RULES ANNOUNCED FOR MOTOR RACES IN SALEM JUNE 3

The dealers' stock car races, which are to be a big feature of the racing program at the state fair grounds at Salem on Saturday, June 3, are to be strictly stock car events, with no race motors hid beneath the hood or any other stunts of that kind, according to the declaration of Gus Duray and J. Eddie Hickey, well known race drivers who are in charge of the races.

For the benefit of automobile dealers of Portland, Salem and other Oregon points who are planning to enter the stock car events rules for these races were announced by the two men last week.

All cars entered in the dealers' stock car races must be stock in every respect, except that fenders, tops and windshields may be removed, the rules state.

Bodies Stay On

The bodies cannot be removed and must be stock in character. The gear ratio cannot be changed except insofar as this is provided for by the factory. In cases in which a factory provides a number of alternate gear ratios for its cars the most desirable ratio must be used. Such material must be factory stock and not special equipment, however.

No restrictions are placed on the drivers of the cars, the dealers who enter cars securing professional drivers to handle them if they wish.

Official Blanks Coming

Official entry blanks will be received from the American Automobile association, under whose sanction the races are being held, during the coming week and then the work of definitely signing up the entries will go ahead. Thus far, in the absence of the entry blanks only tentative entries have been taken, but in spite of this, over a dozen dealers in Portland and Salem have signified their intention to enter.

The Maxwell is the latest Portland entry, it was stated, George U. Adams of the Covey Motor Car company declaring his intention to enter with one of these new cars. Adams is known as one of the leading amateur drivers of this section, having held the Astoria-Portland record for a long time, and last summer establishing a new record for the run from Medford to Crater lake, during a brief period in which he was residing at Medford. Adams will pilot the Maxwell himself.

Vick Brothers Enter

Vick Brothers of Salem are going into the battle strong, according to word received from them last week, and will probably enter four different cars in the various classifications.

The complete program of stock car races, together with the classifications into which the cars will be divided according to size and power, will be announced during the coming week.

of the program is going even better than had been anticipated, and to date 11 entries have been made, including the best known racers of Portland, Seattle and Salem. In the line-up will be some real race cars, it is declared. The entries are busy getting their cars into shape and during the coming week a number of the fast boys will be trotted out onto the Rose City speedway and the Salem fair grounds for tryouts.

Managers to Participate

Both Duray and Hickey will enter the professional races, it is announced. At first it was held that these men could not enter because of the fact that they are managing the races, but arrangements were made to overcome this difficulty. The day's program, it has been provided, will be handled entirely by race enthusiasts and automobile men who will not compete, under the general supervision of Frank Watkins of Portland, Oregon representative on the race board of the American Automobile association.

SEALS GRAB OFF TWO IN A ROW

While in Portland McCredie Again Has Laugh on His Old Home Town

LOS ANGELES, May 5.—San Francisco made it two in a row against Vernon here today when the Seals won easily by a score of 7 to 1. Not only did the Seals win easily, but they put the game on ice in the first inning when a double by See was followed with a sacrifice fly and three singles which netted two runs. The Tigers used three pitchers.

Oliver Mitchell, pitcher for San Francisco and Rollie Zeider, utility man for Vernon, came to blows in center field just before the third inning. They exchanged blows for several minutes before umpires and players separated them.

Score: R. H. E.
San Francisco 7 14 0
Vernon 1 5 2

MAY DAY FETE IS BIG WINNER

Three Thousand Present on Willamette Campus at Coronation

The first day of Willamette's May day and junior week-end was a success from the opening reception to the last act of the junior play at the Grand theatre. Visitors and guests flocked to the campus during the exercises, and during the coronation of Queen Emma I there were nearly 3000 people present. Manager Fred Patton expressed himself as pleased with the results of the first day.

Coach Mathews of the University of Washington, was given a very noisy reception and a warm welcome in front of Eaton hall. The band was out in full force and gave a brassy welcome. President Doney in his address of welcome outlined the ideals of Willamette university and the plans that have been made to raise the endowment.

Crawford Again Egesides

James Crawford, master of ceremonies, outlined the plans of the legislators in reducing taxes and pointed out the danger educational taxes are to be in. The new endowment, he said, would make Willamette one of the best universities in the northwest.

Queen Emma I was crowned the ruler of the fete and her maids of honor and dancer paid tribute to her in dances of different kinds. Her train bearers, Josephine and Beatrice Evans, acted the part in fine style, and were very becoming in their costumes. Dainty, petite, Phyllis Palmer was the entertainer of an attentive audience during "Rose Ballet," a dance solo. The "Rosebud Dance" was another delightful feature with several little girls who danced a very pretty score. Their costumes and well executed movements of the dance were a delight to behold. The final dance, the winding of the Maypole, was heartily approved by the assembled guests by their prolonged applause.

