

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Infant Daughter Dies—The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kerby S. Ross died yesterday. She was just five days old. Funeral services will be held this morning from Webb & Clough's chapel.

Here From Honolulu—Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Larsen of Honolulu, who are touring the northwest, were in Salem yesterday for a short time. Mr. Bailey is commissioner of public lands in Hawaii, one of the biggest jobs in the islands.

Visit Brothers Here—Ira H. Sefton and Mrs. Sefton are here from California visiting the former's brothers, A. W. Sefton and Fred C. Sefton on Statesman street. Mr. Sefton is engaged in educational work in California. He and Mrs. Sefton were recently married and have been touring Oregon by automobile. They will live at Sanger, Cal.

Hop Pickers, Attention—Register now for the best picking and best accommodations with Durbin & Cornoyer, over the J. C. Peasney store. Tents, tables, benches and sawed wood furnished.—Adv.

Letter is Fat—If Ignaz Wetzel, who might expect a letter from Oberkirch, Baden, will call at the postoffice he may find what he's looking for. It's a big fat letter, anyhow; it looks to be chock full of German marks or remarks—of which the latter might be much the more valuable. The letter comes addressed to Mr. Wetzel, "Marion County, Oregon, Nord Amerika," and it looks interesting.

Helps Install Machinery—A. M. Manning, for the past year an employe of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company at Portland, came to Salem this week to assist in the placing of the electric machinery for the big new power plant. He is a graduate of O. A. C., class of 1920, and after graduation spent a year in the General Electric factory at Schenectady, N. Y. He is a college associate of Art McClain of the Oregon Growers.

Artisans Attention—Capital assembly will entertain Al Azar Patrol Thursday evening Aug. 24. All members requested to attend meeting.—Adv.

Will Explain Today—G. B. Benson and C. H. Olmstead, both charged with parking their cars too close to fire hydrants in the city, are to appear before Judge Race, this afternoon to explain. Olmstead put up a $10 bond for his appearance.

Last Concert Friday—The last band concert of the year will be given Friday evening, according to Oscar Steelhammer, director. The program for that evening will be made up of selections requested by Salem persons. Both Mrs. Hall's Parrish Hinges and Oscar Gingrich will sing and any selections which anybody desires sung may be requested by calling either Mr. Steelhammer or John Graber, manager. Band selections may be requested in the same way. The Friday concert is the last of the year, an error in a previous story giving the last concert as next Tuesday.

Collision Reported—In attempting to pass a gravel truck, P. J. Means of Marion was forced to run into the truck to avoid a street car. The truck was in turn forced against an unoffending car belonging to Theodore Witham of route 6, which was parked. The accident happened on State near Eighteenth. The Witham car was completely demolished and the small son of the owner, who was in the car, was thrown out. He suffered slight bruises which it was said would not prove serious.

Protection Asked—Protection from the speeding cars is sought by B. Flynn of Anlauf, Douglas county, in an appeal made to the state highway department. The road is not a public road, he says in the complaint, but a road through his property and used as a public highway. One of his best steers, several pigs and many turkeys have been killed by the speeding cars, he says, and asks to have signs put up regulating the speed of drivers to 12 or 15 miles an hour. He says that if the highway department does not help him he will take up the task himself.

Hug Returns—Superintendent George A. Hug of the Salem schools, and his family, returned the first of this week from a two weeks visit at Ocean Park, Washington.

Yost Not Located—R. Yost, said to be hosiery salesman and guaranteeing delivery of ordered goods within three days, is reported to the police as having disappeared without delivering the articles as agreed. He has not been located.

Rubbish in Way—Word was sent in to the police station last night of a pile of trash on in Chemeketa street that an auto driver had struck and that was dangerous to traffic. The motor patrol went up to investigate and found a double house with no one at home to tell who had piled the stuff out in the highway.

Legal Blanks—Get them at The Statesman office. Catalog on application.—Adv.

