

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Baby Adopted— If at first you don't succeed, try again. Dr. Henry E. Morris, secretary of the Associated Charities, has proven this maxim once again. Three months ago he advertised through the columns of the Statesman for a baby. Specifications were not numerous but a rather young baby was desired. Last night he had the baby. A five-day old young lady described by the doctor as "one of the prettiest babies he has ever seen" was at his home waiting to be transferred to her new abode. A young couple, without any children of their own will adopt the child. They live several miles from Salem and have been patiently waiting the result of Dr. Morris' advertisement. The child's parents are separated and so the home is especially welcome to the mother of the child. The little girl will be called Juanita Darleen.

investigation by the district attorney's office into the home life of the Austin girl.

The girl, who is said to be attractive, is not charged with committing any wrong and so far as can be ascertained there is nothing against her character.

According to information furnished the district attorney's office, the girl made the vain attempt at ending her life when, it is said, neighbors and the girl's mother started reviewing the case yesterday morning at the Lucas home. It is also said that the mother had severely censured the girl for what the mother is said to term the girl's "past."

The girl is said to have run out of the room, going to the bath room where she locked the door and drank the poison. Medical assistance was immediately called and the girl was soon out of danger.

"I was just tired of it all," the girl said when asked why she had attempted to kill herself.

It is thought that an attempt will be made to find a home for the girl in some private family when the case comes up to be heard Monday.

Hot Weather and Crying Colic

Sunday Health Talk No. 60
By O. L. Scott, D. O.

Mothers suffer as keenly as babies when the little one becomes afflicted with colic. The cry is really a starvation cry, for the child with colic is getting little or no benefit from his food. The trouble may be with the food, but this is rarely true, as every mother knows, for the colic comes even when the utmost care in feeding is being observed.

The real trouble is weakness of the stomach caused by a spinal bone derangement which reduces the size of the spinal nerve opening and pinches the spinal nerves leading to the stomach. When the chiropractor makes the delicate adjustment necessary in such cases the child usually shows signs of improvement at once. In cases of chronic colic in children the child loses flesh and becomes run-down and irritable. Such cases in children are pitiable unless relief is obtained.

UNCLE BEN SAYS:
"Any healthy intellect, Newy, can see that bean-ty which was once skin deep today is only knee high."

Baby Cried for Six Months

"We feel it our duty to say what chiropractic did for our baby. We doctored with her for six months and she kept getting worse. At seven months old she weighed but thirteen pounds and cried night and day. She was getting so thin we expected her to die. Then we heard of chiropractic spinal adjustments and in despair gave it a trial when to our wonder the child began to recover. Today she is well. Chiropractic saved our baby."—Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Marquis, Chiropractic Research Bureau Statement No. 1335-W.
