EYE WITNESS OF MURDER TELLS STORY (Continued from page 1.) Mr. Phillips, who first told of the slaying yesterday and who since has been under guard, accompanied officers today to Pomona where, according to his statement, he and his wife drove Mrs. Meadows' car after she had returned home Wednesday evening and told him of the affair. The authorities made a fruitless search for the head of the hammer which they said he declared he threw out of the car on the trip to Pomona. The hammer handle was found near Mrs. Meadows' body.

Were Chorus Girls Mrs. Caffee said she and Mrs. Phillips formerly were chorus girls in the same company. During the day officers took Mrs. Caffee to the scene of the slaying and she showed them the exact spots where she said the argument and ensuing physical struggle between the two women took place. "After Mrs. Phillips began striking Mrs. Meadows with the hammer," said Mrs. Caffee, "the girl was asking me to help her and I went toward her. I was right in front of the girl, and Mrs. Phillips came toward me. I don't know whether she was meaning to hit me, but she called out to me, 'damn you, get out of my way.' All this girl said was, 'Lady, save me!' I didn't hear her say anything else. That was before she fell down. I started down the hill and when I got down there I looked back and I saw Mrs. Phillips hitting her and then the blood on the hammer and on her arm—and I saw the blood—saw her hitting—and I sort of cried out 'Oh!' to myself, 'Oh, Clara!'

SENATORS RAP CORPORATIONS

Chemical Foundation and Subsidiaries Given "Insolent Profiteering Crew"

WASHINGTON, July 14.— Attacks on the Chemical Foundation, Inc., its president, Francis P. Garvan, the E. I. Dupont de Nemours company, the Textile Alliance, the American Dyes Institute, and various individuals connected with the dye industry in this country, marked senate debate today on the provisions of the tariff bill under which the present dye embargo licensing system would be continued for at least one and possibly two years.

Discussion of the provision had not been concluded when the senate recessed. The embargo provision was attacked by Senators Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, and King, Democrat, Utah. Senator Moses undertook to show the interlocking interests of the Chemical Foundation, the Dupont company and the Textile Alliance in the dye business of the country. He charged that their subsidiaries, officers, stockholders, lobbyists and "paid propagandists" had been the most aggressive of all the "insolent profiteering crew" that had pushed the embargo legislation.

Senator Moses also undertook to show that the Chemical Foundation had obtained through misrepresentations the executive order of acting Secretary of State Polk in February, 1919, by which it was authorized to license seized enemy patents and trade marks for dyes and many other chemicals, and charged also that Francis P. Garvan, as alien property custodian, had sold these patents and trade marks to himself as head of the foundation for $250,000, a mere fraction of their true value.

Another charge by Senator Moses was that the Chemical Foundation and some of the dye interests had used government agencies—the bureau of education and the chemical warfare section of the war department—for spreading their "propaganda" over the country. Also he asserted that he declared that the Dupont company and the National Aniline and the Chemical company, which he declared constituted the monopolistic feature of the dye interests, had, through the textile alliance, representation on the advisory committee of the war trade which controlled the bringing in of German reparation dyes.

Senator King also attacked the Chemical Foundation and declared that President Harding was to be congratulated for "having done his duty" in instructing the department of justice to proceed against the foundation for the return of the patents and trademarks.

NEW YORK, July 14.— Francis P. Garyan, president of the Chemical Foundation, Inc., in a statement tonight replying to what he termed the "vicious and malicious attack" of Senator Moses today upon the foundation and "every other organization or business connected with the American organic chemical industry," challenged the senator to repeat his statements in the newspapers he owns in Concord, N. H.

"If he will waive his senatorial privilege and repeat his slanders in the columns of that paper, Mr. Garyan's statement said, 'I will instantly take the opportunity to expose him and his relations with German agents and the falsity of his slanders before a jury of his own neighbors.'"

When shown an Associated Press dispatch which stated that Mrs. Clara Phillips, who had been arrested in Tucson, was indicted today on a charge of murdering Mrs. Alberta Tremaine Meadows, in Los Angeles last Wednesday, she merely replied that she was not interested.

The comparative emptiness of her small black handbag leads police to believe that she made a hurried departure from the coast city.

According to one of the officials who made the arrest it contained only a manicure set, black dress, two pairs of shoes, a jar of cold cream and a picture of a man.

ing the whole construction, and the work is being done by day's labor without any form of contract. Two years ago, at Seaside, they needed a new church; Rev. Chambers, then the pastor, asked for bids, and the best he could get was $18,000. "That is twice as much as we have, or can get, he said to the bishop; 'let me do it, and I'll build within the money that we have in sight.'"

Church Built in '54 It is understood that the old church that is now being turned into a community house was built in 1854. It has hewed sills, and if the age record is correct, it is one of the oldest buildings now standing in Salem; 68 years old, to be exact. Church services are to be held in it tomorrow as usual, even though it is badly scattered by the moving.

Vandervort Buys Flock of High Bred Sheep

Henry Vandervort was down to Roseburg this week where he bought a flock of 500 sheep, and he says that they look better than real money. They are well bred Shropshires, the sheep that are generally considered about the best for the valley farms; middle-wools that give a fine, heavy fleece, but not of the coarse, delaine type that brings the lowest possible price on the market.

Good yearling wethers are now bringing about 8 cents a pound, and spring lambs are worth up to 10 cents, or even a little better. At these prices the grower who handles his business carefully, and who has a good farm or range so that he doesn't have to pay out too much for his feeding, ought to make a good thing, according to Mr. Vandervort.
