CLOTURE RULE ATTEMPTED ON TARIFF BILL

Charges of a Filibuster Hurl-ed Across Senate Chamber—Townsend of Michigan Starts Rumpus.

MANY NEW RATES WILL BE PUT INTO EFFECT

News Print, Wall Papers and Oil Cloth Advanced to 60 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, June 24.—As charges and counter charges of a filibuster on the tariff bill were hurled back and forth across the senate chamber for three hours today, Republican leaders put under way their movement to invoke the present cloture rule, operative under a two thirds vote, to shut off debate on the measure.

Democracy Delaying Bill The controversy as to a filibuster, which has broken out several times since the tariff bill was called up two months ago, was renewed today after Senator Townsend, Republican, Michigan, in a prepared speech, charged the Democrats were delaying the bill for political reasons.

To support these countercharges, the Democrats pointed to what they called the Republican "sideshow with a monkey and a clock," and to interruptions of Democratic speakers on the tariff, made by Republican leaders. The filibuster controversy was out after three hours and the senate got down to the tariff bill, approving, over protests of Senators Smith of South Carolina and King of Utah, both Democrats, rates of 50 per cent ad valorem on knitting, braiding, lace making and insulating machinery and 35 per cent ad valorem on other textile machinery.

EVEN UNCLE JOE MARVELS AT ONE-MAN FILIBUSTER IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON, June 24.—While one man filibuster by Representative Voigt, Republican, Wisconsin, was still going strong in the house today, telegrams were sent to absent Republicans in all of the territory east of Kansas to hurry back to Washington and help put it down.

ROSEBRAUGH PLANT REDUCED TO ASHES WITH $25,000 LOSS

Fire, which last night wiped out the plant and foundry of the W. W. Rosebraugh furnace works and for a few minutes threatened the oil storage tanks of the Standard Oil company, at Seventeenth and Oak streets, did damage, estimated at $25,000, according to a statement of W. W. Rosebraugh, president of the company.

The insurance is very light, Mr. Rosebraugh said, not exceeding $2500. The plant was burned to the ground. The fire started some time before 7 o'clock for it was burning fiercely before the fire department reached the scene and it is thought that possibly it started shortly after the plant was closed for the night, which was about 5:30.

Mr. Rosebraugh stated that the workmen had taken off the heat at 5 o'clock and he advanced the theory that it was possible one of them had dropped a sack to the floor which contained a spark of fire in it.

Box Cars Endangered Had it been other than a quiet night, with no wind blowing, there is little doubt that the Standard Oil tanks would have been ignited, probably resulting in a heavy destruction of property.

For a time the blaze was of such fierceness that it was necessary for the Southern Pacific company to send a switch engine up the tracks to the scene in order to run several box cars belonging to the company out of the danger zone. The furnace works is within 50 feet of the tracks and the cars were virtually against the building.

Will Rebuild at Once The destroyed plant was still smoldering when Mr. Rosebraugh started making plans for rebuilding the plant, and it is thought that the company will start rebuilding as soon as the debris can be cleared away.

"Our demands have been far ahead of our output and our customers have been pressing us for their orders for several months," Mr. Rosebraugh said.

Salvage Expected "We will start rebuilding the plant just as soon as we can ascertain what can be salvaged from the fire. No doubt some of the castings and machines can be saved, but I am not prepared to say at this time just what the salvage will amount to."

The foundry was established in 1910 and manufactures a general line of furnaces, home heating plants, prunes and fruit dryers, and boilers. Several men are employed by the company, the number varying according to the seasons of the year.

Associated with Mr. Rosebraugh in the company is S. M. Endicott of this city.

KILLERS IN RIOTS WILL NOT BE KNOWN

Investigations Fail to Divulge True Identities of Rioters in Herrin Strike District.

GOVERNOR RECALLS MILITARY COMMISSION

No Further Trouble Expected if Mines Remain Closed For Present Time

HERRIN, Ill., June 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—With the departure of Governor Small's special military commission headed by Major General Milton J. Foreman, and the announcement of its recommendations that no troops be sent into Williamson county at the present time, and that those national guard units which had already been mobilized and held in readiness, be ordered home, the situation in the coal fields was easier tonight.

