Use Your Time—Don't Misuse It

Each of us has a certain length of time allotted. We do not know the span of our days but we do know that the happiness and peace of our later days will depend much upon our use of present ones.

To young people with life before them, the misuse of a day now seems a trifle. It is well to remember that each wasted day means one day less of secured happiness in old age.

No investment of time brings surer dividends than does the time spent in securing a practical business training. Our courses are planned for just this sort of thing.

Write or call for information regarding our summer courses.

Vacation Bible School Is Success First Week

The first week of the Daily Vacation Bible school has been well attended and full of interest. There are about 550 children attending and about 60 volunteer teachers.

The program of Bible study and stories, music, handiwork, and games is proving to be so popular that the enrollment is increasing every day. Two new features have been added. Rev. Clayton Judy will make regular visits to all the schools to assist in the dramatizing of the stories, and Miss Margaret Fisher and Louise Findley are conducting a special music period in each school every day.

More teachers are needed to carry on this growing work. The school will continue until July 7th.

BONFIRE OF OLD PIANOS ADVISED

British Music Dealers Seek Means to Boost Trade in Instruments

LONDON, June 24.—The Federation of British Music Industries has been discussing the best means of starting a boom for British musical instruments. Joseph Riley, of Birmingham, thinks the best way would be to light a huge bonfire of old pianos. That, he says, would only be following the excellent example set by the music trade in America.

"It would make the finest sort of a display advertisement," he said. "For it would show the country that the old pianos with which we are overstocked are not worth having."

"We could easily collect 10,000 of them," he said in an interview. "and nobody would miss them. Such rubbishy tinkling bundles of discords do incalculable harm to the music taste of the public. A child taught on one of them has all his musical instincts outraged and grows up, musically speaking, a sorrow to his prematurely aged parents."

Death of Famous Horse Makes Argentine Mourn

BUENOS AIRES, June 24.—Argentine lovers of horse flesh are mourning the death of Botafogo more perhaps than would Americans if Man O'War or Morvich were to die, for Botafogo really was one of the most remarkable thoroughbreds in the history of the turf.

He won 18 out of 19 starts by "many lengths" and then in a special match race defeated his only conqueror, Gray Fox, by leading him at the end of 3000 meters. The match race was the result of active public demand and many thousands were wagered on the result, so intent was the populace upon seeing its favorite restored.

The race was a thriller. Botafogo first took the lead and then relinquished it, the two steeds exchanging places with the turn of almost every furlong post. Cheers of the crowds changed abruptly to maddening groaning and back to cheering as the race progressed.

On the home stretch Botafogo was given his head, and leaping into a hurricane sprint he finished so far ahead of Gray Fox that some spectators ran between the two.

Why is it that the driver of an automobile holds such enmity to a motorcycle man? Is he afraid he is a speed cop or does the unhealthy noise completely unman him?

MADGE HOFF COMING HOME

Silverton Young Woman Does Notable Work With Army Y.M.C.A. Abroad

The return of American troops from Germany is releasing the men and women who have been serving with the American Y. M. C. A. in the area for the past two years and a half.

Among those who have just reached New York is Miss Madge Hoff, of Silverton.

Photos Illustrate Work Miss Hoff has brought back a set of photographs which give an idea of the variety and scope of the activities in the soldier huts. She took the pictures while acting as substitute in a position which let her serve all over the area, giving her an intimate knowledge of the different units of the United States army.

Although for a time Miss Hoff was regularly stationed at the Festhalle at Coblenz, whose doors swung to 3,000 soldiers a day, the work she liked best was with the machine gunners of the Second Battalion who were stationed at Engers, a dull little town a half hour out from the city.

Old Palace Used "After making the best of a small dark amusement hall during nearly their whole stay, the machine gunners for their last two months were housed," Miss Hoff states, "in the great Schloss, the palace on the bank of the Rhine dating back nearly 200 years. Its ballroom set in the very center of the stately building, walled with mirrors, with parquet floor and frescoed ceiling, was handed over to the "Y" to operate for the soldiers' use.

"Yankee machine gunners are not to be disturbed by anything, even elegance," says Miss Hoff. "and khaki made itself amusingly at home within those famous halls that till the armistice had been the pride of a German officers' school."

Welcome is Surprise The machine gunners reached home ahead of Miss Hoff and wrote back of their surprise and delight at the unexpected welcome they received when they landed in Portland, Maine. The soldier in peace times has learned not to expect much of his fellow citizens.

"HELL SAY NO." WHEN I was a kid, if I wanted to go fishing or picnicing, I'd put off as long as possible the asking Father, for I'd think 'he'll say no.' Then sometimes I got the surprise of my young life when he said 'yes.' Often people dislike asking their banker about investments that sound attractive. They think, of course he'll say no; he wants to keep the money here in town or in his Savings Department. And sometimes they too are surprised to hear him say "yes, that's a good thing." And if instead, he says "we have some information that makes us think it's a tricky proposition, and you're likely to lose what you put into it," well, you'd want to know that too, wouldn't you?
