First Fatality Occurs—
The first fatality in Oregon this season in connection with fighting forest fires was reported to the state industrial accident commission yesterday. The victim was J. M. Holcomb, who was employed by the Columbia county fire patrol association. He was struck by a snag, and died as a result of his injuries. Mr. Holcomb is survived by a widow and one son. The commission yesterday approved a claim of $16,000 in favor of Mrs. Holcomb and her child. The amount will be paid in monthly installments of $30 to the widow and $8 to the son. The accident happened on July 19. Mr. Holcomb was protected under the workmen's compensation act.

Further Reduction Asked By Parker Stage Line

SILVERTON, Ore., July 28.—(Special to The Statesman.)—At a recent meeting of the city council a franchise granting to the Parker stage line the privilege of the use of the city streets as repealed following the non-acceptance of the franchise by the stage line. An injunction was served upon the city officials Wednesday morning, holding off the enforcement of the ordinance which regulates the operation of stages on the city streets.

The council had fixed the sum of $270 yearly for the Parker Stage line and $230 for the C. & M. Stage line. The difference in amounts was determined according to the business of the two lines.

The council reconsidered after hearing the complaints of the Parker Stage line and reduced the amount to $200 for the Parker Stage line and to $150 for the C. & M. line. The Parker line made an effort to reduce it to $25 per year. Failing in its efforts it brought suit against the city. The C. & M. line paid its franchise.

REHEARING IS VAN WINKLE HOPE

Outcome of Condemnation Proceedings in Supreme Court Not Liked

Attorney General Van Winkle will petition the supreme court for a rehearing in the case of the former state fish and game commission against A. D. Hawk, defendant, and S. S. Mohler, appellant, a condemnation proceeding whereby the state seeks to get control of feeding ponds on Herman creek, Hood River county, for the nurturing of baby fish. About 10 acres of land is involved.

The controversy dates back to about the year 1914, and on Tuesday of this week the lower court for Hood River county was reversed and the case decided against the fish and game commission in an opinion by Justice Bean of the supreme court.

The first step that led up to the controversy was the procuring of a sort of verbal option on the property, owned by Hawk, so the natural feeding ponds might be used to supplement the hatchery at Bonneville. The commission wished to try out the ponds before purchasing them, and this was agreeable to Hawk. While this was being done Mohler secured from Hawk an option on any 10 acres in the 80 acres owned by him and through which Herman creek flowed.

When the fish and game commission informed Hawk that it was ready to purchase, Hawk expressed doubt as to whether he could give a clear title because of the option that had been granted Mohler. As a result, condemnation proceedings were started by the commission. Hawk made no defense and manifested a willingness to take whatever purchase price the jury allowed him. Mohler, however, put up a defense. The lower court decreed in favor of the commission, and Mohler appealed to the supreme court. The supreme court, in the opinion of last Tuesday, overruled all objections made by Mohler, but under an act of the legislature of 1915, withdrawing from appropriation or diversion certain streams along the Columbia River highway, the supreme court held that the Herman creek ponds could not be used for purposes of fish feeding.

In his petition for rehearing, Attorney General Van Winkle will contend that the act of 1915 was intended only to preserve the scenic beauty of streams and falls within view of the Columbia River highway and that use of the ponds for feeding fish would in no way conflict with the law.

PRUNE GROWERS ANNOUNCE WAGES

Meeting Held at Dallas Shows Orchardists Encouraged at Outlook

DALLAS, Ore., July 28.—(Special to The Statesman.)—At a meeting of prune growers held in this city this week for the purpose of ascertaining the price to be paid hands in the prune orchards this fall the following wage schedule was unanimously adopted by the growers:

Dryer help—firemen $4 per day; dryer, $5 per day; help in dryer, $2.50 per day with a 50 cent bonus if the employe stays until the close of the season.

Orchard help—pickers, 6 cents per box, with a 2 cent bonus if the picker stays the entire season; picking, shaking and hauling to be set by grower according to the distance the prunes have to be hauled to the dryer. Drying fruit for outside orchardment 2 1-4 cents per pound, dried fruit.

The growers who attended the meeting were all enthusiastic over the prospect for a large crop this year and it is expected that an effort will be made to have the school board postpone the opening of school a few weeks in order to allow both the pupils and teachers an opportunity to help with the prune harvest.

Many new dryers are being built but with these extra ones there will be practically a 30 day drying season unless bad weather sets in during the picking season to ruin a part of the crop.

IRRIGATION IS GAINING PLACE

Two Applications Filed For Appropriation of Water in Marion County

Irrigation is gradually gaining a hold in the Willamette valley. Among applications for authority to appropriate water filed with Percy A. Cupper, state engineer, is one from J. H. Engeman and Dora Engeman of Silverton, who propose to use the overflow from the Silverton Lumber company for the irrigation of 15 acres near Silverton.

Weeks & Pearline of Salem have filed an application for authority to appropriate water from the Willamette river for the irrigation of five acres near here.

Other applications on file are: By M. M. Bull, of Portland, covering the appropriation of water from Spring creek, tributary of McKenzie river, for irrigation of 40 acres, and for domestic water supply in Lane county. The estimated cost of construction amounts to $1000.

By Fred H. Beckhill, of Gresham, covering the appropriation of water from Wildcat creek for operating a lumber flume in Clackamas county.

By M. F. Stockwell, of Canyon City, covering the appropriation of 20 second feet from Canyon creek for use in operating a hydraulic placer mine, at an estimated construction cost amounting to $30,000.

By Viola A. Lander, of Hamilton, Or., covering the appropriation of water from Long Hollow branch for irrigation of 32 acres in Grant county at an estimated cost of $300.

By J. W. and Claude Moore, of Hood river for the appropriation of water from an unnamed spring and seepage water for irrigation of a 20-acre tract in Hood River county.

By Constance Johnson of Plush, for the appropriation of water from Eagle spring for irrigation of 20 acres and for domestic use in Lake county.

By Frank Silver, of Yachats, covering the appropriation of water from an unnamed spring for domestic use in Lincoln county.
