

SALEM GRABS HIGH HONORS

Tables Turned at Veterans' Convention Where Much Politics is Played

Salem captured the grand prizes, sweepstakes and all, at the annual department encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars held in Corvallis, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Bolton Hamble, a member of Marion Post No. 661 of Salem, was selected as department commander for the coming year, in a spirited contest which resembled an old time Republican convention, caucusing continuing throughout the preceding night in the hotel rooms. He won by a margin of three votes over Chamberlain of Corvallis.

Other Salem Men Elected
Glen P. Wallace of Lebanon was chosen senior vice commander. Colonel R. Amer of Portland judge advocate, Benjamin F. Forbes, Jr., of Salem, department quartermaster and C. F. Hagerman of Salem, member of the council of administration for a period of five years.

The convention resulted in a large number of resolutions including a demand for the immediate enactment of the national bonus bill, but condemning a direct tax as a method of raising the funds, demanding legislation against Asiatics owning or leasing lands in Oregon, against the native-born children of Asiatics becoming citizens by reason of such birth, and appealing to the public for a more strict observance of Memorial day.

Entertainment Liberal
The gates were lavishly entertained during the two days by the members of Corvallis post and by the citizens. On Thursday a picnic dinner was served on the court house lawn, a military ball was given in the evening, and last night a formal banquet was served in the famous tea room of the Woman's building at the college. Lebanon was selected as the next meeting place of the 1923 department encampment.

The election of officers formed the closing chapter of a fight started in Salem in March of last year when the temporary organization of the department of Oregon was effected, James McCarren of Portland being selected as department commander, Bolton Hamble of Salem vice commander and Glen Wallace of Lebanon junior vice commander.

New Alignment Formed
On May 1 of that year the first annual encampment and permanent organization were held in Portland, presided over by the national commander of the organization, Robert Woodside of Pittsburgh. During the intervening months a new alignment of delegates was effected among those disaffected by defeat at Salem, and the entire list of officers was thrown out, and an entire new set selected, Gay of Portland becoming commander and Chamberlain or Corvallis senior vice commander.

The members of the Salem post have smarted ever since that time over what they considered a great injustice to the officers who had every reason to believe that they would be permanent officers for the year. This year Chamberlain ran as commander, expecting to be elevated from the position of senior vice commander which he had wrested from a Salem man, and an entire slate for the other offices was presented, but the tables were turned by the election of Hamble as commander and Wallace as senior vice commander, in each case being a promotion from the positions which they held temporarily last year.

Corvallis Shows True
The Corvallis veterans took their defeat in true sportsmanlike manner and a closer feeling of unity exists than ever before in the organization. The department now has over 1500 members, and Department Commander Hamble expects to double the membership during the coming year.

WORLD-RENOWNED CATTLE EXHIBITED

A few years ago, the late Governor Withycombe said that the country around Monmouth was one of the best stock and farm sections of the United States, especially because of the lime content in the soil. Apparently this or some other helpful ingredient had had its effect in sleeking up the Loughary cattle, for they are all fat, and as satiny of skin as the finest velvet. The foundation for the Loughary herd came from the Ladd estate.

At Independence, the visitors saw the Sunny Lea farm where Harry D. Hliff recently developed the world's champion senior yearling cow with her record of 829.09 pounds of butterfat in a single year. The famous new champion, a beautiful silver-gray cow of exceptional character, was there on the farm to live things up. Mr. Hliff has a bull that promises well indeed; The Maori, by Captain Tristram, the famous $4,000 Oregon bull that died last winter. The Maori is a black-torn animal of distinguished lineage and appearance, and promises to carry on the St. Mawes name and fame.

Mrs. Hliff Given Credit
Mr. and Mrs. Hliff have worked together to build up their little herd, and those who know say that Mrs. Hliff is as much responsible for the championship as her husband. They maintain their stock in farm conditions; so their stock is rugged and developed with the idea of lasting qualities. The visitors were greatly pleased with the little Hliff herd.

At the S. J. McKee farm, near Independence, the caravan took dinner, a historic event in the memory of those who were there to feast. The dinner was as delightful as a day in the Garden of Eden. An estimated 500 people took part in the dinner and the cattle show.

The Champions There
It was a real cattle show, indeed; for there were three of the world's champion Jersey cows there on exhibition—all Oregon Jerseys, all bred and owned and developed by common dairy farmers. The three cows were: Lad's Iota, cow five years old or over, owned by S. J. McKee; St. Mawes' Pretty Lady, cow under three years of age, owned by Lester C. Daniels, Tillamook, Oregon, and brought over for the Jubilee Caravan to see; and St. Mawes' Lad's Lady, cow under two years, owned by Harry Hliff, only a mile from the McKee farm. Lad's Little Pauline, that held the world's record for a 4-year-old cow until Pickard Brothers' Old Man's Darling took her place, was there in the string also. She was bred and owned by S. J. McKee. There were a number of other excellent cattle also present; but three world's champions and one ex-champion are of themselves an unusual show.