General Foreman, after an active day of investigation, declared that he was satisfied that no good purpose would be served by calling out troops at this time. In his statement he declared he believed that the disturbed condition in the county had been permanently relieved and that it would not recur. The only thing, he asserted, which would cause a recurrence would be a renewed attempt to mine coal, and this he did not believe would be done.

Reopening Not Favored

None of the old established coal companies favored attempting to open the mines at this time, the general declared.

He said that his conclusions were based on his observations today when he toured the county and upon talks with State's Attorney Duty, Sheriff Thaxton, Coroner McCowen, Hugh Willis, district board member of the United Mine Workers of America and nearly a score of merchants, bankers and mine superintendents.

General Foreman declared he did not believe that the request to be held some time tomorrow was likely to provoke further disturbance.

The general and members of the military commission declined to say whether or not they believed that the civil authorities of the county had done their duty in attempting to cope with the disturbed conditions which led up to the killings Thursday.

Inquest Today Tomorrow's inquest was expected to end at least for the time being, the official investigation of local authorities into the death of non-union shovel miners and mine guards.

"Persons unknown," the indications are, will be officially accountable for the deaths and it appears improbable that the identity of those responsible will ever be made known.

Southern Illinois is inclined to conclude grimly and with finality another chapter in the long hostility of strife and violence which has been recurrent here during the last 30 years.

"They Double-Crossed Us" There is something of the grim privacy of a clan feud about the thing and the fierce conviction of those who tacitly admit an interest in this struggle that it is their affair and no one else's and interference should legitimately be excluded from "outside the state."

Charges of broken faith on the part of the operators of the southern Illinois property are reiterated by the miners. "They double crossed us and we showed 'em," is the general attitude.

An investigator for the United States department of justice tonight obtained a statement from Hugh Willis, board member of the Herrin sub-district of the United Mine Workers of America, in which Mr. Willis gave his version of the events leading up to the killing of more than twenty non-union strip mine workers and

MANY CLAIM PORTION OF SLOAT PURSE

Who Gets the Money to be Decided Thursday—Several Already Heard From

Numerous persons are showing up who aver that they have legitimate claims for the $1200 reward offered last March for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person who on March 5 assaulted two small Salem girls.

With the arrest of C. A. Sloat, his plea of guilty and his incarceration in the state penitentiary, the reward is due to be paid—to someone.

In Salem there are at least two police officers who believe they should come in for a slice of the $1200, and also a prominent member of the Cherrians. Also one or two Albany officers may want to come in, and certainly one at McMinnville. Others may appear.

It seems that the Cherrian member got his tip on a trip to Newberg where an officer whom he met by chance informed him that a man named Sloat had been arrested at McMinnville and that he was sure it was the man wanted in Salem. The officer suggested that himself and the Cherrian ought to come in on the reward. The Cherrian was not averse and it is reported that he gave valuable information to the police upon returning to Salem that assisted in the apprehension of Sloat.

Who gets the reward is to be decided Thursday.

ATTORNEY SAYS STRIKE RIOTS MAY CONTINUE

CHICAGO, June 24.—Mine riots in the Herrin, Ill., coal district are likely to be resumed on the least provocation and the massacre of Thursday may be re-enacted at any moment, Arthur S. Lynton, attorney for the Southern Illinois coal company, asserted the region.

Mr. Lynton went into the section on Wednesday when the first outbreak occurred, visiting Carbondale, Marion and other towns in Williamson county.

Remorse and regret over the massacre of miners Thursday are entirely lacking in Williamson county," Mr. Lynton said. "During my entire stay in the region and after talking to scores of people, I never heard one person say they were sorry that men had been killed. They were afraid that it might cost the county a lot of money and there was a lot of speculation about what the damages would be. That was the greatest concern."

"I talked to substantial citizens of the community. They are afraid to express whatever sentiments they may have. A man who dared to say that he believed the wounded man should not have been allowed to remain unattended in the road, was threatened and told to mind his own business. A grocer who expressed sentiment not to the liking of miners has practically been driven out of business, I was told."

Mr. Lynton said that the temper of the people was proven by the fact that they returned to the Herrin mine yesterday and destroyed a safe "about the only thing that was intact."

