Englewood Athletes Lose in Two Games Yesterday

One of the slang adaptations of the proverb that misfortunes never come singly, is to "knock a man down and kick him for falling." The Court street and State street gangs did these to the Englewoodsters yesterday. The Court street regular baseball team beat the big ones at the high school athletic park, 15 to 5, and then the Court street Midgets beat the Englewood juniors at indoor baseball, 15 to 8.

The older-lad game was played early Saturday afternoon, with Olinger, Anderson and Bangs as battery. Carter Anderson, who pitched two innings, gave no hits and walked one batter. Handley was the Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb of the Court street team, he making three runs.

In the junior game, the State street team trampled on and gave the boot to the Englewood visitors, 15 to 8. Looney Updegraff made one homer and one three-bagger for the home defenders, establishing the high-water mark for run getting. For the state, the players were: John Ruckel, c; Carl Coy, p; L. Updegraff, ss; Walt Martin, ss; George Koehler, 1b; Chris Simpson, 2b; Fred Campbell, 3b; Granville Perkins, lf; Howard Waters, cf; Herbert Hobson, rf and p. The battery for the Englewood team was Stroughough and Waldorf.

The State Street Midgets are to battle with the Richmond Juniors Monday afternoon at the Richmond school grounds.

National Champ Grappler Guest of Brother Here

Robin Reed, national amateur wrestling champion in the 125-pound class in 1921, and in the 155-pound class in 1922, is in Salem visiting his brother, James Reed of Willamette. Robin is a freshman in O. A. C., taking an engineering and electrical course, while his brother is in Willamette, working up on literature and newspaper manufacturing.

Young Reed is one of the most modest lads one would find anywhere. He would hardly be picked at first glance for a genuine champion in the hardest of all athletic sports. The two brothers went through high school together, worked in the shipyards together, and then Jimmie went to France while the other stayed at home because he wasn't old enough for the military call.

The future editor is going to work in Pendleton through the harvest season, while Robin goes into the engineering department of the Portland fire department, ransling steam boilers and other hefty stuff. He finished up his year's work at O. A. C. Saturday afternoon, and immediately started for Salem and home.
