Some easy selling which took place on the upward swing of wheat values was ascribed to cash interests here. Declines that ensued failed to last, however, and gossip was current that export business was being under estimated. The amount of wheat acknowledged as having been taken for Europe today was 700,000 bushels, chiefly Canadian.

There was a big trade in corn and the market was strong from the outset but 11th hour bulls were compelled to accept heavy offerings from holders who were in a position to realize profits. Oats were governed by corn. Providons tended upward in line with hogs and grain,
