Mrs. White is a cousin of Mrs. Underhill, and of J. B. Littler of Salem. The visitors report a delightful trip from the home, though some of the detours where the highways are being hard-surfaced in Southern Oregon, will be bad traveling until the new roads are finished and opened. They found no forest fires anywhere near the highway; some unfortunate fires seem to be burning at a considerable distance from the road, but nothing serious, so far as they could see.

Six of the children, Lee, Edward, Gladys, Homer, Melvin and Mildred, are living with the parents; four others live in or near Salem.—Mrs. Minnie Johnson, R. B. Cross and J. M. A photographer went out to the home and took the whole remarkable family group, as a souvenir of the occasion. After the big reunion dinner, the whole family drove out to the municipal band concert, at Willson Park. Mr. and Mrs. Cross senior are in good health, and their large and interesting family give them a distinction that the little-familied people can't possibly know.

The name of the new master of Cantor, Yip Kue, has just enough of the college vel flavor to put the ousted Sun Yat Sen to thinking.

RAILROAD SHOPS OPEN UNDER MILITARY AND POLICE GUARD.

The railroad shops of the country reopened without serious trouble at any point. In many places where disturbances were feared, the shops were opened under the protection of National Guardsmen's guns and United States marshals. This picture shows the gateway to one of Jersey City's freight yards guarded against any trouble that might arise.

CAMP LAUNDRY WORKS OVERTIME

Park Superintendent Kept Busy With Washer Women—Grounds Lauded

For the second time this season Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Harley of Long Beach, Cal., registered at the local auto camp last night.

"We appreciate your camp after our travels since we were here," they told T. G. Albert, superintendent of the grounds.

Among the things mentioned in particular by Mr. and Mrs. Harley was the clean manner in which the grounds are kept in Salem.

The numerous women desiring to use the camp laundry at one and the same time have no more troubles than the superintendent of the camp and his assistant. They must find some one time in the evening after 7:30 when the room is deserted and they can lock up. That particular time is hard to find, they say.

The washer women are usually lined up with their bags of soiled clothes when Mr. Albert arrives soon after 8 o'clock in the morning. For the next 12 hours the two tubs which the laundry room contains are seldom, if ever, idle, Mr. Albert says. The hot water available for the laundry tubs is especially appreciated by the tourists who find it hard to heat water in any quantity over the small camp stove.

Twenty-five cars remained over for another night and new arrivals last night included E. E. Lee, Springfield; H. H. Smith, Lewis, Colo.; F. J. Stark, Dufur; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Peterman, San Antonio, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Sherwood, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Neil, Mont Rose, Colo.; W. R. Roney, Seattle; J. W. Oleson, A. Miller, Los Angeles; A. E. STULL FUNERAL HELD YESTERDAY

Masonic Services Held at Burial of Former Prominent Salem Resident

Masonic ritual services were held over the grave of the late John Stull, Friday afternoon, following the bringing of the remains from Coronado, California, where he died a few days ago. The services were presided over by William Bennett, in the absence of the master of the Masonic lodge here.

Mr. Stull, who died at the age of 72 years, was a former resident of South Salem, and at one time owned considerable property here. He married a sister of Ralph Thompson of Salem and is survived by her. They had no children. He had lived in California for many years before coming here; he was one of the executive officers of the great Petaluma, Calif., incubator factory, the greatest industry of its kind in the world.

Mrs. Stull is now here in Salem, with her brother. She may make this her future home.

COMMISSION ASKS VIEWS ON RATES

Commercial Clubs and Large Shippers Requested for Opinions on Hearing

Calling attention to the country-wide investigation soon to be made of express rates by the interstate commerce commission, the Oregon public service commission will today address communications to the various commercial clubs and larger express shippers of the state, asking for their views in regard to the matter.

"We ask these in advance of the hearing in order that the commission may be in a better position to be of assistance to the shippers of the state," it was said.

Members of the commission said that it is reasonable to assume that existing differences in rate levels between zones will be critically examined during the investigation and that a new rate structure will probably result.

William Carter, alias William Burnas, up for sentence for forgery at La Crosse, Wis., was questioned in the district court about his past life. His record seemed clean up to the time of the forgery, until he quietly remarked: "The last job I did was at a bank at Black River Falls, Wisconsin."

The auditors in the court room leaned forward with renewed interest. The judge looked grave. "What kind of a job?" the judge asked sternly.

Carter replied meekly, "I cleaned the bank chimney."

SCOUTS URGED TO REGISTER EARLY

Boys' Camp to Open August First—Scout Leaders Badly Needed

Registrations for the Boy Scouts summer camp at Cascadia, are coming in satisfactorily, and a number of promises have been made that insure a large attendance. The camp opens Tuesday, August 1, when the boys are to leave Salem, and lasts for two weeks.

Arrangements have been made for trucks to take the baggage, but Scout Executive Howard Zinser announces that he needs several autos to take the boys themselves. It will be an easy day's trip from Salem. The road up the river to Cascadia is said to be in ideal condition, and it will be a delightful trip for any one who can take a day off and give the boys a lift. Mr. Zinser asks that any one with a car, who will serve for this trip shall volunteer early, and they will count on this service.

The further registration of Scouts who are going to the camp is urged, as early as possible. The date of July 25th, next Tuesday, had been fixed as the last day for registration, so that the authorities can prepare adequate accommodations. It makes such a difference whether they buy supplies for 30 boys, or 60, that it is urged for all boys who expect to go, to register early.

A few good older fellows, or men, would find a good reception as directors and advisors. The Scout force in Salem has no good men to spare. In fact there are not enough to give adequate direction service, and it is hoped that a few more good leaders may be developed. If any man thinks he is especially capable to help boys, and will go to this summer Scout camp, he will find a splendid testing ground; and he can get on permanently, if he makes good in the camp. Up in Butte, Montana, a camp of 100 men has been formed, to go out and take an intensive course in woodcraft, as training for Scout leadership. Scout Executive Zinser wants a few good volunteers for this summer's camp, as training for later permanent work.

However, the economy of nature, governed by a wise and loving Providence, is so transcendent in its functioning that often things good and beautiful grow smiling from the mire of that which had seemed altogether evil. Wonderful world we're living in. All we need do is to open our eyes.

LUMBER CONCERN ASKS FRANCHISE

Plans to Build Dams and Booms; Specify Expenditure of Half Million

Application for a franchise to build dams and booms and to drive and catch logs and timber on a portion of the Deschutes river and on all of the Metolius and Warm Spring rivers, together with other tributaries which might be used for lumbering purposes, was filed by the River Logging & Lumber company, a Washington corporation, with the public service commission yesterday.

Improvements contemplated by the organization involve the expenditure of approximately $500,000 which will embrace the erection of a sawmill, according to the application. Shear booms and dams also will be built, it states.

It is estimated that these improvements will furnish the means for transporting 6,000,000 feet of timber located on the drainage area of the several streams mentioned in the application.

NEW CORPORATIONS

Martin Hoven, Rebecca Hoven and John L. Storis, of Columbia county, are the incorporators of Hoven's Independent Ferry corporation, for which articles of incorporation were filed with the corporation department here yesterday.

Five thousand dollars is to be the capital stock of the organization and its headquarters are to be at Goble.

Articles of dissolution were filed by the Columbia Timber company and the Harold Investment company, both of Portland.
