Fire Was Out—Thirty thousand dollars worth of fire equipment, driven by more than that worth of grim, fightin' lookin' firemen, came tearing down State street Thursday evening in response to a fire alarm between Commercial and Liberty streets. They found a little automobile that had had a short circuit, standing there in the street. It had almost blazed up into a real flame that some one with a good chew in his face could have put out and had a good spit left for emergencies. Probably he did, for it was already out—as out as Casey at the bat, when the firemen got there. But they brought out the whole $30,000 worth of equipment including the big $12,500 pump. They say it cost the city $50 to make the run. However, Johnny-on-the-spot was there to do his saving if necessary.

Pfeil of 613 Market reported that a boy on a wheel had collided with his auto, and put out one of its headlights. The boy disappeared, and Pfeil didn't know who he was. The boy had turned in no report.

WEIGHS ONLY 103, BUT SHE SMILES; ANIMALS OBEY HER

Weight, 103 pounds; height medium; eyes, blue; face, smiling; features, delicate; and with a step as light as Peter Pan.

That, in a paragraph, describes Mabel Stark, subjugator of tigers, of consorts of that most ferocious of animals—the black panther, and officially recognized as the world's most daring woman trainer of wild beasts.

Were you to meet Miss Stark without knowing her profession you would never guess that she daily risks her life in steel-girted arenas with a mixed group of snarling, roaring jungle "cats." Yet that is just what she does. No other feature of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus furnishes quite the thrill that is experienced when this slip of a girl seemingly skips into the very jaws of the 10 tigers and coal-black panthers that answer to her every command.

"The secret of it is very simple," says Miss Stark. "Keep close in upon the animals you are working and no harm is likely to come to you. Never let yourself be placed upon the defensive; always take the offensive tack. As long as I keep after my animals they back up. If you keep close to a horse heels you are not likely to receive a bad kick, and this in a measure is true of cats. Keep them crowded close and they'll have no room in which to spring. And, most essential of all, keep smiling. To look worried is one way of showing fear, and once that is apparent, serious results are likely to follow."

Trained wild animal acts are to the fore on this season's Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus program, but those patrons who favor a different kind of entertainment will find amusement when the show exhibits here next Saturday, August 26 with the biggest circus ever faced clowns provided for their taken upon tour.

The WESTERN FURNACE
is made of cast iron (not sheet iron)

As a heating machine it is superior to the lighter constructed furnaces just the same as is true in regard to heating stoves. Nobody expects to get the same service from a sheet iron heater that they can get from a good cast iron heater.

The Western cast iron furnace heats quickly and carries the heat evenly. It is easy to regulate and takes a small amount of fuel. The large oblong fire box appeals to all who see it. If you want a pipe furnace let us figure with you as the number of registers makes some difference in the price.

We install both pipe and and pipeless furnaces under a guarantee to satisfactorily heat your home. We have replaced other furnaces with the western and made a big saving on fuel used in the other furnaces.
