

NEW PLANT IS WORKING WELL

No Trouble Experienced by King Company When New Machines Are Started

Every cog, every screw, every steam pipe and syrup duct and conveyor and paddle worked like a charm when the canning machinery at the big new King's Products company plant started Friday. The plant began on gooseberries. The big plant worked smoothly from the very first turn of the wheels. It will be operating on strawberries, beginning Monday morning.

The dehydrating section isn't finished, and will not be ready until just about time for the logans, about July 1; but the cannery is already ready for full steam ahead and three shifts a day, if the fruit comes in.

All Help Wanted
The Starr Fruit company plant in Church and Mill streets will be canning gooseberries Monday morning, and wants all the factory help to report. While it is not yet certain just how much fruit will be brought in the first day, the plant will be running full on strawberries Tuesday. Manager Roberts expects every machine to work smoothly from the first, as all the equipment is of the very best and is in experienced hands.

The Oregon Packing company has been handling fruit the last of this week, and expects to need 300 hands on Monday. No word has been received as to the status of the big Southern Pacific warehouse property, under lease to The Phez company, that was reported to have been contracted to the California Packing corporation that controls the Oregon Packing plant. It is still occupied by The Phez company, although no new work is being carried on there at this time.

Addition Made to Plant
The Oregon Packing company has made a large addition of equipment and better arrangement in its plant, and will be able to increase its past output very materially, even without the peaput warehouse plant that rumor attributes to its control.

The Hunt Brothers company has advertised for factory helpers, also for pickers for a large acreage of strawberries. The picking situation may be even more critical than that in the canneries, where the applications for jobs have indicated no shortage of help. The picking has not progressed quite far enough to prove definitely just what will be the help situation.

The price of furniture must be availing. A seat in the New York Stock Exchange has just been sold for $99,000.

RECURRENT SALES FEATURE OF DAY

Exceptions to Reactions Include Mexican Petroleum and Republic Iron

NEW YORK, June 10.—The two-hour session of today's stock market was featured by recurrent selling movements notably in oils, steels, equipments, coppers and rails. Extreme reactions of 1 to almost 5 points were only slightly retrieved in the covering of contracts before the heavy close.

Exceptions to the reaction in which signs of the urgent liquidation were apparent at times, included Mexican Petroleum and Republic Iron and Steel but those issues gave way in the final dealings.

United States Steel was among the popular shares to lose ground although May bookings showed a further increase of about 157,000 tons in unfilled orders, that gain being below general estimates.

High grade rails were carried down in the general reversal, but loss among transportations were moderate. Selling of oils, was accompanied by rumors that several of the largest producers were contemplating a reduction of price schedules because of the lack of demand. Sales amounted to 650,000 shares.

Foreign exchanges continued to weaken, aside from the London rate. France were especially heavy, showing a decline of 10 points from the week's highest quotation and the Austrian remittance was at lowest ebb.

Clearing house loans and discounts disclosed another actual increase of about $37,000,000, net demand deposits expanding by almost $50,000,000. The actual cash gain of $4,867,000 increased excess reserves to $31,500,000.

The day's general news included announcement of a $2,300,000 gold importation from Germany, the first in many weeks, and a review of business conditions which was encouraging as to wholesale distribution in the dry goods trade.

Employers Must Furnish Data to Commissioner

There is legal requirement that the management of any establishment employing labor, furnish whatever information is necessary to enable the state labor commissioner to prepare reports from his department, according to an opinion of Attorney General Van Winkle, written for O. H. Gram, state labor commissioner.

In the event of failure to furnish such information "the commissioner may issue subpoenas, administer oaths and take testimony necessary to enable him

Twenty years ago Angelo Piano was one of the penniless steerage passengers that left Italy to seek his fortune in America. Having accumulated a competency, he has left these shores with his wife and daughter Josephine in a palatial suite, surrounded by every luxury, to revisit the land of his birth. In six years time Piano made $1,500,000 in the contracting business.

otherwise to obtain such information."

Penalty is provided for failure to heed such subpoenas. The opinion says, however, that "The power conferred upon the commissioner to compel the attendance of witnesses has been held not to constitute the exercise of Judicial functions, and it will be noted that the power to enforce the penalty provided for disobedience of a subpoena is reposed in the courts."
