DALLAS, Tex., July 20.—Seven women are seeking nomination to the house of the Texas state legislature at the Democratic primary Saturday, July 22. They are: Katie Daffan, Houston; Mrs. Sidney H. Huston, Houston; Mrs. C. F. Fain, Livingston; Mrs. J. A. McConnell, Crockett; Hattie de Walker, Alto; Edith Williams, Dallas; and Julia Sue Gott, Rosebud.

A large number of former members of the legislature are candidates to succeed themselves but, as the state has been redistricted they are not incumbents in the sense that they are seeking nomination from the districts that they formerly represented.

Curton, for chief justice of the Texas supreme court; Judge Thomas B. Greenwood, for associate justice of the Texas supreme court; and Judge F. L. ALL THAT REMAINS OF FOUR COURTS BUILDING IN DUBLIN.

This photograph, taken during the battle of Four Courts, shows all that remains of the famous building after it had been raked by shell fire of the Free State troops. The building was used as a stronghold by rebel troops, who made a gallant stand against the attacks of the Free Staters. The picture shows the Four Courts building shell torn and wrecked with its beautiful cupola blown completely away.

J. T. Robison, Austin and J. C. Thompson, Crowell. Superintendent of Public Instruction—Ed. R. Dentley, McAllen; and J. G. Smith, Rankin; S. M. M. Marrs, Austin. Court of Criminal Appeals—Judge W. C. Morrow, Austin and A. J. Harper, El Paso. Comptroller of public accounts—Lon A. Smith, Austin and William M. Woodall, Austin. For the state senate there are ten contested places out of seventeen and for the house there are 48 uncontested places.

Geisha Girls Say Dances Are Immoral

TOKIO, Japan, July 20.—The question whether western dances are immoral is the subject of a lively debate in the Japanese news papers at present. In the last few years western dancing has grown popular among Japanese women, especially those who have lived abroad, although it is by no means general as yet. They dance very gracefully in their native costume and heelless slippers but the older and less modernized Japanese frown on the growing custom. The Geisha declare that the modern dance is immoral but it is explained that they may be influenced by the loss of custom that the latest western invasion is causing them. The young Japanese man would much rather dance himself than watch geisha dancing.

Strange Beggars' Union Is Shown in "The Mistress of the World"

What This Band is Capable of Doing is Finely Pictured in "The Dragon's Claw" Featuring Mia May

SUPPOSING all the beggars of your locality banded themselves into a union and by systematically preying upon you under the leadership of a secret executive who was in reality a prominent business man and thus knew everybody's affairs, just what would you do?

Yet that is precisely what happens in "The Mistress of the World." It will be shown at the Grand Theatre next Saturday and Sunday.

The picture gives a vivid depiction of these men, bare-footed mendicants of an alien land, ruled by an iron hand and preying upon merchants who had been selected by their leader. When pursued, they were always at an advantage because the nature of their dress allowed them to retreat into the slimy mud of the river, into which their pursuers chose not to follow. Their practices were always a success whilst their leader was with them, but once he was captured an amazing thing happened.

In "The Dragon's Claw", Helen Neilsen, impersonated by Mia May, goes to China on her quest to obtain the secret of the hiding place of the treasure of the Queen of Sheba from a hermit. She meets with exciting adventures and the lives of herself and associates are in peril constantly. The various scenes are massive and beautiful and the action is of whirlwind rapidity. That local screen fans will find this an attraction of luxe, is a certainty.

This amazing picture once seen, will never be forgotten by picture fans.

SALEM REALTORS DINE FARMER

Yeomen Representative Given Reception in Honor of Search for Home Site

Mayor George Halvorsen presided at the Realtors' dinner to E. N. Farmer, national representative of the American Yeomen, at the Marion hotel, Thursday noon. Heads of representatives of practically every social service organization of Salem spoke more or less briefly, and if Mr. Farmer still doubts that they really want the eYomen to build their great national children's home here in Oregon, they'll go out and get all the members of the clubs and organizations and make it absolutely unanimous.

About 60 persons attended the dinner to show their good will towards the proposed fraternal home in or near Salem. J. C. Perry spoke very briefly for the Commercial club; King Bing Wm. McGilchrist for the Cherrians; Miss Mattie Beatty for the woman's club of 200 members; May or Halvorsen for the city; C. E. Knowland for the Rotary club, in the absence of John McNary, president; Otto K. Paulus for the Kiwanis club; Rev. H. F. Pemberton president of the Ministerial association; Hon Sam Koser, secretary of state; Mrs. Gertrude J. M. Page of the Realtors, and M. J. Durvae, of the state chamber of commerce. All assured the Yeomen that they would give the new home-seekers the very best and most cordial welcome that anybody ever had.

It was worth a good many times the price of the dinner for any Oregonian or Salemite to just hear what the speakers had to say of climate, fruit, flowers, trees, water, society, education, Christianity, citizenship. Two speakers brought it up in widely different ways, that there's only one other place comparable, and one has to shuffle off this mortal coil to get there—and some walk the plank and go plunk downward instead of upward.

