

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Mission Committee Named— A new missionary committee has been elected at Willamette university for the coming year. Miss Thelma Mills is chairman. The duties of this committee are to raise funds to carry on missionary endeavors in the different parts of the world. This year's committee raised $581, part of which went to help the mission in India. Willamette students are helping to support a mission worker, who is a graduate of Willamette university. Three members from the Y. W. C. A.; three from the Y. M. C. A. and three from the Student Volunteer band are elected to this committee. Edwin Noren is the retiring chairman.

New Offices Preparing— The Associated Oil company is to have its offices in the Marion hotel after the first of the month, moving down from its old location in the United States National bank building. The old "bar room," now dry as six barrels of powder, is to be made over into the oil company's office, and will give them the much larger room that they now require.

Special Mass— There will be a special mass said in St. Joseph's cemetery on South Commercial street on Memorial day, May 30, to which everyone is cordially invited. It will be the repose of the souls of the departed and especially the souls of soldiers of all religions. The pupils of Sacred Heart academy will furnish the music, and Rev. Father Buck will speak. Mass will commence at 9 o'clock.

THE WORLD IS KIND

to the properly trained young business woman. Never in history have the doors of opportunity been open so wide. But, by the same token, the world has become increasingly harsh to the untrained woman. The very fact that it has come to regard women as competent to hold places of responsibility has tended to render it impatient toward the incompetent woman, as it is toward the incompetent man.

No woman can afford to be without some sort of special training that will enable her to earn her living, if necessity demands it. Probably no form of special training is more easily acquired, or offers greater opportunity than does a thorough business course.

Let us tell you about our summer courses. Write or call for information.

Pennington Speaks— President Pennington of Pacific college addressed the student body of Willamette university Friday during chapel period. He showed how the students of Willamette could do a wonderful work for the Near East by the giving of money and old clothes and encouraging other people to do the same. He emphasized the fact that while people in this country are well fed and suffering from excess eating there are several thousands in the Near East in great need. He asked the students to remember three things when they went to their home after commencement. They are as follows: "Inform yourself of conditions in the Near East; go through your old clothes, and get behind a Near East campaign and do something for the people in the land of want and starvation."
