America gave a slight advantage to the bull side, and there also was more or less evening up for the government report About mid-day, however, hedging sales entered to a moderate extent and brought about a transient settack in price.

Car shortage complaints were a bit more acute than heretofore, and aggregate receipts of wheat at Kansas City, Omaha and St. Louis fell 335 carloads short of the total a week ago. On the other hand, export demand was slow both here and at the seaboard. It was asserted that resellers were offering wheat abroad cheaper than was possible for exporters.

Liberal receipts of corn here, together with anticipated enlargement of the government estimate of yield had a bearish influence off the corn market. Oats were neglected.

Provisions reflected sharp down turns in the price of hogs.
