Mrs. A. C. Parneare, formerly Miss Effie Boggs, who is now living in Hood River, is a guest of Mrs. W. H. Minier. She will visit in Salem for another week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hibbard of Seattle, with their niece, Miss Margaret Stewart, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smith. They are on their way home from California.

Miss Lucille Jankoski and Miss Hilpot left yesterday for several weeks in the east. Miss Jankoski who is employed at Ladd & Bush bank is on her vacation and will visit with an aunt in Minneapolis.

Miss Hilpot will go to Canton, Ill., her former home and will be gone for two months.

Mrs. George L. Converse and Miss Lulu Paul of Walla Walla will arrive in Salem this afternoon to be guests at the W. P. Lord home.

Mr. and Mrs. John McNary are home following a month's visit in the east. They spent some time with Senator Charles McNary in Washington.

Wednesday night was open meeting night for the Sons of Veterans and Daughters of Veterans.

The Sons being hosts. The feature of the evening was in the hands of A. C. Barber, who presented his work in color photography illustrative of "Salem the City Beautiful."

This was thoroughly appreciated, as was also the social hour which followed.

These meetings are monthly affairs, and are a treat to the members of both organizations.

The members of Barbara Fritch tent, No. 2, Daughters of Veterans were pleasantly surprised Wednesday evening, when they were made the recipients of a beautiful silk flag, the gift of U. S. Grant circle, Ladies of the G. A. R.

Mrs. Oliver, president, and Mrs. Lawrence, secretary, representing the circle, Mrs. Lawrence presenting the flag with a few well chosen words to which Miss Julia Webster, president of the tent, responded.

The Chemeketa chapter of the D. A. R. will meet Saturday with Mrs. Frank Spears. Mrs. John W. Harrison will be assistant hostess. Election and installation of officers will be the business of the chapter for this meeting. The next and final meeting of the year will be on Flag day, June 14, when members will have a special flag day program.

The General Aid of the First Methodist church met for its regular session Wednesday. The last meeting of the year will be held in June and at that time election of officers for the coming year will be held.

Mrs. Harry Styles and Mrs. Fred Klein returned yesterday from Portland where they have been attending the state convention of the P. E. O. They were delegates from A. B. chapter. Miss Laura Grant and Mrs. E. E. Fisher from Chapter G remained in Portland for the closing meetings of the convention.

B. F. Irvine, editor of the Oregon Journal, was one of the principal speakers before the P. E. O. Sisterhood Wednesday. Election of officers was held last night.

The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Jason Lee church will meet this afternoon instead of yesterday as was previously announced.

The Aid society of the First Presbyterian church will meet this afternoon in the church parlors. Hostesses for the afternoon are Mrs. George Pearce, Mrs. E. C. Small, Mrs. B. Eaton, Mrs. Margaret Hogg, Mrs. L. N. Purvine, Mrs. W. W. Emmons, Mrs. P. H. Raymond.

HOLDING A HUSBAND

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

CHAPTER 32 THE WAY MADGE MANAGED DICKY

Lillian telephoned with such plausibility that Dicky, who answered the call and talked to her appeared to be much impressed with the urgency of her summons.

"Old Lill's in some sort of a wax, Madge," he said as he hung up the receiver and strolled into the library where I was sitting, pretending to sew, but in reality straining my ears for every syllable of the one-sided conversation I knew that Lillian would not wish me to come to the telephone unless she especially asked for me, so had stayed quietly where I was stationed when the telephone rang.

"I couldn't make out just what it was she wanted—the old girl's losing some of her old-time lucidity, getting just like the rest of you women," Dicky grinned provokingly. "But one thing she made very emphatic, she wants to see you and Dad pronto. I'd better run you in with the car, don't you think? There isn't a train for two hours."

"And I can't be ready for two hours," I said testily, pretending irritation at Lillian as the best subterfuge I could give. "I don't know why Lillian should always unerringly select my very busiest time to summon me. I've a million things to see to before I go, and I won't be any more than ready by the time the first train pulls out, so there isn't the slightest necessity for your taking out the car. Thank you just the same, dear."

"Oh, very well!" Dicky's tone was decidedly "huffy." Then he turned and looked at me cautiously. "What's the matter?" he asked. "Have you and old Lill had a run in, or are you up to something you want to keep me out of?"

"Neither, you silly boy," I returned emphatically, hoping that I could keep my face from flushing at his hit. "Take out the car by all means if you want the run. But you'll only have to wait for two hours, and with my long experience of you I don't think you'd particularly care about that, now would you?" I glanced up at him roguishly.

I am. As I told you, the Draper is the only model that will fit the text, and she's locked up."

"Why don't you make the text fit some model you can get?" I asked, trying to make my voice light and careless.

"I could if it was almost any other chap except Pennington, he takes himself so seriously that he actually thinks the illustration of the heroine ought to look like the description of her. And as he's the white-haired boy in the book world just now he can insist on things going his way. And as for his changing a word of his sacred copy! You'd better risk an air raid than suggest such a thing."

Dicky's voice expressed such deep disgust, his point of view was so unconsciously and superbly selfish that I had to struggle to repress a laugh, troubled as I was at this second reference to Grace Draper.

What Madge Feared.

I had common sense enough to perceive that Dicky was actuated only by his artistic sense in his wish for her, but even though I tried hard to remember my father's admonition not to "worry over your husband," I would not be a woman if I could have put away from me all uneasiness on the score of my husband's references to the girl who had caused me so much suffering in the past, whose reappearance to my world threatened so much anxiety for the future.

Of course, the knowledge that my father knew of my dilemma, that Lillian would soon be acquainted with it, and that both would make it their first duty to shield me from all unpleasantness resultant from Grace Draper's escape from prison, heartened me not a little, but I couldn't help the morbid thought:

Could anything circumvent the devilish ingenuity of Grace Draper should she choose to exercise it?

Strength comes from well digested and thoroughly assimilated food. Hood's Sarsaparilla tones the digestive organs, and thus builds up the strength. If you are getting "run down," begin taking Hood's at once. It gives nerve, mental and digestive strength.—Adv.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Grey, Faded, Hair With Sage Tea

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied, with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through the hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the grey hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color, and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.—Adv.

Leavening Strength Tells the Story

The price you pay for baking powder doesn't determine the results you will have on bake day— it's the leavening strength that counts.

You may buy a baking powder for less than Calumet and think you are practicing economy. Don't be misled—the baking you spoil will make those that are successful exorbitant in cost.

CALUMET BAKING POWDER

has successfully proven, during the past thirty years, that it contains more than the ordinary leavening strength. That's why bakers where it is employed never fail to raise properly. Calumet is used by more housewives, leading chefs, domestic scientists, restaurants, hotels and railroads than any other brand. Millions buy it—you should try it. A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 oz. Some baking powder come in 12 oz. cans instead of 16 oz. cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

"You spoke a little piece then," he returned, his face clearing. "But I'll bet a cookie that you could be ready in ten minutes if you only thought you could. Women are certainly the—"

I folded my hands meekly in my lap and looked up at him with an expression of patient resignation.

"I suppose I am now to listen to the successor of Mr. Thomas Sandys on women," I said slyly.

Dicky threw up his hands, patiently uncertain whether to laugh or frown. To my great relief he chose the former alternative and chuckled audibly.

"Strike one!" he intoned in the manner of the baseball umpire, then added with his ordinary inflections, "Suits me all right to stay at home at that. I've got the manuscript of that blasted book to look over. I told Henshaw I wouldn't take it, but he wept on my left shoulder till I was afraid he found spoil the fit of my coat, so I finally gave in, like the book