Lions Meet Caravan—When the Portland exposition caravan came to Salem Sunday, it found something it has not found anywhere else in all its tour of Oregon—it found a den of Lions in the road waiting for its coming. They were the Salem Lions' club who drove south of town to meet the visitors and escort them to "the best city in the state." The Lions brought them a feather or a hair; and they helped to bring out the big crowd that greeted the visitors, making the Salem visit a notable success. The caravan hadn't had either lions or people to meet them beyond the town line anywhere else in the state, and they appreciated the honor.

Jones Files Brief—Walter B. Jones, Eugene lawyer who was fined $100 as a result of conviction on a contempt of court charge connected with the alleged splitting of witnesses outside the state, and who appealed to the supreme court, filed a brief in the case yesterday. He alleged the case is a "frame up" against him.

Courts Confer—The Marion county court went to Newberg Tuesday to confer with the Yamhill county officers in regard to an inter-county bridge and other matters. W. J. Culver, roadmaster, was one of their party.

Veterans Have Jolly-up—A jolly-up meeting of Hal Hibbard camp, U. S. W. V., was held at the armory Monday night, which was unusually well attended and of more than usual interest. Refreshments were served to make it seem like the holidays they used to dream of when they were 6000 miles away from home and mother's doughnuts and genuine pies were not made in a foundry.

A Classified Ad—Will bring you a buyer.—Adv.

COMMERCE OF WORLD SHOWN

Interesting Magazine of Trade Conditions Received At Local Club

The Salem Commercial club has just received 500 copies of "Commerce Reports," the weekly publication put out by the federal bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

It covers exhaustively, accurately and entertainingly the consular reports from American representatives abroad. Europe, Asia, Africa, Australasia and South America are combed to get business news of value to the American business man.

All Trade News Given.

Does an ebony John Smith or John Doe in the heart of the equatorial jungle desire an automobile or a shirt or a better brand of headman's sword than the common Senegambian retailers have been furnishing him, The American delegate to the jungle potentate writes it in his little book, and tells it to all America.

Does any country need engineers, or sawmill men, or engine operators, or school teachers, or pig iron, or soothing syrup, or cut plug, or wooden nutmegs or anything? The consular attache posts the story off to America and here it is.

The magazine has a definite, instant value even to interior points like Salem. Salem is coming to manufacture many things that eventually find their way abroad. Prunes, cherries, fruits, paper, lumber, wooden manufactures, iron work, wooden goods, are part of the list. In the current report, there is a note on a Spanish dealer who wants to handle American lumber; a Costa Rican firm wants yarns; an India firm wants news print and other papers to handle; a firm in Italy wants Douglas fir lumber. If anybody has anything under the sun to sell in quantity, he is almost certain to find a market for it in some of these foreign countries.

There is a world of interesting fact in the report. For instance, the attache from Brussels says that of the 78,000 houses in Belgium, destroyed or seriously damaged during the war, about 60,000 have been restored; and of the 1100 public buildings likewise damaged, about 800 have been restored.

Italians Shy at Lumber

Another consul writes that the Italians as a nation are astonishingly afraid of fire, and so they build mostly of noncombustible materials. They wouldn't buy house lumber at any price.

The American lover of the Virginia goober or peanut may be interested to know that his favorite confection is now being raised and exported in vast quantities in Senegal, Africa. The transplanted blacks of Virginia are being beaten out of their market by the original bonobos of the equatorial jungle. American companies are now exploring for soil in Angola, Portuguese East Africa. The government of Australia is offering a bonus of 50,000 pounds for the discovery of oil in the antipodean continent, and the public is going wild over a chance to land the double prize.

Italian Filberts Short.

Oregon filbert growers may be interested to know that the filbert crop of Italy, as shown by this report, is only about 50 per cent of normal. Maybe it will boost the filbert business of Salem. The flax crop of Belgium was almost a failure; the plants bloomed out at 10 inches height and it wasn't as good as that of the Willamette valley—but the world must have flax, year after year. Argentine wool will be shorter this year than for many years past and Argentine is the second wool-producing country in the world. This is important news to the Oregon wool grower.