Mr. Farmer, who is accompanied by his wife in the long search for "the best spot in America," spoke at some length on the importance of caring for the children. He quoted national statistics to show that 90 per cent of all crimes against property, come from children, or men and women who were children, who at least in part had been deprived of homes.

"We pay dear when we permit other than the best care of our orphaned children," he said.

The speaker paid a high tribute to what he had seen of Salem and of all Oregon; and he outlined the Yeomen needs for a high grade moral as well as climatic and physical standard in their proposed home. His address was received with applause.

Several of the local realtors have presented proposals for desirable tracts within reach of Salem. There is keen competition for the honor and profit of securing the home, and almost every state in the union is looking at the prize with longing eyes. More than 200 proposals have been submitted—and they still have one or two other important states to visit. They do not expect to make a final decision for several months, as it will take that long to really sort out the very best. It is announced that price is of far less weight in the decision than desirability and social conditions.

ROYAL CROWN STOLEN; WORLD SEARCH BEGUN

NEW YORK, July 20.—The diamond and ruby-studded crown of the Hapsburgs, former rulers of Austria Hungary, has been stolen from the Spanish consulate in Vienna where it was placed for safe keeping after the revolution began, it became known today.

Count de Korwin Sokolowski, Austrian aviator, who carried the diamonds from a convent to the consulate during the first days of the revolution, has been summoned to Paris. He sailed last Saturday on La Savoie to join in a hunt for the jewels in Vienna, Barcelona, Paris and possibly Moscow.

Baron Radowitz, a German nobleman, who spent several days last May with the former German kaiser in Doorn and is a close friend of Sokolowski, today admitted the crown had been stolen. Sokolowski was a noted Austrian flier during the war. When the Hapsburg house, to which he is related, fell, he took several members of the royal family out of Vienna by airplane. The archduchess Blanca of Austria, a princess of Bourbon, now living in Paris incognito, then told the count that the imperial crown was hidden in a convent near Vienna, and delegated him to get it safely away.

The count visited the convent, claimed the crown and flew with it to the consulate. There he obtained a receipt in the name of a friend, fearing efforts of revolutionists to locate the crown. The report was sent to the friend with careful instructions not to claim the crown until he had received orders, and Sokolowski went to London.

Two months ago German and Austrian royalists were notified by underground that the receipt had been presented to the consulate and the crown removed. But the receipt was not presented by Sokolowski's friend, and he has no recollection of its disappearance. It is believed it was either lost or stolen in Paris.

According to Baron Radowitz the crown is not of great intrinsic value, but historically it is priceless. Archduchess Blanca decided to make public news of the theft so that collectors would be warned against purchasing it.

Farmer Wants Divorce From Experiment Station

CARSON CITY, Nev., July 20.—The Nevada agricultural experiment station of the University of Nevada complains in its annual report just published that it is sometimes mistaken for a divorce bureau for farmers. "A letter received from a man in Kansas stated," says the report, "that he was having domestic difficulties and that he planned to come to Reno for the typical short sojourn. He asked the director, apparently a friend of all farmers, to try and find a job and to give him the name of an attorney whose advice could be relied upon and whose charges would be moderate."

CLOSE VOTE IS PREDICTED

Kentucky Primaries August 5 Promise Warm Affair; Republican Contests

FRANKFORT, Ky., July 20.—(By The Associated Press)—With one exception, all of the present congressmen from Kentucky are candidates for renomination in the primaries August 5. The exception is Congressman Charles F. Ogden, Republican of Anchorage, in the fifth district and as a result of his refusal to run, Maurice Thatcher, former governor of the Panama Canal zone will be the Republican nominee, and will be opposed in November by Kendrick R. Lewis, of Louisville, on the Democratic side.

In six of the other ten districts in the state the present congressmen have no opposition in the primaries. Summed up the Democrats have four contests, and the Republicans have six.

The Democrats have entered candidates in all of the eleven districts planning even to give the Republicans opposition this fall in the rockribbed Republican strongholds of the tenth and eleventh districts. The Republicans however, have entered no candidates in the sixth district against Congressman Rouse and in the Seventh where Congressman Cantrill has a fight on his hands for the nomination.

Dr. Ben L. Bruner, of Louisville, former candidate for the United States senator entered the congressional contest in the fifth district but dropped out in the first week of the pre-primary campaign.

Congressman Ralph Gilbert of Shelbyville has an interesting contest before him with opposition by W. Vernon Richardson, editor of the Danville Advocate and former secretary to the late Senator Ollie James. Political observers predict that this race will be the closest.

In the Ninth district Congressman William J. Fields, Democrat, is faced by three opponents, one of whom is H. C. Duffy, of Cynthia, former speaker of the state house of Representatives and seasoned campaigner.

Congressman Langley, in the Tenth district is opposed by Rev. N. T. Hopkins, of Yeager, who has the distinction of having been elected to congress once but of serving only one day. His democratic opponent was elected on the face of returns and served throughout the session being de-ciated unseated on the last day. Hopkins is a picturesque figure a Baptist minister typical of this section of the country. Congressman Langley's other opponent is Fess Whitaker, the jailed jailer of Letcher county. Mr. Whitaker was sent to his own jail while jailer, for contempt of court. While in jail he conducted a campaign for the county judgeship and defeated the man who sent him to jail.
