Returns trom Ihreshing West and Southwest May Prove Disappointing

CHICAGO, June 21 .- Predictions that threshing returns from the domestic winter crop southwest and west would prove disappointing, counted to sobe extent as a bullish factor in the wheat market today, especially during the last hour. Prices closed unsettled, at the same as yesterday's finish to %c higher, with July $1.13% to $1.13%, and September $1.13 % to $1.13 %.

Corn gained half to one cent, and oats half to three quarter

In provisions the outcome varied from unchanged figures to 5c advance

Bulls in the wheat market were prompt to take advantage of the circumstances that late reports regarding winter wheat had become less optmistic and that uncertainty as to quality and yield appeared to be increasing. On the bugle in values, country offerings here to arrive, broadened out and purchases were the largest so far this season, causing something of a reaction near the finish.

Rains in the Canadian northwest, together with generally cooler weather elsewhere, counterbalanced in the first part of the day the effect of higher Liverpool quotations. Lessened apprehension as to the likelihood of drought in Canada led to overselling, though, on the part of pit traders, and left them defenseuess against concentrated speculative buying which later developed.

Corn and oats showed independent strength, a great deal of ing on the stock exchange today buying being based on theory in continued to be influenced, if not the corn trade that the price of corn generally moves up about Provisions averaged a little