Congressman Presents Cup
Representative McArthur, in the name of the American Jersey Cattle club, presented to Mr. McKee the grand challenge cup for the highest Jersey record, it having been won by the McKee farm on the recent record of Lad's Iota, the McKee farm 5-year-old cow, with 1048.07 pounds of butterfat in one year. The cup, of solid silver, is a splendid piece of artistic metallurgy, and has been held for the past 36 years by various Jersey cows in America. It was first awarded to Landseer's Fancy, and has had a dozen owners in all its history.

An interesting fact about this cup concerns its last two transfers. When Vive La France, the Pickard cow at Marion, Oregon, won it, the cup was shipped to Mr. Pickard for his reward. A year or two later, Plain Mary, a Maine cow from the Ayer farm at Bangor, Me., barely topped the Veve La France record, with .79 of a pound to spare; and then another Pickard cow, Lady's Silken Glow, came quickly with only .59 of a pound less than the record.

Ayer Good Sportsman
Mr. Ayer, as fine a sportsman as ever lived, said most generously and prophetically: "Mr. Pickard, you keep the cup cut there in Oregon. It will soon come back there anyhow, and what's the use of shipping it back and forth when it's so sure to stay out there on the coast?"

Pickard Brothers kept it and it was brought from their place over to Independence, almost within sight of their own farm, to crown this new Jersey queen. At that, it isn't necessarily anchored forever, even with the unbelievable Lad's Iota. The Pickards have another cow that even in her present three-year-old form is going at such a rate that she may beat not only the last of the class records now held outside of Oregon, but even establish a higher mark than the older champions.

Hliff Stays at Home
The McKees and Hliffs have made faithfulness to their job of feeding and caring for their cows, a part of their herd world records. In two years prior to finishing of her champion year's record by St. Mawes' Lad's Lady, it is said that Harry Hliff was never once absent from the regular milking of his prize cows. That's some price to pay for a championship, but it won the coveted prize.

In all the history of livestock events it is doubtful whether there has been the equal of this McKee farm show. With three world's champion cows there in the one ring, and the breeders of three others in the crowd around them, there was a good plot for the photographic story. Probably not less than 40 cameras of all descriptions were trained on the scene, and the whole west ought to be filled with Jersey champion pictures. Never before in the history of livestock has there been as wonderful a collection of record cows in any one ring.

Lynn Owns Wonderful Cow
Frank Lynn, one of the veteran breeders of Oregon, bred perhaps the most wonderful, or at least the most precocious, Jersey cow in the history of the breed—Poppy's Dortha, that at the age of 2 years and 4 months made 994.25 pounds of butterfat, which was 101 pounds more than even the great Vive La France made at the same age, and 160 pounds ahead of any other Jersey in her class. Only three other cows of the breed, of any age, have exceeded her milk production in her champion year. The Lynn farm at Perrydale, the next one on the caravan route, has a classy lot of stock, that look to be capable of establishing new records almost any time. The visitors spent half an hour at this famous breeding farm, one of the landmarks of Oregon livestock history.

The Jersey judge at the Pacific International stock show at Portland, 1921, said of the bull, Daisy's Golden Poppy, at the head of the Chester L. Mulkey herd, that the caravan next visited: "That bull is not a show animal in himself, but in his type of breeding, and in the quality of his progeny, there is not a better bull in the United States."

Other Farms Visited
Some commendation! The bull was bred by Frank Lynn, but has been developed by Mr. Mulkey, and with the excellent females already on the Mulkey farm his present standing as a silver medal sire is likely to be made into a gold medal standing, and there is no length to which this royal strain may not go.
Two other stops were made during the afternoon, at the Ray H. Wisecarver and the G. W. Lawson farms. These are of the promising newer Jersey breeders who are going into the game with serious intentions of establishing some creditable herd records. The coming of the breeders' caravan with the accumulated wisdom of these wise old heads who have been smashing world's records with their theories and their stock to back them up, means much to all the beginning breeders.