"I tried to get a man to go to Herrin and remove the body of Superintendent McDowell which was terribly mangled. I could not secure a person to make the trip. They all told me that they had to live there and that an attempt to remove the dead body would be construed as unfriendly to the strikers."

Woman Guilty of Robbing Oregon Man

YAKIMA, Wash., June 24.—Mrs. Della Young, charged with complicity in the robbery of Carl Fielding, a Portland businessman about three weeks ago in this city, today was found guilty by a jury in superior court. Her husband, George Young, who was to have been tried also for the same crime failed to appear though under $1000 bond.

M' MINNVILLE MAN IS REPUBLICAN HEAD BY LONG LEAD OVER LEA

Something Doing Every Minute in Boys' Camp at Otis; Hot Handing Given Lads Who Didn't Wash Ears

By IVAN WHITE
BOS' CAMP, Otis, Ore., June 24.—(Special to the Statesman.)

—We have just finished a ball game with the leaders of the camp and they beat us 13 to 8 because they were bigger.

We had a challenge from the Indians around here to play ball, but Mr. Yount thought it would hurt their feeling when we beat them.

Babe Ruth Discounted There is something doing in camp every minute. Chuck Hageman is our star ball player. The other day he made a home run, and kept on running around three times, but the umpire would only count it one run.

We had a volley ball game last night and we won two out of three games. We are getting good enough to beat the big men at the Y. M. C. A.

Flounders Are Clams Part of the boys went flounder fishing yesterday and part went trout fishing. No one is allowed to go unless they are accompanied by a leader. The flounder fishers brought home more clams instead of flounders last night. It's funny, but we don't get hungry for milk shakes or polar cakes because we have all we can eat here.

Had a camp fire last night, and sang songs. Ed Sociofsky led the singing from the Kiwanis song book, and they are dandy songs, too, just like the Kiwanis fellows themselves.

Ears Clean Hereafter The boys are getting ready for inspection now. We have to keep our tents and blankets aired out, and the tent that has the best daily inspection gets a prize at the end of the camp. So far we are second. We get points for attention, cleanliness and neatness.

Some of the fellows in our squad came near making us lose because they were dirty behind the ears. We gave them the hot hand and I guess they are using a cake of Ivory soap getting ready for the next inspection day.

They Can Clean Fish Paul Lewis and Ed Cross are getting to be some campers, and they can make their own bed and clean fish just like the big fellows.

Our photograph class meets every morning and studies how to take the best pictures, and the flower class also meets every day.

We are going to Seal Rock in a few days and see the seals and catch fish.

PORTLAND, Or., June 26.—Walter L. Tooze, Jr., of McMinnville, was elected chairman of the Republican state central committee this afternoon over A. H. Lea of Portland by a vote of 30 to 6.

It was the gentleman from Corvallis who cast the first bomb.

Claud E. Ingalls, editor of the Gazette-Times, was called upon to say a few words at this morning's session of the Republican state central committee at the Imperial hotel. And Ingalls said "em."

The meeting of state committeemen was called by Chairman Thomas H. Tongue to elect his successor as chairman.

Mr. Ingalls at this morning's session started his remarks as follows:

"The emblem of the Republican party in Oregon should not be the rosary and the cross; it should not be the white gown and the hooded cap."

A gasp went over the crowd that jammed into the room at the Imperial hotel where the meeting is held. At first there was a silence that made Lone Fir at midnight seem like an active boiler factory, then the applause arrived.

"I am perfectly neutral," the editor continued, when he could. "In my house we use Golden Soap and K. C. baking powder. I want to say right here that the emblem of the Republicans in this state should be the Grand Old Party elephant, the emblem of Garfield, McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft and Harding."

This remark caused the ceiling to crack. There was real applause.

Primary Law Ripped But this bomb wasn't the only one the Benton county orator fired. He rapped roasted and ripped Oregon's primary law. He said it isn't at all nice to have a posky law that permits a Democrat to vote a Republican ticket at a primary election.

"We have to change this law or the entire structure of our government will tumble as did ancient Greece and glorious Rome. Ours is a government by parties and if this blankety-blank primary law is allowed to function much longer as it is, our party government will go to the eternal bow-wow."

