the down town districts of Portland. This is not true of either city in the residence districts or rather in most of them. But the down town receivers will work with the current from the Salem broadcasting station. The current will be strong enough to overcome the interference of the power line. No Advertising Matter. No advertising matter, as such, can be broadcasted. It is against the federal law. But a broadcasting station is indirectly a great advertising asset for a city. Naturally the attention of large audiences, thousands and thousands of people daily, being directed to a city and what it has to offer in entertainment and news of value, will bring prestige and trade to that city. Another thing, it has been well established already that the radio does not interfere with either the moving picture business or the sale and use of talking machines. It does not interfere with the telephone or telegraph. It does not interfere with the newspaper. But it helps all of them. The radio is a thing apart, by itself. It will make life more enjoyable for all; it will help popular education; it will serve a lot of new purposes in the world of higher civilization. Watch Salem and the surrounding country get the radio bus.

laws. The American sin of nervousness, of "Americantia," was held up as a national evil. To cultivate faith in oneself and in one's God, as an antidote for worry, was recommended. The habit of restlessness, of brushing up one's nerves by constantly poking them with a sharp stick or kicking them in the ribs if they even try to rest, was characterized as sheer wastefulness and destruction. Deep breathing, correct diet, frequent bathing, the use of water internally, externally and sternaly, the habit of forcing oneself to rest, to lie down and then to stretch on getting up, were recommended as helps for the chronically nervous person. Junior Organized. The Junior Chautauqua was organized by Miss Lucille Tysland, to be carried on daily for the little folks. A great pageant is to be staged at the close of the week's work, and some delightful numbers are to be presented. The organization of this junior department is about completed, for some effective work. Iowa Man Visiting Here Tells of Conditions East J. H. Morf, wife and daughter, of Payette, Iowa, are guests at the home of W. G. Krueger, on North Fifth street. Mr. Morf has rented his Iowa farm for the season, and they are here for an extensive visit. He says that corn has been selling at close to 65 cents a bushel, for feeding purposes, back in Iowa; though corn for the Chicago market has gone lower—as low as 35 cents a bushel, in some isolated districts where transportation is had. The pig crop this year should have been unusual, because so many of the farmers have saved their breeding stock with the idea of raising more hogs than ever before, but the bad spring, the cold and the wet, has caused exceptional losses, so that the promised extraordinary crop is only about normal. He says that very little farm building has been done for some years past, partly because of the high prices, partly because the farmers have already built so well that they don't need much more for a while. Western fire lumber and southern long-leaf pine lumber fight on the Iowa market as a fairly neutral battle ground between east and west. The prices have fallen to about $40 per thousand for dimension stuff.

RARE ART DISPLAYED ON MUSIC NIGHT (Continued from page 1.) such music, it would be worth the price. Miss Stearns is in love with her big fiddle; the baggage smashers and call-boys never get to touch it—she carries it herself, so that it will be well cared for. It responds splendidly to this treatment. Personality Counts. Miss Hellesen, the pianist, is a graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music, which tells only a part of her artistic capability as an accompanist; the rest is of her own personality. The three musicians gave an orchestral accompaniment for Miss Ingram's first number, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from the opera "Samson and Delilah," that was of itself an artistic treat. The audience was delighted with the entire evening offering, and recalled the players time and again. The artists themselves responded charmingly to these calls, and gave many numbers not on the regular program. Health Talk Makes Hit. Dr. Woods Hutchinson, also an authority on health, wrote a delightful story on "How to be Happy Though Fat." Miss Edna Eugenia Lowe, Chautauqua lecturer Friday afternoon, didn't say it in exactly that way, nor attempt to prove it, absolutely; though she certainly appealed to the rapturous audience as a very comfortable and a very happy lady. She left every hearer in at least the happy stage; and if they go home and practice the good things she told them, and quit their meanness and throw their worries out of the window, they might fatten up if they so desire. Miss Lowe pointed out an imposing array of "Pitfalls in the Road to Health." Pain isn't a pitfall—it is a signboard, a warning that something is wrong—a squeak or a break or a leak—and that it needs fixing. Personal, individual health is a national asset, a national concern; the war taught how sickeningly the sick and incapable may drain a country of its fighting as well as its commercial strength. Business Demands Health. Business is coming to see the need of better health for its employees. The installation of swimming pools, gyms, baths, fresh air, medical service, health lectures, is getting common she said. A narrow chest is one of the signboards of danger. The average woman uses only about one-fourth of her normal lung capacity; the average man only about one-half. They ought to get out and ventilate these lungs as they would radishes or pigs—and make 'em grow. The high heel is an abomination, says Miss Lowe. "The high heel isn't as God made us," she says. It gives an unnatural forward position that disturbs the balance of the spine, and sets up a strain that tends to shut off the circulation below the waist. Cut out or off the tall stilts and live a little closer to nature, is the speaker's urgent advice. Pain Deadener Hit. The use of aspirin, a pain-deadener, she ascribed largely to German propaganda. It will take 20 years for the nation to recover from this drug that tends to shut off the circulation below the waist. Cut out or off the tall stilts and live a little closer to nature, is the speaker's urgent advice.