The caravan stopped at McMinville for the night.
Shepherd Spends $232.50 Trying to Be Court Judge
George S. Shepherd, who was a candidate in the Republican primary election for nomination for justice of the supreme court spent $232.50 in his campaign, according to his statement filed with the secretary of state. Other expense statements have been filed as follows:
Gus Newbury, Republican, circuit judge, first judicial district, $73.50.
Wells W. Wood, Republican, circuit court, ninth judicial district, $73.40.
W. A. Johnston, Republican, representative 12th district, $3.15.
R. J. Carsner, Republican, representative 28th district, nothing.
K. K. Kubli, Republican, representative 18th district, nothing.
William F. Woodward, Republican, representative 18th district, $108.49.
L. H. Adams, Republican, representative 18th district, $43.89.
G. E. Welter, Democrat, representative 18th district, nothing.
Al A. Price, Democratic, representative 16th district, $10.10.
D. E. Fletcher, Republican, representative 11th district, $32.70.
R. M. Walker, chairman of the Fletcher for Representative club, in behalf of D. E. Fletcher, representative 16th district, $89.55.
John A. Jeffrey, Republican, district attorney for Multnomah county, $110.
George H. Dunn, Republican, state senator third senatorial district, nothing.
John McCourt, Republican, judge of the supreme court, $175.
James A. Lackey, Democratic, representative 18th district, 50 cents.
Oliver B. Huston, Republican, representative 18th district, $36.50.
John H. Stevenson, Democratic state senator 13th district, nothing.
John A. Miller, Republican, representative 28th district, $1.25.
R. W. Hawgood, Democratic, representative 18th district, nothing.
G. F. Alexander, Democratic, circuit judge fourth district, department No. 7, $50.
W. T. Vaughn, Democratic, circuit judge fourth district, department No. 1, nothing.
D. Chambers, Democratic, state senator 13th district, to fill vacancy in term ending January 5, 1925, $22.50.
L. L. Ray, Democratic, state senator third senatorial district, $11.04.
E. N. Hurd, Republican, representative 19th district, $27.30.
Oswold West, in behalf of Edward Ostrander for nomination for public service commissioner, western district, $58.80.
McMoran & Washburn, in behalf of F. L. Chambers, candidate for nomination for representative third district, $105.52.
Alice M. McNaught, Democratic representative 18th district, $10.
W. C. North, Republican, representative 13th district, nothing.
Robert Shaw, treasurer campaign committee in behalf of W. C. North for representative 18th district, $133.60.
D. C. Lewis, Republican, representative 18th district, $82.85.
J. S. Maglady, Republican, state senator third district, $34.10.
G. F. Skipworth, Democratic, circuit judge second judicial district, nothing.
Herbert M. Roome, treasurer, "Maglady for senator club," in behalf of J. S. Maglady, state senator, third district, $87.86.
Russell Catlin, Republican, representative first district, $47.75.

AT THE LIBRARY

New Books
"The Mind of the Buyer," a book on the psychology of selling for the salesman, advertising man and any one engaged in influencing men to buy, written by the psychologist Harry Dexter Kitson.
"The Pioneer Campfire," anecdotes and adventures of journeys to Oregon in the 40's, written from his own experiences and the stories of others, by G. W. Kennedy.
"The Farm Bureau Movement," the story of organized agriculture and its purposes and meaning, told by Orville Merton Kile.
"The Cockpit," a drama of political Europe by Israel Zangwill.
In the "Melting Pot," the author presented the problem of the amalgamation of our immigrants in the New World. In "The Cockpit" he presents the friction of their races in the old world.
"A Traveler in Little Things," leisurely sketches on such little things as the vanishing cursey, English villages, churchyards and little girls, written with pleasant humor and kindly touch, by W. M. Hudson.
"My Maiden Effort," being the personal confession of well-known American authors as to their literary beginnings, edited by Gelett Burgess.
"Roman Rolland," a notable appreciation of the work of Rolland, with special emphasis on his internationalism, by Stefan Zweig.
"The Empty Sack," by Basil King.
"The Marriotts and the Powells," by Isabella Holt.
"For the Children
The Third Book of Stories for the Story-Teller," by Fanny E. Coe.
"Boone of the Wilderness," a tale of pioneer adventures and achievement, by Daniel Henderson.
"Troop One of the Labrador," by Dillon Wallace.
"The Children's Own Longfellow," selected poems illustrated in color by different artists.
"The Wit of the Wild," interesting chapters on the habits and behavior of animals, by Ernest Ingersoll.