Ingalls' rhetoric was put over the top after the first workings of the meeting had been attended to with well ordered ease.

United Party is Plea The gathering was called to attention by State Chairman Thomas H. Tongue, Jr., at 10:30 o'clock. He called attention to the fact that the party must hold together this fall and fight the road fight with a united front. Then State Secretary Clarence R. Hotchkiss read a lengthy chapter from ancient history by telling the happenings of the central committee at its meeting two years ago.

Then the well known roll call came. It was short and snappy. Hotchkiss calling it as he used to call his company's roll during the late war. This bit of detail attended to, the matter of committees was arranged without a second's delay.

Committees Art Chosen Committees named were: On credentials—E. E. Blanchard, W. G. D. Mercer, C. E. Woodson, E. W. Johnson and John Cochran.

On resolutions—George Ntuner, Willard L. Marks, A. A. Bailey, S. S. Smith and W. Trill. On rules and order of business—C. Fitzpatrick, "Running-board" Bill Logus, J. C. Kendall, Roy D. Smith and T. C. Warts.

On the surface everything looked as smooth as a lake of frozen coal oil, but underneath all this there was a seething that started yesterday. There was blood in the eyes of many county chairmen, because a state chair-

Kills Self Because He Can't Run Farm

Contractor is Killed At Boat Launching

LEWISTON, Idaho, June 24.—Charles Whitcomb, aged 60 a member of the contracting firm of Denny & Whitcomb, met instant death here this afternoon in the collapse of rigging being used to lower a new ferry boat into Snake river.

The boat had been built bottom side up, and was being turned over at the water's edge. Just as it passed a vertical position, a guy rope broke. Mr. Whitcomb, who was using a pole at one end, started to run, but the rapid fall of the boat threw back a heavy "gin" pole which caught and crushed his body at the shoulders. Workmen quickly removed the timber, but life was extinct.

Mr. Whitcomb had been a resident of Lewiston for 35 years.

SCHWAB SUES WIFE'S FOLKS

Damages in Sum of $15,000 Asked in Alienation Complaint Yesterday

Alleging that his wife's mother and father were responsible for her suing him for divorce Arthur Albert Schwab yesterday filed suit in the circuit court of Marion county asking for damages in the sum of $15,000 from J. B. Barnes and wife of Gervais, the parents of his wife, Marie N. Schwab, and against her two brothers, Ralph and Simon Barnes.

Wife Seeks Divorce Mrs. Schwab filed suit for divorce in circuit court earlier in the week on the alleged grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment, charging her husband with calling her vile names, and with abusing her and members of her church because she insisted upon sending the five Schwab children to her church for services.

Mr. Schwab yesterday filed answer to her divorce complaint in which he denied most of the charges made against him, especially those of cruel and inhuman treatment. He asks that the case be dismissed.

Relatives Blamed In the suit for alienation of affections Schwab charges that his wife's relatives are directly responsible for the divorce complaint.

They were married in November, 1920, and she left his home the middle of May, last, he declares.

Governor Len Small Acquitted by Jury

WAUKEGAN, Ill., June 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Governor Len Small was acquitted today of conspiring with Lieutenant Governor Fred E. Sterling, the late Senator Edward C. Curtis and Vernon Curtis, Grant Park banker, to defraud the state of interest money on public funds. The jury was out one hour and 35 minutes. The babel of noise which greeted announcement of the verdict drowned out the final formalities of closing the case, which started just nine weeks ago.

TOURIST MONEY IS AVAILABLE

Oregon Appropriation Usable With Provision of Other Northwest Funds

Oregon appropriation of $37,500 for use of the Northwest Tourist association for the present year became available today when Attorney General Van Winkle approved evidence submitted by the state of Washington and by British Columbia showing that they had provided their portions of the fund for 1922, which are $37,500 by Washington state and $18,750 by British Columbia.

The Oregon legislature of 1921 appropriated $37,500 annually for the biennium of 1921-22 on condition that Washington produce an equal amount and British Columbia half as much. Washington's fund was raised by popular subscription. In British Columbia $12,500 was appropriated for each year by the provincial legislature and the remainder was raised by improvement associations.
