Freeman Will Speak— D. C. Freeman, representing the Associated Industries of Oregon, is to be the principal speaker at the Commercial club luncheon on Monday noon. This will be the first of the two-bit luncheons for the summer, and it's going to be cool enough and enjoyable enough that not even a dyspeptic or a victim of the gout can afford to stay away. Mr. Freeman is to bring about eight other Oregon manufacturing boosters with him, from Portland or along the road, and they expect to bring a vivid message of what's doing in the Webfoot state when it comes to making things and saving the freight both ways.

Farrar to Get Pointers— John Farrar, postmaster-elect for the Salem postoffice, has received orders to report to the Portland postmaster, on June 9 for two days instruction in the gentle art of being a postmaster. That isn't exactly the way the government stated it, but it is the substance of the order. The service is growing so rapidly in its scope and efficiency, that the men in big positions are being used as instructors to pass the word along down the line. Mr. Farrar sent in his official bond some time ago, and he expects that he will be ordered to take charge of the Salem office at the beginning of the next quarter, July 1.

Auto Races— Saturday, June 3, 3 p. m., at state fair grounds. Grand stand and box seats on sale now at the Gray Belle.—Adv.

Family in Distress— A woman with three children and practically nothing to eat in the house except what the neighborhood charity had sent, was reported to Dr. H. E. Morris of the Associated Charities last night. Dr. Morris hopes that help will be volunteered for the family by Salem folks this morning. With no money in the treasury and still $20 worth of bills outstanding, such help is all that can be given. The amount of outstanding bills has been reduced to $20 through cash contributions of local persons. Five dollars was received yesterday by Dr. Morris toward the general fund. Dr. Morris' phone number is 239.

Indian Boy Scouts Deserving— There are 80 Boy Scouts at the Salem Indian training school at Chemawa. They are said to be the only Indian Boy Scout troops in the world. They are guided in their work by Scoutmasters R. G. Henderson, George W. Bent and Wallace Beebe. The splendid training of these Indian Boy Scouts was shown during commencement time at the school. They saw to the parking of cars and the handling of crowds in a most efficient manner, and they patrolled the cars after they were parked, in order to guard against anything being disturbed. In short they acted the part of good Boy Scouts, right up to the last requirement. There can be no question concerning the value of the training these Indian boys are receiving as members of that great organization.

MAY RECEIPTS TOTAL LARGE

Good Business Done at Salem Postoffice During Month Just Closed

The May receipts at the Salem postoffice were next to the highest of all months in the history of the office. Last December, with all its prosperity holiday business, totalled $17,987.62. The May total was $16,247.41, divided into $10,930.24 for stamps, $514.97 for second class entries, and $4,802.20 for third class matter. The third class matter is such as is mailed under permit, and checked up by weight instead of having stamps affixed to each parcel.

Election Builds It Up This year it was the mailing of the state election pamphlets and supplies that ran the totals away up. The tabulated record for the past 12 years can be examined and the May receipts show that they are always from 15 to 50 per cent larger than the adjoining months, because of the May mailing of election stuff. Assistant Postmaster John Farrer, who will become postmaster in the near future, probably about the first of July, has kept a private record of the office business covering a long term of years, that shows many interesting items. For instance, September, 1921, had only $8,566.60 total receipts, while September, 1920 showed $13,328.43, no previous September showed any perceptible variation from the gradually increasing figures. July 1920, had $13,977.75 or $4,000 more than any other July, before or since. November, 1910, had only $4,253.03; the next November brought in $10,149.57, with no election in sight. There are dull days in the of-rice, dull weeks, months, years, when the people just naturally stop using the postoffice. The number of daily callers may vary as much as several hundred per cent, with no apparent reason. While the actual volume of business shows a rather steady increase based almost directly on the increase of population—the actual number of postoffice callers has no rule for its computation—they come or they don't come, and nobody knows why. Comes Many Ways Only about 10 per cent of all the office mail is put in the drop boxes in the lobby. The rest comes in by carrier collection, or is brought to the back door by the larger business houses. The new annex, that will be ready for use within the next two or three weeks, is to be used entirely for receiving and sorting the mail, ready for the carriers, the various windows and for the outside mails. The carriers' tables will remain where they now are, in the old main building, though all will have much more and better room for working.

Winifred Moore Dies Here After Lingerin Illness

Winifred Moore, age 48 years, died Friday afternoon at his home, 460 South Twenty-third street, Salem, after a long illness. He leaves his widow and two sons, Winifred, Jr., and Wallace; his father, Franklin Moore; two sisters, Mrs. Richard Newbee of Wichita, Kansas, and Caroline Miser, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; and a brother, Wallace Moore of Noblesville, Ind. The family came to Salem about a year ago from Brownsville, Or. He was a member of the Odd Fellows lodge, which will have charge of the funeral services, though the date is not yet announced. The body is at Webb & Clough's.