Pipes Spends Money to Help Bean's Candidacy

Barge E. Leonard of Portland, reports to the secretary of state that he expended $461.18 in the primary campaign in behalf of Franklin F. Korell, who was one of the Republican candidates for the third district. John M. Pipes of Portland reports that he expended $167.16 in behalf of Louis E. Bean as a candidate for governor. Other statements were filed as follows:
Robert Schuebel, Republican, representative, 16th district, $11.
Will E. Purdy, Democrat, for governor, $126.50.
James T. Lieuellen, Democrat, representative, 22nd district, $10.
Charles M. Crandall, Republican, representative, 17th district, $52.50.
Loyal M. Graham, Republican, 15th district, $10.
Harvey Wells, Republican, representative, 18th district, $71.80.
R. A. Ford, Republican, representative, 27th district, $10.
S. P. Peirce, Republican, representative, sixth district, $10.
Edward Ostrander, commissioner public service commission of Oregon, $3.50.
A. E. Veatch, Republican, representative, 20th district, $64.78.
Charles J. Shelton, Republican, representative 26th district, nothing.
W. M. Killingsworth, Republican, representative, 18th district, $50.15.
Claude Buchanan, Republican, representative, 10th district, $17.40.
Ralph P. Cowgill, Republican, representative, eighth district, $20.
A. K. McMahan, Representative second district, nothing.

"The doctor has ordered her to the seashore. Now they're having a consultation."
"Of doctors?"
"No; of dressmakers."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
Something else to worry about—whether the age of the world is 8,000,000 or 1,700,000,000 years. Scientists are discussing it back east.

AT THE LIBRARY
New Books
"The Mind of the Buyer," a book on the psychology of selling for the salesman, advertising man and any one engaged in influencing men to buy, written by the psychologist Harry Dexter Kitson.
"The Pioneer Campfire," anecdotes and adventures of journeys to Oregon in the 40's, written from his own experiences and the stories of others, by G. W. Kennedy.
"The Farm Bureau Movement," the story of organized agriculture and its purposes and meaning, told by Orville Merton Kile.
"The Cockpit," a drama of political Europe by Israel Zangwill.
In the "Melting Pot," the author presented the problem of the amalgamation of our immigrants in the New World. In "The Cockpit" he presents the friction of their races in the old world.
"A Traveler in Little Things," leisurely sketches on such little things as the vanishing cursey, English villages, churchyards and little girls, written with pleasant humor and kindly touch, by W. M. Hudson.
"My Maiden Effort," being the personal confession of well-known American authors as to their literary beginnings, edited by Gelett Burgess.
"Roman Rolland," a notable appreciation of the work of Rolland, with special emphasis on his internationalism, by Stefan Zweig.
"The Empty Sack," by Basil King.
"The Marriotts and the Powells," by Isabella Holt.
"For the Children
The Third Book of Stories for the Story-Teller," by Fanny E. Coe.
"Boone of the Wilderness," a tale of pioneer adventures and achievement, by Daniel Henderson.
"Troop One of the Labrador," by Dillon Wallace.
"The Children's Own Longfellow," selected poems illustrated in color by different artists.
"The Wit of the Wild," interesting chapters on the habits and behavior of animals, by Ernest Ingersoll.

Barge E. Leonard of Portland, reports to the secretary of state that he expended $461.18 in the primary campaign in behalf of Franklin F. Korell, who was one of the Republican candidates for the third district. John M. Pipes of Portland reports that he expended $167.16 in behalf of Louis E. Bean as a candidate for governor. Other statements were filed as follows:
Robert Schuebel, Republican, representative, 16th district, $11.
Will E. Purdy, Democrat, for governor, $126.50.
James T. Lieuellen, Democrat, representative, 22nd district, $10.
Charles M. Crandall, Republican, representative, 17th district, $52.50.
Loyal M. Graham, Republican, 15th district, $10.
Harvey Wells, Republican, representative, 18th district, $71.80.
R. A. Ford, Republican, representative, 27th district, $10.
S. P. Peirce, Republican, representative, sixth district, $10.
Edward Ostrander, commissioner public service commission of Oregon, $3.50.
A. E. Veatch, Republican, representative, 20th district, $64.78.
Charles J. Shelton, Republican, representative 26th district, nothing.
W. M. Killingsworth, Republican, representative, 18th district, $50.15.
Claude Buchanan, Republican, representative, 10th district, $17.40.
Ralph P. Cowgill, Republican, representative, eighth district, $20.
A. K. McMahan, Representative second district, nothing.

"The doctor has ordered her to the seashore. Now they're having a consultation."
"Of doctors?"
"No; of dressmakers."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
Something else to worry about—whether the age of the world is 8,000,000 or 1,700,000,000 years. Scientists are discussing it back east.

"R" PUZZLE CONTEST CLOSSES MAY 31st

Only a few days more for you to send in your "R" puzzle answers. Don't delay. Mail or bring in your list at once. There is equal opportunity to win one of the cash prizes.
And don't forget to qualify your answer in class "D."

