Water Back in Creek—
Water has been turned back into Mill creek after having been diverted at the Santiam river for two weeks or more, while the foundations were being laid for the new paper mill addition. During this time work on the paper mill power dam in North Salem has been carried on steadily, and also the water company has been putting in its big new water wheel on South Mill creek, between High and Liberty streets. The water company has used electric power for pumping while the water power was off, about 100 horsepower having had to be supplied from the electric service while the water was diverted. The water came back into the stream Friday.

Return From Tokio—
Clarence Davies of Tokio, Japan, and his sister, Miss Florence Davies of Chicago, were guests this week at the home of Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Knauer, of Salem. Mr. Davies has been in Japan for the past five years, and has just returned to the states for a visit.

market. The Nampa organization urges that those who are going to have to buy potatoes during the year, buy them now, and let the growers know just whether to harvest 10 or 20 or 40 per cent of their crop. The rest they fear they may have to leave in the fields to rot because the growers haven't the money to dig and house them on the present precarious market prospect.

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

Warmed up—
Some of the eastern heat vaulted over the Rockies.

The state fair will open two weeks from tomorrow. Getting lively out at the fair grounds.

The two main things the prune growers want now are three or four weeks of fair or even fair to middling weather, and plenty of pickers and other help. Then they will be sitting pretty.

Everything's gone Methodist in Salem for the time being. Might go further and fare worse, too, as any loyal member of that church will agree.

Some one sagely remarks that there is not much chance to arbitrate a thing while each side thinks he can lick the other.

The coal strikes being declared off, all hands will be busy as soon as the orders can be translated into the various languages.

If any prune man thinks he is the busiest person on earth, he may get a slight jolt if he will happen along by the Salem paper mill, where they are building a big addition in about the time it would take a Frenchman to think about getting ready to begin to make the first preparations.

Also, there are some busy times with the people who are getting the campaign ready to raise a million and a quarter dollars for Willamette university. In their bright lexicon there is no such word as fail.

Woman is the clinging vine. Man is the oak. That's a fine poetic line. And no joke.

But the real life we view Plays prude tricks. Many vines are clinging to Awful sticks.

A young man took his girl to the theatre the other night, and the artist sang Caruso's famous song, "O Sole Mio." The young lady ecstatically turned to her escort and said, "Oh, I always did love Hawaiian music."—Wichita Eagle.

The "most beautiful girl in America" seems to be almost as plentiful as the old-timers who welcomed Lafayette.

OLD TIME SALEM FOLKS IN SEATTLE

They Gave a Reception to John G. Wright on His Visit There Last Month

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 7, 1922
Editor Statesman:

In compliance with request I send you a list of old-time residents of Salem who were invited to a reception given to your fellow townsman, John G. Wright, Tuesday evening, August 15, at the Frye hotel in this city by Mrs. J. M. Rosenberg, Mr. Wright's daughter, and Daniel W. Base, who was born in Salem and whose immediate relatives were notable in the early history of that place and of Oregon.

Daniel Waldo, whose name is attached to the title page of the resolution formally by letter to Governor Olcott from Fred C. Baker, secretary of the Roosevelt Highway association. The reason for the withdrawal is that a careful inspection has revealed to the members of the association that the state highway commission is making progress and in the judgment of the association expending the funds wisely.

The governor and members of the commission are thanked for attending the recent meeting at Crescent City, Calif., when the highway relations between California and Oregon were made more cooperative.

Later Thomas Mercer married Heter L. Ward, who then lived near John Minto's place, and her brother, Dillis B. Ward, at that time came over to Seattle with them and has made his home here most of the time since. He is seriously ill now and could not be present at the gathering.

Samuel L. Crawford, a pioneer of Oregon of the 1847 migration, an old-time Salemite, is living in Seattle but is too feeble to get out of evenings.

It may not be generally known that John G. Wright is one of the few survivors who went from Salem into the upper country with the Oregon volunteers. He went through the entire Indian war, and the captains of two companies with which he was then serving were killed by the Indians—Captain Bennett of the Salem company and Captain Hembree of Yamhill.

The writer, then a lad of 12 years, saw the company under Captain Bennett assemble in the street immediately west of the courthouse and in front of the Bennett house on the west side of the street, and saw them begin their march for the upper country. He also witnessed the ceremonies attendant upon the burial of Captain Bennett, when his remains were taken to the cemetery south of the town. I believe it was then called "Odd Fellows" cemetery.

I believe that the old-time residents of Salem look back to that lovely place with as much or more affection than of any coming from their far eastern homes.

There is a well settled determination among those here to have other similar gatherings. If one of the reporters of The Statesman will interview Mr. Wright regarding his visit just now to Seattle and his early experiences in the Indian war, I am sure he can get a good story. If you can use any part of this hastily written note, please do so.

—C. B. BAGLEY

The List Invited

The following is a list of Salem people invited to the party for John G. Wright, August 15, 1922, at Hotel Frye, Seattle: William T. Gray, Ella Chadwick Gray, Judge Stephen J. Chadwick, Emma Plummer Chadwick, Dan Waldo Bass, Sophie Frye Pass, Dr. Caspar W. Sharples, Mrs. Caspar Sharples, Clarence B. Bagley, Alice Mercer Bagley, Harvey S. Jordan, Mrs. Harvey S. Jordan, Laban H. Wheeler, Mrs. Clara Gatch Wheeler, Judge Julius A. Stratton, Laura Adams Stratton, Dr. J. M. Prather, Clara Meacham Prather, Jessie L. Bass, John G. Wright, Ella Wright Rosenberg, Great Rosenberg, Agnes Byrne, Mrs. John E. Young, Lottie L. Young, Mrs. Ludie Warren Wilson, Clara Wilson, Mrs. W. V. Stohart, Sr., George F. Meacham, Nellie Meacham Redington, Mrs. Charles Uszafogve, Alma E. Uszafogve, Cyrus F. ### PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Litter of Forest Grove are Salem visitors this week, attending the Methodist conference. They are staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Litter, 635 Chemeketa. Harold Drake, formerly advertising manager of the Statesman, was in Salem for the week-end. He is advertising copy writer for Hall & Emory agency in Portland now. Mr. and Mrs. Carl T. Pope are spending the week-end in Salem as guests at the J. W. Chambers home.

NEW CORPORATIONS

Articles of incorporation were filed here Saturday by the Portland Flour Mills company, capitalized at $10,000. The incorporators are D. J. Leo, Mansel P. Griffiths and Wallace McCamant. A permit to operate in Oregon was issued to the Russ Investment company, a California concern, capitalized at $500,000. James A. Haryille of Coquille is named as attorney-in-fact for Oregon.

Resolution Censuring Commission Withdrawn

A resolution adopted some time ago by the Roosevelt Memorial Coast highway association, censuring the state highway commission for lack of progress in the Roosevelt highway, has withdrawn the resolution formally by letter to Governor Olcott from Fred C. Baker, secretary of the Roosevelt Highway association.

The reason for the withdrawal is that a careful inspection has revealed to the members of the association that the state highway commission is making progress and in the judgment of the association expending the funds wisely.

The governor and members of the commission are thanked for attending the recent meeting at Crescent City, Calif., when the highway relations between California and Oregon were made more cooperative.
