday clash will cover all the other field and track schedule. Both institutions will enter full teams in every event. It is quite certain that the Indians have trained the better for the general sports. In the weights especially, the Indians have some good men; good enough to go into college athletics almost anywhere. They have six men in the shot put, and some of these are hurling the big lead 37 feet or more. The best reported from Willamette this year, is a trifle over 22 feet, which against such competition will not be likely even to place. The native Americans are doing almost equally well with the javelin and the discus, and the Willamette hurriers are not believed to have much consolation in any of these events.

Varsity Leads Sprints

In the sprints, however, Willamette is believed to have a good lead over even the best of the Indians. There are some good men in Willamette, who would make the best runners anywhere extend themselves to their utmost. Willamette will be strong in all the track events up to the half mile. At that distance and beyond, the varsity is still much of a guess. The Indians count on the long runs, almost certainly. They are entering five men in each the half mile and the mile events, and expect to show the white lads just how running ought to be done.

Willamette ought to win the pole vault, perhaps three places in that event. The two Vinson brothers have made up to 11.6 feet, and Ganzana has done close to the same figure. The Indians have not been able to exceed 10 feet in their home practice this spring; they are entering only two men for this showy event. They are putting almost the whole squad for consideration into the high jump—six men in all being entered under their colors; and four of their sprinters in the broad jump. They will have to beat 20 feet in all probability, however, to win this event.

Indians From Everywhere

The Indians come from all over America. Crim, the quarter-mile is an Oklahoma lad, and a lightning boxer. Evans is from the interior of Alaska, near the Arctic circle, and is a wrestler of parts. Pettelin is one of the fastest light wrestlers in the whole squad. Hansen is a welterweight wrestler of so formidable a physique that the champion team from Oregon City wouldn't tackle him a few weeks ago when the two teams met.

While Willamette has almost uniformly won the honors of these annual meetings, the Indians have always won enough places to make them formidable contenders. This year's series promises to be one of the best contests in the history of the two institutions. Willamette has had such a stiff collegiate course that the track teams have suffered and perhaps fallen from the previous training standard, while Chemawa has developed a host of good athletes who might make this their victory.

Lineup of Indians

Two entries from each team will be allowed in each event. The Indian possibilities are:

- 100 yards—Thomas, W. Evans, Bryson.
- 220 yards—Thomas, W. Evans, Nicholson.
- 440 yards—Crim, Smith.

Willamette Entries

Willamette does not have nearly such a wealth of material to choose from. In several of the events, the Cardinal and Gold will have to scratch hard to get two entries. The possibilities are here listed, from whom the final entries will be made:

- 100 yards—Zeller, Pollock.
- 220 yards—Zeller, Pollock and Barnes.
- 440 yards—Perrine, Satchwell, Ferguson.

In one of the most hotly contested games yet played this year in the Junior Twilight league, the Eagles defeated the Lucky Stars last night on the high school grounds 8 to 7. Five innings were played. The Lucky Stars started right out and ran up three runs before the Eagles were awake.

In the first of the fourth the Stars' pitcher blew up and the Eagles came in with four runs. Dunnette and Calde were the stars for the Eagles, each bringing in two runs. For the Lucky Stars Jim Fargo was the stellar light.

For the still slipping Senators booted the ball behind him and, though they collected by 12 safeties, mostly from Gould, were unable to supply the punch that meant runs. The visitors collected in the first, fourth and fifth periods; the locals in the third, sixth and seventh. Lewis lifted Gould from the hill in the seventh with two on and two down. But Sheehan lifted a futile fly to Schick off Blackholder and the threat of rally was over. Final figures made it three straight for the boys from Utah, 5 to 3.

MATHEWS GETS RECEPTION HERE

Former Willamette Coach Stops to Visit on His Way to Corvallis

Coach R. L. Mathews, for six years the star member of the Willamette faculty, arrived in Salem last night, to be greeted by an uproarious, hilarious mob of Willamette students who plan to give him another reception on the campus this morning. He and his wife are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hauser, and are on their way to Corvallis, where his baseball team from Washington State university is to meet the O.A.C. team this afternoon. They may meet Oregon, before they return home. Coach Mathews came to Willamette in 1915, after having played on the University of Washington football and most of their other athletic teams. Later he attended Notre Dame, where he was one of the all-time stars in several field sports.

Mathews was coach of the freshman football team and of the freshman basketball team at the University of Washington last fall and winter. He had one tie in the football series, and lost one basketball game, all the others in a heavy series, his team won. He is now the coach of the varsity baseball team, and it is making a great showing.

"But I like the little college where I can know all the fellows," says Mathews. "My stay at Willamette was one of the bright spots in my life, and we're glad to meet all our friends again."