THE STATESMAN PUBLISHING CO.
Publishers of The Pacific Homestead, The Northwest Poultry Journal, The Daily Oregon Statesman, and The Semi-Weekly Oregon Statesman announces
Great Observation Puzzle

Young and old may join in the fun—all can participate, from the tiniest child to grandfather and great-grandmother. No object is so small but that the poorest eyesight can see it. It is a test of skill. Your ability to find "it" words determine the prize you win. The most interesting puzzle ever devised. No complicated rules.
GRAND PRIZE $500.00 CASH
and a whole series of other cash prizes. You do not have to be a subscriber to win a prize. This puzzle is open to every man, woman, boy or girl—it costs nothing to try.

How many visible objects in the above picture have names which begin with "R."

YOU CAN WIN $500.00
Here's How—If your answer is awarded first prize by the judges and you have sent in two subscriptions in class C as described you will receive $200.00 as your prize instead of $20.00; second prize $100.00; third prize $60.00, etc. (see third column in prize list) or if your answer is awarded first prize by the judges and you have sent in three subscriptions as described in class D you will receive $500.00 as your prize instead of $20.00; second prize $200.00; third prize $100.00, etc. (see fourth column in prize list)

INFORMATION
RULES AND REGULATIONS
1.—Any man, woman, boy or girl (except adult employees of The Statesman Publishing Co.) may submit an answer. It costs nothing to try.
2.—Answers should be written on one side of the paper only and words numbered consecutively 1, 2, 3, etc. Write your full name and address on each page in the upper right hand corner. If you desire to write anything else, use a separate sheet.
3.—Only words found in the English dictionary will be counted. Do not use compound, hyphenated, or obsolete words. Use either the singular or plural, but where the plural is used the singular cannot be counted, and vice versa.
4.—Words of the same spelling can be used only once, even though used to designate different objects. The same object can be counted only once; however, any part of the object may also be named.
5.—The answer having the largest and nearest correct list of names of visible objects shown in the picture that begin with the letter "R" will be awarded first prize, etc. Neatness, style or handwriting have no bearing upon deciding the winners.
6.—Candidates may co-operate in answering the puzzle, but only one prize will be awarded to more than one of any group outside the family where two or more have been working together.
7.—A committee of three well known Oregon people having no connection with The Statesman Publishing Company will act as judges, their names to be announced in a few days. Participants agree to accept all decisions of the judges as final and conclusive.
8.—All answers will receive the same consideration, regardless of whether or not a subscription is sent in. The best list received will be rated as first and receive the award in accordance with the class in which it belongs (A, B, C, or D). The second best list will be rated second and receive the award in accordance with the class in which it belongs (A, B, C, or D) and so on, till all the awards have been distributed.
9.—All answers must be handed in or placed in the mail not later than May 31st, 1922.
10.—The announcement of the prize winners and the correct list of words will be printed at the close of the contest and a copy mailed to each person sending in a picture puzzle solution.
11.—All questions or correspondence regarding the observation puzzle should be addressed to Eugene Pacific Editor, Statesman Publishing Co., Salem, Oregon.
12.—All answers must be handed in or placed in the mail not later than May 31st, 1922.
13.—If for any reason whatever the Pacific Editor considers any disqualified, he reserves the right to reject such persons from the offer by refunding the money paid for subscription.
14.—In case of a tie, the prize so offered will be pooled in a fair and equitable manner.

Table with 4 columns: CLASS A, CLASS B, CLASS C, CLASS D. Lists prize amounts for different subscription classes and puzzle solutions.

TABLE OF PRIZES, PICTURE PUZZLE CONTEST

Table with 4 columns: CLASS A, CLASS B, CLASS C, CLASS D. Lists prize amounts for different subscription classes and puzzle solutions.

PUZZLE COUPON:

A coupon form for entering a puzzle contest, including fields for name, address, city, state, and subscription details.

The Book of a Thousand Songs

The World's Largest Collection of the Songs of the People Containing More Than a Thousand Old and New Favorites.

Edited by Albert E. Wier

The purpose of this book has been to assemble within its covers practically every song, old and new, which by reason of its merit deserves a place in the hearts of music lovers. The more than one thousand songs which it contains have been selected with the greatest possible amount of careful discrimination and it is the sincere hope of the publishers that it will fill a niche all of its own in the domain of musical collections for the home.

Our Great Coupon Offer Makes it Almost a Gift

Publisher's Price $3.00, Yours for only 79¢ and three coupons. MONEY BACK. Take this book home, examine it carefully. If you are not satisfied return it within forty-eight hours and this paper will refund your money. Clip Coupon Today.