BANKERS WIN IN FAST GAME

Hooper and Louderbeck Pitch Good Ball—Features Spectacular

Hooper of the Loggers and Louderbeck of the Bankers are the twin heroes of the closest game yet played in the Twilight League series. Not exactly twins in luck, for the Bankers landed two men across the plate and the Loggers only one, but it took seven innings to do it.

Hooper was a bit out of luck in the third, when the money changer slipped him some counterfeit currency in the form of three hits but good fielding cut them down to only one run—their first Louderbeck had only four hits chalked against him in seven innings, and Hooper only six. When the Bankers could make six hits and get only two runs, it shows that they weren't losing much on wild passes. Passes were about as scarce as million dollar bills all through the game.

Pitching Above Par

They must have had some phantom bats through most of the game for the sluggers simply couldn't touch 'em. Hooper had 11 strikeouts to his credit, and Louderbeck 12, out of the 21 put-outs on each side. That's better than league pitching anywhere on earth.

Both teams have improved noticeably in fielding, though with such pitching it's a waste of good time to run a lot of fielders out there to fool around idly. It was a corking good game, and the Loggers got almost as much glory out of losing as they did, as they would have done to get a scratch verdict. They were just going to score, with a man half-way home from third, when their last batter collided with Lady Luck and she bowled him over.

Games Are Real Class

The crowd was not large, but it saw as pretty a contest as any ever staged on Sweetland field. These games look like the class, and whoever wastes time eating a common supper when he could see this brand of g'it-edged baseball, is a pinkish-blooded sucker and a man who would sell his soul for wizened wickerwork.

The Loggers did some fancy tagging between bases. Thompson, after a fine two-bagger, tried to stretch on home, was run down between third and home. Unruh, taking a chance between first and second, finally got to second throw a misplay by the Logger fielder. Then the wily Hooper started back for the box, ready to wind up for another victim; Unruh ventured off the base—and McCallister, with a grin that stretched all the way from east to west, produced the ball he had been hiding in his jeans and touched off Unruh. He touched him about three times, for fear that the ump would rule that if you didn't give a big man extra measure, as a tailor would do, he wouldn't be clear out.

That was worth a little more to the Loggers than to win the game. They are going to pull it regularly, hereafter.

Angels Beat Lucky Stars Yesterday; Score 9 to 6

If Fargo hadn't lost himself in the fifth inning and if the Angels hadn't taken a mean advantage of his lapse in temper and control and slammed out six runs, the Lucky Stars and the Angels of the Junior Twilight League might have been playing yet, instead of the Angels closing the slaughter with the score only 9 to 6.

They were playing about as close a tie as Siamese twins, until the unlucky fifth when the Lucky Stars' luck took a header and eloped with the hired man, and the well fell down cellar and sprang an incurable leak, and several other disasters came trooping in on the Stars' field. That's all there was to it—the jinks and the Angels good and bad simply did 'em up.

The players were: Angels: Kleen, c; Barley, p; Sisson, lf; Gilbert, rf; Chance, ss; Miller, lb; Myers, 2b; Johnson, 3b; Kirk, cf. Lucky Stars: Fargo, p; Shepherd, c; George, ss; Ohlinger, lb; Marr, rf; Kurtz, 2b; Keeney, cf; Handley, 3b; Carter, lf.

Another game in this series is to be played Wednesday evening, at the regular battle ground, the high school baseball park. It's free, like all the games, and it's a bargain even if one had to pay to see it.

Klan by admonishing the party to stand by constitutional government and against invisible government.

As an executive committee the following were named:
William Cherrington, Salem, chairman; H. E. Bolinger, Salem, Romeo Goulet, Brooks; J. H. Rowland, Jefferson; W. J. Haberly, Silverton; P. N. Smith, Mt. Angel; W. F. Wright, Turner.

Turner Precinct in Contest

John Girardin and W. F. Wright of Turner tied for precinct committeeman in the election of May 19, and the central committee elected yesterday, Wright being chosen for the place.

The full text of the resolution adopted yesterday follows:
"Resolved by the Marion County Republican Central committee, that we go on record as upholding the national Republican administration of our country, and approve the splendid work of President Harding and his cabinet, in advancing world peace, disarmament and restoration of stable commercial relations with the rest of the world.

"In conformity with the achievements of Republican national leaders backed by a Republican congress, we earnestly urge that the pledges made by state and county candidates to reduce the tax burdens imposed on the people of Oregon by the necessities of the war and reconstruction period, be carried into effect in the legislature and state affairs.