Huckstein Relinquishes Position After Eight Years of Service August Huckstein, who for more than eight years has served Salem's postmaster, today relinquishes the office to John H. Farrar, his Republican successor, who recently was appointed to the office of President Harding. Mr. Huckstein was appointed postmaster soon after Woodrow Wilson became president and succeeded the late Squire Farrar in that office. He has served the community efficiently, and his tenure has extended over a period of much growth in the business done by the Salem office. Mr. Farrar has been connected with the office as assistant postmaster for many years and does not have to undergo the ordeal of learning the business. Two Soloists at Band Concert Mrs. Hattie Parrish Hinges and Oscar B. Gingrich Contribute Solos Two soloists were heard at the band concert last night. Mrs. Hattie Parrish Hinges, sang the old time favorite, "Bonnie Sweet Bessie." Oscar Gingrich sang "Till the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold" and graciously responded with an encore. It was announced previously that perhaps both Mrs. Hinges and Mr. Gingrich would sing for the coming season's concert or that they might alternate. The ground was again thronged. The illuminated fountain was turned on during the concert. No concert will be given Tuesday evening, July 5, it has been announced by Rear Steelhammer, director. The program for the evening was as follows: March, "Let's Go"..... Wood Overture, "Orpheus"..... Offenbach "Bonnie Sweet Bessie"..... Mrs. Hinges Popular Number "Till the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold"..... Oscar Gingrich Overture, "Semamide"..... Rossini Indian Intermezzo, "Aisha"..... Ellery, whose name is alleged to have been used by Fölbner, is said to be president of the student body. Fölbner will be returned to San Jose in custody of H. M. Bartley, a deputy sheriff of Santa Clara county.

JOHN FARRAR IS NOW POSTMASTER Huckstein Relinquishes Position After Eight Years of Service August Huckstein, who for more than eight years has served Salem's postmaster, today relinquishes the office to John H. Farrar, his Republican successor, who recently was appointed to the office of President Harding. Mr. Huckstein was appointed postmaster soon after Woodrow Wilson became president and succeeded the late Squire Farrar in that office. Hospital inmates' Claims Investigated Yesterday Oregon ex-service men now in the Oregon State hospital were among those whose claims were investigated yesterday by representatives of the veterans bureau who came from Seattle. L. C. Jeseth, manager of the 13th district of the veterans bureau and Bradley Fowler, chief of cooperation, were among those spending the day in Salem. They expect to visit in Salem again later in the summer. They conferred with officers of the American Legion and consulted the records of the local Red Cross office, making themselves familiar with the claims of local men. Two Culverts Installed on Salem-Silverton Road SILVERTON, Ore., June 30.—(Special to The Statesman.)—Two large culverts are being put in on the Pudding river bottom on the Silverton-Salem road where so much trouble has been had with the overflow during the winter months. It is thought that these culverts will take care of the extra overflow which has formerly damaged the highway.

FINAL SCRUTINY IS GIVEN CAMP Inspection of Scout Camping Site Made by Executives Cook and Zinzer The Boy Scout summer camp site near Cascadia was inspected and final arrangements made for it by Scout Executives Howard Zinzer of Salem and Harold L. Cook, of Albany, who returned from there yesterday. The camp has been named "Camp Cascasian" being in the Cascades on the bank, near the junction of Moose creek and Canyon creek. The site is ideal and no prettier spot can be found anywhere in the mountains where so many advantages are to be enjoyed by the Scouts of both counties during their stay there from August 1 to 16. The camp is just 75 miles from Salem and the roads are in excellent condition. The road as far as Foster is of good gravel and from Foster in is 11 inches of dirt and over the mountains but in exceptional shape for a mountain road. It has been dragged and will be kept in good shape throughout the summer. Arrangements were made by which the scouts will be provided with the best of fresh vegetables. Milk will be served at least once a day to all the scouts. It is also planned to have chicken dinner on Sundays and several hundred chickens have already been engaged for the purpose. The water in the Soda Fork of the Santiam is getting lower and the swimming hole which is right at the camp site gives every promise of being even better than was anticipated. The camp bulletin is on the press now and will be out in the next day or two with details of the camp and its program.

Attack by Indians to Be Feature of Celebration SILVERTON, Ore., June 30.—(Special to The Statesman.)—A special feature of the Fourth of July program at Silvertown will be the attack on an emigrant wagon by the Red Men. The stunt will take place in the park at the termination of the parade. The national guard will come to the rescue of the emigrant wagon. The improved Order of Redmen intend to enact the stunt in pioneer day style. "How do you like my crock?" asked the flapper, when dressed for a dance. "It's—quite simple," stammered the young man. "Simple!" she laughed. "Do you know what it cost? Do you know that 20 dollars wouldn't cover it?" "Perhaps not," said the youth; "but 30 might, well spread out."

FRAZIER BEATS SEN. M'CAMBER Lead of 10,000 Votes is Sure—Nestos Defeats Baker for Governor FARGO, N. D., June 30.—Boiler reports that trickled in today from Wednesday's state-wide primary election in North Dakota seemed to bear out early indications that Lynn J. Frazier, Non-Partisan, had captured the Republican senatorial nomination by a majority of less than 10,000 votes. While Porter J. McCumber, the state's senior senator, dropped behind Frazier in returns tabulated today, reports from a number of the scattered precincts favorable to McCumber tonight set down to less than 2300 the margin that separated them. Friends of McCumber here, citing his defeat, admitted that most of the missing precincts undoubtedly would be favorable to Frazier. Meanwhile Governor R. A. Nestos, independent, had a lead of 16,000 over B. F. Baker, non-partisan in the Republican gubernatorial contest and independent headquarters declared tonight there seemed no reason to alter its prediction of a 10,000 plurality for Nestos.