Sample Copies Available.

The whole magazine, coming every week, is full of the most fascinating stories of the world's business. Any one who wants a sample copy can get it at the Commercial club—there are 52 of them every year, and a man could educate himself better than a college president, if he wanted to study them.

More Room is Acquired by the Oregon Growers

The Oregon Growers are making more room for their cannery and prune-handling business at the old Salem Fruit union plant on South High street, by moving out the walnut grading and apple-packing outfits. These go to the Mangis Brothers' warehouse a block west on Trade street, where the Growers have leased a part of the building for the year. All the apples and walnuts handled by the association, will go through this new plant.

The Growers are now running their cannery steadily, though with a moderate force, on blackberries. They will handle local pears as they come in from their patrons, but the local fruit is not quite as ripe as that from southern Oregon and the Yakima country, so they are not yet doing anything with pears.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Steiner received the sad news today of the death of their daughter Mrs. Florence Hiebert of Salem.

During the past 10 days a lot of broccoli has been planted in this community which assisted by the moisture and cool weather is getting a fine start but also the weather seems to be agreeable to aphids and many plants are almost covered with the pest. Fred de Vries received a letter from the chief in entomology from O. A. C. advising him to use kerosene emulsion as the most preferable spray on account of the waxy covering of the aphids. Black leaf 40 has very little effect.

PRATUM NEWS NOTES

PRATUM, Or., Aug. 22.—A son arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kleen last week. He has been named Earl.

The rush at the three warehouses which kept the men busy from early morning till late at night is somewhat over although considerable grain is coming in yet and a lot of grain would go out if cars could be had.

Evergreen blackberries keep almost everyone busy who is not otherwise engaged and unless a lot more pickers are daring enough to go out a lot of fruit will go to waste.

Mrs. Sarah Estruth of San Jose, Cal., was a visitor here Saturday and Sunday with friends and relatives. She came from California to attend the funeral of her sister, Mrs. Anna Beier last Friday.

Joe Ramseyer installed an air pressure water system which gives fresh water from the well all over the yard and house as far as a pipe is connected.

While Alfred Kemp was repairing the roof on his house one day last week he came in conflict with a nest of wasps which for a while got the best of him but he

Lane County Wool Growers Are Sued by Association

EUGENE, Or., Aug. 22.—Suit to compel Henry Knebel and Paul Gamenizid, members of the Pacific Wool Growers' association, to ship their wool and mohair until 1926 through the cooperative organization, has been filed. Attorneys of the association which controls over 50 per cent of the wool and mohair of western and southern Oregon, contend that membership in the association is an obligation to ship through the cooperative group and not to sell to outside dealers.

PERSONALS

Mrs. E. Upmeyer and Mrs. J. B. Litter and son Robert are spending this week at Seaside.

Miss Caroline Wilson left on Sunday for Seabeck, near Seattle, to attend the district Y. W. C. A. conference. She will be away for 10 days.

Paul Farrington, member of the Capital Journal news staff who is now on his vacation, returned yesterday from Newport. He will go to Eugene for a trip up the McKenzie river before resuming his work next Monday.

W. B. Barratt of Heppner, member of the state highway commission, was in Salem yesterday.

Joe Benjamin, assistant attorney general, is in Portland to represent the state in arguments on the motion for withdrawal of the answer of the public service is made of cast iron (not sheet iron)

As a heating machine it is superior to the lighter constructed furnaces just the same as is true in regard to heating stoves. Nobody expects to get the same service from a sheet iron heater that they can get from a good cast iron heater.

The Western cast iron furnace heats quickly and carries the heat evenly. It is easy to regulate and takes a small amount of fuel. The large oblong fire box appeals to all who see it. If you want a pipe furnace let us figure with you as the number of registers makes some difference in the price.

We install both pipe and and pipeless furnaces under a guarantee to satisfactorily heat your home. We have replaced other furnaces with the western and made a big saving on fuel used in the other furnaces.