Party System Necessary

"Whereas, our form of government from times past has been operated through political parties, and there is no way of securing a responsible form of government without such organizations being maintained, and by giving the people the benefit of party discipline, and the competition growing out of opposing political parties, and

"Whereas, the present direct primary law which has been in existence for nearly a score of years, forbids the holding of county and state conventions by parties, and permits abuses of registration by which members of one party can invade the ranks of the other party for the purpose of controlling nominations by changing their registration, even on election day; and

Primary Held Expensive

"Whereas, this primary law is very expensive to the taxpayers, as well as to candidates, and is inimical to the preservation of party organizations and responsibility in government, preventing adoption of party declarations of principles and lowering the standard of efficiency in the public service; therefore, be it

"Resolved, that without depriving the people of any of the benefits of the direct primary system, or impairing its value in giving the people within the party a rightful expression as to their choice of candidates, we demand the restoration of the right to hold county and state conventions not only in the interest of maintaining our party organizations, but as being vital to the existence of popular government.

Smith-McNary Bill Endorsed

"Resolved, that in our belief, the passage of the Smith-McNary irrigation bill means a tremendous development and enrichment of the entire west, and we congratulate our United States senators and representatives in congress for their ceaseless efforts to secure this meritorious legislation, which most fortunately has the endorsement of President Harding.

stranger to political frays, for it was largely through his efforts and abilities as an organizer and effective campaigner while chairman of the county central committee in the heated campaigns of 1902 and again in 1906, when George E. Chamberlain was the Democratic candidate for governor that Downing was enabled to carry the county in each instance by a small majority over his republican opponents.

Will Meet at Oregon City

Value of Canned Recognized

Mr. Mulchay states that the Southern Pacific company has long recognized the importance of the canning industry to the general welfare of a community, and particularly to the farmers, and the principal contributing factor in the success of the farming communities of California has been a strong, healthy canning industry, well financed, and operated under a thoroughly organized and competent sales organization. The Southern Pacific hopes to do what it can to encourage the same conditions on its lines in Oregon.

Bad Condition Temporary

The demand for canned farm products is becoming greater all the time and while owing to general depression following the war, a general slump occurred in the prices of canned goods and many canneries found it difficult to dispose of stock except at heavy losses. This condition was only temporary and due entirely to decreased buying power in the United States and foreign countries.

The situation did not represent any index for the future. To the contrary, the outlook for the canning industry was never brighter. Liquidation has largely taken place and stocks are all pretty well depleted.

Ready Market Found

Through canning, cider, vinegar, and pickle plants, the farmers are enabled to find a ready market in the frozen or fresh state. It is hoped that strong hands will take hold of the developments in Oregon, and as in the California, there will be a coordination of interest as between the farmer, canning industry and responsible marketing agencies, whereby development will take place in the way of production and marketing of a large tonnage of fruits and vegetables in green or fresh state, which two items, it is said, will always furnish the farmer with two sources for disposal of his product and insure unmeasured success to him, and naturally cause greater development of agriculture in this state.

"To assist in the development, the Southern Pacific has always made low rates on fruits and vegetables into canning plants, and also reduced rates on dried fruits into similar packing and processing plants, which have been of material assistance in the development of the dried fruit industries and helpful to the canning and cider plants," said Mr. Mulchay. They will continue to do as in the past, their policy of carrying such reduced rates, and taken altogether the farmer and fruit grower have had the active support of the Southern Pacific. In fact, the company is applying the same broad policy to agriculture that it has applied to the lumbering industry.

FIGHTS BANDITS FOR LAST TWENTY-THREE YEARS.

FAMOUS IDOLS WORSHIPPED BY SAN DOMINGANS
Colonel Shanton, formerly cowboy and rough rider, during the last twenty-three years has been chief of Police in Cuba, Panama, Hayti, Porto Rico and other Pan-American countries, all of which he "cleansed up." Evangelista, one of many desperadoes in those countries, was killed in a hand-to-hand encounter with Shanton. Among the idols shown, the "Dios Boris," in the lower left of the picture, is named after a bandit who wielded a strong influence over the ignorant population.

"The Line Is Busy"

When the telephone operator tells you "the line is busy," this fact has been made known to her by an electric signal. With the thousands of calls in daily telephone traffic, if the operator, to secure this information, were compelled to listen on the line of the party called, prompt service would be out of the question.

This delay is eliminated by an electric device which in the fraction of a second automatically indicates that the line called for is in use.

When "busy" reports are repeated on successive calls for the same number, it is generally due to an immoderate use of the called line. The length of a telephone conversation is obviously beyond the control of the telephone operator. Have confidence in her when she makes the report "the line is busy."
