entative in Congress

Every person worthy of being called an American believes in fair play and in the pending campaign where misrepresentation and unfounded utterances are rampant, quotations from authoritative sources are of great value, as a guide to the voter.

The following utterances are given with respect to the standing, qualifications and service of Congressman W. C. Hawley, a native of Oregon, and who is a candidate for renomination to Congress on the Republican ticket:

"I know Mr. Hawley well; he is an indefatigable worker and keeps thoroughly informed on all matters before the House. He is popular among members of both parties and has their complete confidence; and when he speaks in Congress he has the attention and respect of the House and his words carry weight and usually conviction. His loss to the House would be serious for Oregon and

VOTERS, PAUSE

How can a friend of good government support a candidate for Governor who ruthlessly violates the corrupt practices act by expending thousands of dollars beyond the statutory limit? Shall violators of the law be chosen to administer the law?

J. D. Lee, who has done more for Oregon than any other candidate, aims to keep strictly the spirit of the law.

the Nation.—Hon Merrill Moores, Representative in Congress from Indiana and cousin of A. N. Moores of Salem, and C. B. Moores of Portland, Oregon.

"During the past year while the Committee on Ways and Means was preparing the tariff bill, Mr. Hawley was appointed chairman of a sub-committee on agriculture. The bill will show what excellent work was done by that sub-committee, due largely to the initiative taken by its chairman, Mr. Hawley. His counsel is always welcomed and often sought by those in direct charge of framing constructive measures. I do not believe the voters of the district he represents could choose a more able man. It would require years of service in the House before any other man could attain the prominent useful position now occupied by your representative here and my beloved friend Willis C. Hawley."—Hon. J. W. Fordney of Michigan, Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, House of Representatives.

"Mr. Hawley has grown in power and influence since he has been here until he has reached the unquestioned position of being one of the real leaders of Congress."—Hon. John Q. Tilson, Member of Congress from Connecticut.

"The Government reports show that since Mr. Hawley has been in Congress more than $16,750,000 has been appropriated and allotted for the improvement of the waterways of Western Oregon within the boundaries of his congressional district. . . . Mr. Hawley's successful work in river and harbor improvements is unique in the number of projects adopted. . . . The records of the committee, the house and the department will show that he has quite generally successfully worked-out his problems. . . . Mr. Hawley is considered one of the ablest men in the house, courteous in manner, effective in speech. Well-informed, trustworthy because of integrity, sound judgment and untiring industry in investigation, and well liked by the members."—Oregonian News Bureau correspondence May 11, 1922.

"Hawley is not a grandstand player to the galleries but he is a tremendous worker and is one of the most influential men in Congress." Pacific Homestead.

Some Inquiries
 Editor Statesman: I would like to inquire, Mr. Editor, if Mr. Ben W. Olcott who is seeking the Republican nomination for governor is not the same man who in the year 1910 participated in the Republican primaries and after the Hon. Jay Bowerman was fairly nominated for governor that year, hired a room in the U. S. Bank building and during the campaign worked with all his might to defeat Bowerman at the ensuing general election?

And did not Oswald West, the Democratic governor as a reward for Olcott's treachery, appoint the said Olcott secretary of state upon the death in 1911 of Hon.

Frank W. Benson? Has not Olcott been receiving a fat salary for over 11 years from the state of Oregon? And did he not succeed at the last session of the legislature in securing a 50 per cent increase of his salary and wishes a continuance of his lucrative job for another four years? Please advise one who wishes to obtain the record and to secure all the information possible concerning the various candidates.

Smith For Moffitt
 Editor Statesman: I wish to say in behalf of Verden M. Moffitt, our present chief of police, who is a candidate for reelection, that I have been a resident of Salem for 28 years and I consider Mr. Moffitt has made an efficient officer for this position as Salem has had.

Mr. Moffitt has made an excellent record in enforcing the city laws as he has given special attention to the regulation of pool halls and rooming houses besides being very efficient in enforcing the prohibition laws.

Another thing to which I would call your attention is to the manner in which he handled the police department at the state fair last year. His management was excellent, there being very little confusion or crime, notwithstanding the enormous crowds handled each day. He was very alert to stop all vice, crimes, etc., and the perfect discipline and order maintained helped to make the fair the success it was.

Let the voters of Salem remember when they go to the polls on May 19 that what is needed for chief of police is a man who will enforce the laws and maintain a high standard for their city and I am confident that Verden M. Moffitt is a man who will accomplish that end.

The above statement was unaltered by Mr. Moffitt.
 —FRANK SMITH.