Full Card Today

Today there is to be another full card for the guests. From 8:30 until 9:30 a. m. the annual May morning breakfast will be served by the Willamette Y. W. C. A. Hot cakes, waffles, cocoa, ham and eggs and various other articles of the breakfast table are on the menu.

Doney and Moodhe will contend for Willamette against the University of Washington in a tennis tournament starting at 9:45 a. m. This will be a hotly contested game for Doney and Moodhe have been going strong this semester with tennis and expect to take the victory.

In the afternoon will be the freshman green cap stunt, the nature of which has not as yet been divulged. However, rumor is that it will be something in the way of an original stunt.

Frosh Reavier.

With the sophomore's team for the tug pulling contest a wee bit lighter than the freshmen, it looks as if the upper classmen are to get the annual ducking. The freshmen have a team that averages around 170 pounds, while the sophomores will only be 160. The experience lies with the sophs.

Track Meet Today

The main event of the day will be the track meet between Chemawa and Willamette. Coach Bohler has several entries in the track and field events. Pollock, Perrine, Satchwell, Zeller, Lyle, Ashby and other track and field men will participate.

The junior weekend will wind up at 8 p. m. with a junior fete or frolic. The original stunts will be featured and a rousing good time is scheduled for the guests who remain for it.

JUNIOR PLAY IS WELL PRESENTED

Crowd That Packs Grand Theatre Thoroughly Entertained by Students

"It Pays To Advertise," the Willamette junior play, was presented last night at the Grand, to an audience that packed the house.

As Hamlet said three days earlier from the same stage, "The play's the thing!" It sure is; it's everything, almost, when it is as well presented as was this farce.

The play runs rings around the soap business; a tight-wad old father who has made most of his money in the world in corralling the soap trust, his aristocratic wife, his effervescent son, his son's brilliant and resourceful partner and friend, his son's stenographer and sweetheart and an assortment of other players who fill in the count. One strange thing happened to the cast. It wasn't large enough, so a mother, two sisters and one or two other ladies were manufactured out of the resourceful rib of the play manager, Fred H. McGrew, and these were every bit as good as any of the original cast.

It would not be quite true to say that the play reflects the masterly handiwork of Manager McGrew. It does show skilled craftsmanship on the part of the director, but it had good material to work on. If they make any funnier ones than Leon Jenkinson as Ambrose Peale, they've been hiding the fact by not advertising them to the world.

Elmer Streyer, with the lead as Rodney Martin, played an excellent part. His old dad Martin, played by Verne Ferguson, was justifiably proud of him and his schemes and the way he put it across. The Comtesse de Beauvieux was as charming an adventuress as one could wish. If Ambrose Peale were to follow her and marry her brain, as he would be in luck. The part was played by Miss Sadie Pratt. My Grayson, the leading woman part, was capably taken by Miss Pauline Remington.

Other players were Elton Von Eschen, John Brougher, Clifford Barry, Francis Kinch, Everett Lisle, Pauline Rickel, Helen McInturff, Bernardine Hobbs and Ruth Bedford. The university orchestra was directed by Byron Arnold.

Two freshman stunts were presented during the two intermissions of the three-act play. One was a black-face song and dance, by Milton Groop, and the other a "deserted wife" accusation against Streyer, the hero of the play, presented by Leland Chaffin.

The whole play showed a very remarkable amateur ability, in memorization, in stage handling, in character delineation, in direction.

INDIANS BEATEN 2 TO 1 IN TEN-INNING GAME

There were 11 Indians playing and the Willamette varsity, when they met Friday afternoon on Sweetland field. The most of the Indians lost, but two of them helped to win—Shepherd and Towner, who are of the Willamette aggregation. The score stood 2 to 1 at the end of the 10th inning.

There are few professional games played with as few safe hits or as few runs. Eight errors were chalked up against the Braves, and only four against the Bearcats. That told the story of the score.

The wreck came in the tenth inning with one tally apiece when a Willamette batter hit an easy roller that was muffed at first. He took a chance to stretch it into a two-bagger. Error followed the ball and the runner scored on what ought to have been a sure out. Never did a ball fall into so many incredible errors as did that horsehide in those four throws. It broke up the game, for it gave Willamette the winning run, and the umpire said the game was over.

The lineup were:
Chemawa—Atkins, c; George, ss; Beckett, 3rd; Nix, 1st; Williams, p; C. George, cf; Minthorn, 1st; Orton, 2nd; Abram, rf.
Willamette—Isam, 3rd; Edwards, 2nd; Dimick, cf; Ashby, p; Towner, c; Shepherd, 1st; Milliken, lf; Gillet, rf; Logan, ss.

Ellis went in for Gillet in the seventh.
