St. Paul to Play Here Sunday, Bishop Plays

St. Paul is still determined to take from the Salem Senators the record of not having lost a game during the present season. The north county men will invade this city Sunday and expect to provide as many thrills as in the two previous games when Salem won by very narrow margins.

The reorganization of the Senators has inspired hope at St. Paul that the new team will be easy prey. While the new team is now composed of all local men, Manager Harry Wenderoth is confident that Salem fans will not regret boosting the local nine.

Absence of Jack Hayes from the team for two weeks was made known yesterday when it was found that the former manager of the Senators had enlisted in Company F for the two weeks' enlistment. Biddle Bishop will probably occupy the pitcher's box Sunday.

POLK COUNTY HIGHWAY POLICY IS EXPLAINED

cific highway or other market roads. It necessarily followed, therefore, in doing the part that the law required the county to do, they would be hindered or prevented at least for another year in finishing their work on the Pacific highway through the county unless they could use the market funds. The same thing occurs in several of the counties of the state.

"In this state, practically the entire system of state highways are market roads. It is true, at least, of some section of every highway and will prove a great embarrassment to the counties if they are not permitted to use the market road money on the state system.

Tax Depends On Use
"The market road money comes from a state levy amounting to 2 mills, producing now $2,000,000, and this will automatically increase as the state's wealth advances. It must, therefore, follow that if this direct tax is to continue, the widest use for the funds derived therefrom should be permitted the county in improving all classes of market roads, whether in cooperation with the state, federal government or otherwise.

"It becomes, therefore, very important in the work of the highway commission to know whether the interpretation of the law given by Judge Kelly would be sustained by the supreme court and, if sustained by the higher court, whether it would remain the law of the state or be modified by the coming legislature. Until this is determined, the highway work will be handicapped, both for counties and the state.

Improvement Urgent
"So far as the finishing of the West Side highway in Polk county is concerned, the commission is determined to finish it as soon as it is permitted to do so without doing injustice to other counties that have complied with the law and the rules of the commission. The grading, however, is under contract, and while it is agreed that it shall be paid for by the county, the commission will advise.

vance this work to completion, feeling assured that the county in some way will contribute its part. It, however, it should occur that the road cannot be paved in 1922, the highway commission will see that all sections of it that must be used by through travel are rocked so that it may be used throughout the season.
